HOOVER CRITICS SAY HE WABBLES ON ALL ISSUES

Nonsense, Reply His Defenders.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Has President Hoover changed his stand on prohibition, foreign relations, the world court, the tariff and other public questions since his election?

There is no more hotly debated question than this in official Washington today. Scarcely a week passes that some act or utterance of the President does not furnish fresh fuel to the flames of disputation on this subject raging between his critics and his defenders.

According to his critics, President Hoover and Candidate Hoover are hardly recognizable as the same individual. As a candidate, Mr. Hoover was a realist, they say, particularly in dealing with our foreign relations, whereas Al Smith represented the so-called humanitarian view of the high mission of America to save Europe and underwrite world peace.

Hoover and the War Debts.

Mr. Hoover, it is pointed out, was so intensely realistic that he became extremely unpopular with the idealists of the international banking group in Wall street, most of whom, alarmed at the attitude of the Republican candidate, got in line for Smith, secretly if not openly. To the disappointment of the international bankers, Mr. Hoover opposed the cancellation of the war debts owed the United States, came out against a modification of the debt revision terms granted France and condemned private loans by American bankers to other countries for military armament, the balancing of budgets or any other nonconstructive purposes. He advocated action by the government placing the ban on such nonproductive loans.

It was notorious that the international bankers viewed Mr. Hoover with suspicion. He was regarded as unsafe. There was no telling what he would do. He might end up by keeping the United States out of the world court during his first term and out of the league of nations during his second term, thereby wrecking the program of the international bankers.

All Is Changed Now.

Look on that scene and then on this, say the Hoover critics. Mr. Hoover no longer animadverts upon loans abroad by American international bankers for nonproductive purposes. He has placed at the head of his cabinet Henry L. Stimson, protégé of Elihu Root, who time out of mind has functioned as the high priest of money power. He has urged the senate to accept the nullification of its reservations to American entry into the world court which was devised by Mr. Root in collaboration with Sir Cecil Hurst of Great Britain and other leaders in the league of nations. And the international bankers are now solid for Hoover.

Defenders of the President are challenged by his critics to show where he really stands on either the league of nations or the world court. He started out in 1918, say the critics, by urging the return of a Democratic congress to support Mr. Wilson, who was going to Paris to organize a league of nations.

Turns Reservationist Later.

In 1920 Mr. Hoover was an advocate of the league with reservations. Whether he still favors American entrance into the league cannot be determined from his public utterances. He is always careful to say, as in his acceptance speech, that "our people have determined" to keep out of the league, not that he believes we should stay out.

Wabbling on the world court is one of the counts in the indictment of the President by his critics. At first he was for American adherence to the world court with the Hughes reservations, the necessity of which, however, he deprecated. He said in a speech in 1923 that other nations had joined the court "in a slightly stronger degree . . . either because they have greater faith in the processes of international cooperation than America is able to show in its present mood of distrust, or else because harsh suffering has made them more fearful to the menace of war."

Changes Front Again.

Within three years Mr. Hoover was in favor of joining the world court with the senate reservations, which were the Hughes reservations one better. Now he is for the world court with the Root reservation to the senate reservations, which has the effect

TALKIE STUDIO FIRE KILLS TEN, HALTING COMEDY

Die Within 10 Feet of Safety.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Ten persons died today as flames swept through the flimsy trappings of a talkie studio on the bank of the Harlem river. Twenty of the 110 actors, actresses, and technicians in the Manhattan Studios, Inc., building were injuried, two so severely they are not expected to recover. Four of those burned to death were women clad in the spangled dresses of chorus girls.

THE DEAD.

Bisheff, Harold, makeup man; Manhattan.

Kramer, Al, studio handy man; Bronx.

Quinn, Jack; Brooklyn.

Sparks, Jola, 16, show girl; Bronx.

Wilson, Ernest, bookkeeper; address not given.

Death Halts Comedy.

Death came from behind a black velvet curtain in the midst of comedy. It came at the beginning of a workday, just as Harry Delmar was preparing to line up before the cameras the daintiest, prettiest chorus he could find along Broadway. Pathe was filming "The Black and White Revue," a singing and talking picture of life in the black and tan night clubs of Harlem.

Eddie Elkins, the happy-go-lucky jazz orchestra leader, stood ready to wave his baton. Bernard Mahoney, assistant director, shouted the stage call—"Everybody down"—to the chorus girls. It was just 9:30 a. m. and everybouy was sleepy eyed.

The sunlight arc lamps flashed on, the cameras were set, and the make-believe merrymakers moved toward their posts. A piece of red hot carbon sputtered from one of the arc lamps and hissed its way into the folds of the velvet curtain which served as a drop for the cabaret scene. A moment later the curtain was enveloped in flames.

Scattered over the two story barn-like building, some still in their dressing rooms on the balcony, others in partitioned offices, many in the studio, heard only the soft "pouf" of the curtain as it burst into flames. To them it was only the shooting of a flashlight.

Building a Roaring Furnace.

Ten minutes later the building was a roaring furnace, filled with pitch black acrid smoke. Showfolk and office workers were fighting blindly for the two stairways leading to the ground floor and to the street. Downstairs a little group of electricians who vainly tried to check the flames were almost crushed by panic stricken people fighting toward the exits. When rescuers won their way into the seething studio all the dead were huddled in a horrible heap just ten feet from an exit—and safety.

That more of them were not trapped in their upstairs dressing rooms or in the auditorium, as black as midnight with fume laden smoke, amazed the firemen and police. As it was, today's disaster from a standpoint of loss of life is the worst film studio fire in the history of the industry. Today's fire was the third of major importance in 1929 to hit the film industry. It was the only one to result in extravagant loss of life. Hollywood had two great fires, one last January and the other in October.

Three Causes of Deaths.

There were three contributing causes to the heavy loss of life: The rapidity with which the flames raced through the studio ahead of billowing clouds of black smoke; the failure of many to heed the first alarm, the chorus girls thinking it was just a joke to get them to hurry on to the stage; and the panic.

The first warning that any one had was when a worker high up in the "flies" screamed, "Look at the curtain!" Then the flames leaped to the floor and licked at the cabaret scene.

Judge Orders Revocation of City Permit

John F. Cuneo yesterday lost his fight to erect a sixty story tower at Michigan avenue and Randolph street under the amendment to the zoning laws which purported to allow the structure to rise 440 feet without a setback. Chief Justice Thomas Taylor Jr. of the Circuit court in a 75,000 word decision held the amendment illegal because it is ambiguous, virtually confiscates neighboring property, constitutes special legislation in violation of the stability of the zoning laws, and gives the zoning boards of appeals legislative powers.

JUDGE THOMAS TAYLOR JR. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

His ruling reverses a decision of the zoning board of appeals affirming the issuance of a building permit by Building Commissioner Paschen and orders its revocation. The decision is called the most important ruling on zoning since the passage of the law in 1923. In confirming the old 264 foot altitude limit set by the zoning laws for the loop area Judge Taylor has preserved the value of buildings erected under its provisions, and assured future development on lines of equality to all property owners, it was pointed out.

Revocation Delay Is Denied.

Attorneys for Mr. Cuneo were allowed thirty days to file an appeal and sixty days for a bill of exception. A motion to hold up the revocation of the permit until the case is finally decided in the higher court was overruled.

Following the denial of this motion Attorney Barnet Hodes, author of the amendment, served notice on the zoning board and the building commissioner that he will seek an injunction before Judge William V. Brothers today forbidding the revocation of the permit. Judge Brothers refused a similar plea last October, continuing the hearing with the statement that he would be guided by Judge Taylor's decision in the case of the property owners, then pending.

Commissioner Paschen could not be reached yesterday. Assistant Corporation Counsel Frank J. Carr, his attorney, refused to join in the appeal of Mr. Cuneo's representatives, holding that it is his duty to preserve the public interest rather than to uphold the zoning board or the commissioner. He declared that he will fight the injunction demand.

History of Law Reviewed.

In his decision Judge Taylor reviewed the history of the Cuneo amendment. It was introduced in the city council on May 2, 1929, and referred to the council committee on buildings and zoning. On May 15 a notice was published in a limited edition of an afternoon paper announcing that a hearing would be held on June 3. On that date the amendment was passed by the committee, and on June 14 by the council.

Commissioner Paschen issued a permit for the Cuneo building on July 8. This move was confirmed by the zoning board. Immediately architects, engineers, and real estate men joined in condemnation of the amendment. Members of the council committee asserted that it had been slipped through the meeting without their knowledge. At a second meeting they voted to repeal the ordinance, an action later confirmed by the city council.

When Commissioner Paschen failed

LEGAL TRAINING TO CUT LOOSE FROM TRADITION

Science, Not Cases, to Guide Lawyers.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

In one of the most outspoken documents in the annals of American education the authorities of Northwestern university yesterday adopted a six and a half million dollar program for new law professorships, new law buildings, and new methods of teaching the law.

The project is even more remarkable for the radical changes it introduces than for the large amounts of money which its fulfillment will require.

Its sponsors believe that it will convert what was a traditional—although an advanced—law school into a vast engine of social science, and will revitalize, if not revolutionize, the teaching of law.

Make Lawyers Social Scientists.

"It means," added Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern, "that the lawyer will become a social scientist."

In announcing their unanimous adoption of the new program, the development committee of Northwestern's board of trustees says:

"When business and institutional life generally undergo such radical changes as have taken place within the last quarter of a century, government and law must follow.

"The fact that today the great majority of law schools are still training men as though such changes had not taken place is distressing.

Other Schools Advancing.

"It is so distressing that the development of strong schools of law, equipped to handle modern social problems as the medical school is doing in the field of health, is demanded as the next great step in the realm of science.

"This development of an adequate science of law cannot be found in the customs and rules of governmental processes of the days of Coke and Blackstone, nor even of those of Greenleaf, Story, and Cooley.

"Hence in the law school which is to meet the new demands there must be investigation, side by side, by students and teachers into present day problems taken from actual life with all the data obtainable."

How Money Is to Be Used.

These enlarged demands are to be met at Northwestern by enlarged teaching facilities and enlarged plant. To create them these eight expenditures have been specifically decided upon:

Endowment of professorships	$3,750,000
Dormitories	400,000
Library extensions and office space	300,000
Library collection and maintenance	1,000,000
Maintenance fund for entire library	400,000
Student loan fund	200,000
Endowment of publications	150,000
Revolving publication fund	50,000
	$6,450,000

The sum of $900,000, which is to go into new buildings, will be spent on McKinlock campus at Chicago avenue and Lake Shore drive, the university's downtown seat. The dormitory quadrangle will be erected just east of the present law school and will house sixty per cent of the school's students. Rentals are expected to be adequate to its maintenance.

Part of the library extensions will rise to the south of the present library, with wings to the east, and another extension, similar in design to the present library, will face on Chicago avenue.

Drawings Are Ordered.

The creation of new buildings and new endowments and the reorganization of teaching methods, will extend over at least five years.

The program was studied at many sessions and was finally authorized by these members of the development committee under the chairmanship of Melvin Traylor:

Arthur Anderson,	George A. Hollander,
Robert W. Campbell,	Fred W. Sargent,
Albert E. Cross,	Charles H. Schweppe,
Arthur W. Cutten,	Walter Dill Scott,
William A. Dyche,	Charles H. Thorne,
Mrs. Arthur M. Long,	Raymond C. Wheeler.

The financing of the huge project has been so thoroughly considered by the university authorities that President Scott is confident that steady progress will be made throughout the five year period. Further financial details he is withholding for the present.

The program of changes and enlargements at Northwestern's law school will, in part, be put into opera-

BEST PLANS FOR CITY WAR MEMORIAL TO BE PUT ON DISPLAY

The choicest of the 114 plans submitted in the architectural competition sponsored by the Chicago war memorial committee will be exhibited for one month at the Chicago Art institute, beginning Dec. 19. This was announced yesterday by Earl H. Reed Jr., Chicago architect and professional adviser to the committee.

Mr. Reed said the war memorial committee had found the public interest aroused over the contest, the results of which were announced last Sunday. The $20,000 first prize went to Eric Gugler and Roger Bailey, young New York architects, who submitted a design of an open peristyle, to be erected on an island in the lake opposite the Buckingham fountain.

Member of the jury of award were W. Rufus Abbott, Col. Robert R. McCormick, Col. Howard P. Savage, James Simpson, and Col. Albert A. Sprague, lay members; and Ernest R. Graham, John Mead Howells, and Dean Everett V. Meeks of Yale university, professional members. In the article announcing the jury's decision, THE TRIBUNE inadvertently omitted the name of Col. Savage as a member of the jury of award.

BOOKKEEPER WHO DANCED WAY INTO JAIL STAYS THERE

Jack New, 40 year old bookkeeper for the Wood-Davis company, 4654 Lincoln avenue, who taxi danced his way to jail, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday in $5,000 bonds. He is charged with having embezzled $6,000 from his employers, which he spent at 20 cents a minute for taxi dances.

New, who was brought back from Memphis, Tenn., was arraigned before Judge Francis Borrelli in the Felony court. An indirect offer of restitution was made to Lewis Davis, president of the concern.

"I do not want restitution. I am prepared to prosecute," said Davis.

Wounds Two When Wife Spurns Reconciliation

Miller Found Guilty; Given Jail Sentence

W. H. H. Miller, head of the state department of education and registration when Len Small was governor, was found guilty last night by a jury in Judge Jacob Hopkins' Criminal court of conspiracy to sell illegal medical and dental licenses to persons not qualified to practice. The jury imposed a penalty of seven months and one day in the county jail and the maximum fine of $2,000.

It was reported that the jurors were agreed from the start that Miller was guilty, but the penalty caused nearly four hours of debate. The sentences and fines desired by the various factions on the jury were averaged up, it was reported, to arrive at a compromise penalty. The maximum would have been a 1 to 5 year sentence in the penitentiary and the fine.

The age of the tall, gray haired defendant—he is 63 years old—caused some of the jurors to feel sympathy for him, it was said.

Millers' Second Conviction.

The conviction last night makes the second for Miller, who uses the title of colonel but will not say by what authority. In 1923 he was also convicted of conspiracy to license pharmacists illegally. He paid the $1,000 fine imposed by that jury, and Gov. Small demanded his resignation.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows, a holdover from the Crowe regime, said he was satisfied with the verdict and would proceed immediately with the prosecution of the other members of the so-called $1,000,000 diploma mill ring. This makes the second important conviction obtained by Crowe holdovers—Prosecutor Harry Ditchburne accounting for the death verdict for Willis Doody, notorious police character.

Attorneys Near Blows.

Attorneys Samuel Hoffman and Charles Dougherty, both former prosecutors and associates of Bellows, enlivened the proceedings yesterday afternoon when they threatened to engage in fisticuffs with the prosecutors. This came about when the attorneys were exchanging personalities in the closing arguments.

Miller offered no defense to refute the state's evidence, which was to the effect that he had taken money to get licenses for medical and dentistry students who could not pass the state examinations. He seemed disappointed at the verdict, apparently expecting an acquittal or a fine such as he received six years ago. The defense attorneys said they were confident of a reversal in the reviewing court in the event their motion for a new trial is overruled on Dec. 27.

The diploma mill investigation was the first task undertaken by Chief Investigator Pat Roche when he was brought to the prosecutor's office from the government service. He arrested Albert Carl Barron, Chicago representative of the ring, and from his confession Miller and several other were implicated and indicted. L. Mitchell Blaine, co-conspirator with Miller, has skipped his bond.

Barron and Jacob Crane, the printer who made the fake licenses for the ring, have pleaded guilty but have not been sentenced. Harry Goldstine, alias Senator Borowsky, of Springfield, Dr. Robert Lentine of Springfield and Dr. Morris Kalmus, New York dentist, are others under indictment.

Robert Adcox of St. Louis, whose medical license was revoked some years ago, was the chief state witness. He told of making various payments to Miller in behalf of students seeking medical licenses.

"Col." Miller, who described himself as a Champaign county farmer, is now a candidate for Republican nomination for congressman at large. He put in 18 years as a school teacher and principal prior to his entrance in politics.

tion at the opening of the next fiscal year, in July. That program is the work of Dr. Leon Green, who last August succeeded the revered Dean Wigmore, now dean emeritus, as head of the school. The entry of this young man into the educational field of Chicago synchronizes with the appearance on the local scene of Robert Maynard Hutchins, new president of the University of Chicago. They were close friends at Yale and they are men of the same type. Neither is afraid of new ideas and both have a genius for persuading conservative men to adopt new ideas.

Pledged to New Ideals.

The adoptions of Dean Green's ideas by the cautious development committee of Northwestern becomes both an arraignment of the old methods and a pledge to the new.

Law schools are blamed by the trustees for four conspicuous failures to come out of the sixteenth century of Coke and Littleton and into the twentieth:

Failure to study the processes of government as a whole.

Failure to relate those processes to the world about.

Failure thoroughly to align the total subject matter taught, it being at present a helter skelter, a disorderly conglomerate of fragments.

Failure to throw overboard a great deal of material that has served its purpose except as history.

Skimming Process Condemned.

"Most of the stuff that students now study is relatively insignificant and should fall in the interstices involved in the study of any large problem. The intensive study of a few large problems is more valuable and broadening than the general skimming process now employed."

The trustees then pledge the university to new methods in these ringing sentences:

"But it is a healthy sign that leading law school men are up in arms against the short ranged program of the passing school. They are demanding a program more in keeping with the lawyer's present day functions.

"Northwestern university law school is one of two or three schools of the country longest interested in enlarging the scope of the lawyer's training. Many of its experiments have been accepted widely. Without abating the rigor of its insistence upon strictly legal training it now proposes to extend and strengthen its alliances with the fields of business, government, and with other social sciences; to develop further its relations with the bar and the governmental agencies of the community and in every way possible to bring the lawyer's training into harmony with his everyday duties."

How Work Will Be Divided.

In the realization of its new program Northwestern's law school will divide at least 117 subjects, old and new, into nine groups of subjects which will be taught by twenty-four resident professors, associate professors, and assistant professors. The groups and the amounts to be appropriated for the endowment of the professors teaching them are:

Law administration, $650,000; jurisprudence and legal history, $350,000; criminal justice, $450,000; public law, $350,000; international law, $300,000; business organization and commercial law, $750,000; property law, $300,000; personal relations, $300,000 and trade and industrial relations, $300,000. Total, $3,750,000.

Wherever possible all subjects will be taught factually—that is to say by the teachers' and students' participation in the work of local social agencies, commercial and industrial research bureaus, and the courts.

From now on, for example, the moot court as a means of instruction will be a thing of the past at Northwestern. In short, the school will become a legal clinic, with the world of now and here as the prime source of instruction instead of the world of Elizabeth and James I., which instructed Coke and Littleton who, in turn, have been among the prime sources of law instruction ever since.

PEDDLES QUART OF ALCOHOL FOR 5 GALLON PRICE

Police of the North Shore towns last night were hunting for an alcohol peddler, who is reported to have fleeced well-to-do residents in communities from Evanston to Lake Forest. He is said to have sold them cans supposed to have contained five gallons of alcohol, but in reality contained only a quart. Ladd Stachel, a florist of 321 Park avenue, Glencoe, told the police of the bootlegger's operations.

"This fellow came into my shop and tried to sell me what he claimed was a five gallon can of grain alcohol," Stachel related. "He asked $35 for it. I examined the can and found it had a false bottom, containing apparently about one quart of alcohol and four gallons of water. The man fled when he observed I had seen through the trick."

The police last night were trying to find customers of the bootlegger in order to learn his identity.

FORMER BELLBOY FINED $50 FOR SALE TO 2 DRYS

Patrick Fitzgerald, 40 years old, former Bismarck hotel bellboy, indicted under the Jones "five and ten" law for selling a pint of liquor to two dry agents, was fined $50 in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court yesterday when he entered a plea of guilty.

Fitzgerald told the judge that the two agents registered at the hotel several months ago, and that when he took them to their room they asked him to get them a pint of whisky. He complied with the request and the indictment resulted.

Fitzgerald, who is married and has two children, and who has been out of work since his arrest, was given until Jan. 13 to pay the fine.

ENDS LIFE BY GAS.

Harry Wallbrunn, 59 years old, 724 Cornelia avenue, owner of a haberdashery at Sheridan parkway and North Clark street, was found asphyxiated in the kitchen of his home last night. He is supposed to have turned on three burners in the stove with suicidal intent.

GOV. ROOSEVELT OPENS DEMOCRAT WAR TO WIN WEST

Chicago and State Join in Greeting Him.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The farmer and the tariff were his chief theme at a luncheon gathering of the Illinois Democratic clans of all factions. They came from near and far—82 counties at the tables—to give him an ovation as a distinguished Democrat and to get a close range view of him as a presidential possibility in 1932. At times it sounded like snatches from Madison Square Garden and Houston, Tex.

Al Smith's name brought the cheers. So did a mention of the late Roger C. Sullivan, whom the New York governor credited with making possible the nomination of Woodrow Wilson at Baltimore. More cheers were evoked by Roosevelt's tribute to the late George E. Brennan, with whom he worked at the New York and Houston conventions for the nomination of Gov. Smith. Gov. Roosevelt nominated Smith both times.

Politics festooned the day. Two Republicans were pointed to as great Democratic assets this coming election. They were Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, dean of the Washington lobbyists, and his remarks about "backward states," and Senator George Moses and his crack about "sons of the wild jackass."

There's Laughter and Music.

"Thank God for Grundy and Moses," was echoed both by Gov. Roosevelt and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee. Every sally was good for chuckles, guffaws, and belly laughs. And for punctuation, the orchestra kept bursting into "The Sidewalks of New York."

After the luncheon, Gov. Roosevelt went down to the grand ballroom and addressed the convention of the American Farm Bureau federation. He received a warm welcome, and after speaking on needed reform in local township government, he left the farmers singing at the top of their lungs, "East Side, West Side, All Around the Town."

Before leaving Chicago late at night, Gov. Roosevelt and Chairman Shouse expressed a belief that the day's demonstration betokened that the Democrats may have a majority in the next house of congress, and make gains in the senate.

The governor spoke before the Commercial club at a private dinner at the Chicago club last night on the bringing of social agencies into closer contact with government.

But it was the situation at Washington that was the great subject of the luncheon addresses. Gov. Roosevelt said two main problems before the country were agriculture and combinations of industries.

"It is my conviction," he said, "that the people are angered and disgusted at a Republican party whose leaders meet ostensibly to relieve the farmer and then proceed to attempt to line their own pockets with an exorbitant tariff."

He said the agricultural question "cannot be answered by a mere money lending organization."

Enter Grundy and Moses.

Then came the introduction of Mr. Grundy and Senator Moses.

"The attitude of those who sit at present in power," said Gov. Roosevelt, "was beautifully expressed by that astute collector of their campaign funds, the distinguished Mr. Grundy. 'What right,' said he, in effect, 'has the west to attempt to curb the tariff rates demanded by our great protected industries in the east? Pay no attention to the demands of the backward states.'

"'Backward states' was hardly a term to use, for these states of the west are generally known as the 'backbone of the nation.'

"I wonder how our Republican friends were so lucky in the past in not having more Grundys speaking their minds.

"If I were to think on selfish lines and regarded it as a mere partisan matter, I'd say, 'Thank God for Grundy.' And I'd say, 'Thank God for Senator Moses.' But that would not be right to do, for we must view it as Americans, not as partisans. So I hope the governor of Pennsylvania will not appoint Mr. Grundy as senator. I'm talking as an American, not as a Democrat."

Gov. Roosevelt, in speaking of Senator Moses, referred to the Biblical story of Balaam and his ass, while the banquet hall rocked with laughter. He said:

"The attitude of the owners of the majority machinery has been summed up by Senator Moses—not the Moses of the bulrushes or the tablets of stone. He spoke of progressive minded senators as 'sons of wild jackasses.'

"Be that as it may, let me remind the distinguished senator from New Hampshire that it was to Balaam's ass that God granted the miraculous gift of sudden speech to warn his master from proceeding further on a path that led to irretrievable destruction."

Says Industries Are Favored.

In dwelling upon the "machine age," Gov. Roosevelt said the greatest of the inequalities between one industry and another is the one between the industrialist and the agriculturist.

"We have favored in our legislation," he said, "those who produce and use the machines which bring us luxuries, as against those who produce the food which keeps us alive.

"Because we have discovered that combinations of manufacturers employing hundreds of thousands of men can produce things which make for our ease at prices within our incomes and in so doing can produce millionaires at the top and better paid workmen at the bottom, we have without much thought given our tacit approval to such combinations.

"But a farmer cannot be exploited or bonded or united into stock companies, or be made the subject for this new cause for consolidation and combination. It has only been the recent realization that if the farmer starves today we will all starve tomorrow that has brought him prominently before the attention of the public at all. Now we realize this matter must be attended to if we are to go forward safely."

Public Utilities Discussed.

The public utilities were next taken up by Gov. Roosevelt, who said they should be under closer governmental control.

"Because they have seemed, at least, to bring prosperity, comforts, and luxury," he said, "it has become unfashionable to speak even a whisper of warning against the danger of letting them eventually assume the mastery of us all.

"Let us make no mistake. Public utility corporations must never be our masters, but our servants—well paid as all good servants should be, but our servants still."

The New York governor argued that the conservatives are Republicans and the progressives Democrats.

"I'm a believer in government by humanity and not in government by blue print or slide rule," he said.

"The conservatives are those who believe things are good enough as they are and should be let strictly alone. These conservatives have naturally drifted into the Republican party and in the last 20 years have assumed control of its machinery.

"Because their personal fortunes are tied up in industrial enterprises and have been enormously augmented by these industrial combinations they have used this party control to suppress any serious effort of government to change the existing order.

"It is they who are responsible for this neglect of agriculture, for this tender handling of all industrial questions. To this comparative handful of men even to speak of 'regulation' is rank socialism, and to attempt to raise the vast industry of farming to their level of prosperity is a thing only to be mentioned in campaign platforms to catch the so-called 'farmer vote.'

"What hope of real relief can there be under the obedient legislative representatives of a party led by men who think like Mr. Grundy?"

Gov. Roosevelt wound up with a declaration that if the Democratic party gets to work in earnest "we will see a Democratic congress elected next fall."

Governor Holds Reception.

Before the luncheon Gov. Roosevelt sat in an easy chair and held a reception for an hour and more. Democrats who first saw him at the New York convention in 1920, when as a sufferer from infantile paralysis he had to be carried in an invalid chair and made his way on crutches to the rostrum to nominate Al Smith, congratulated him on his physical improvement. He moved from group to group on the arm of a New York state trooper.

Thomas F. Donovan, national committeeman for Illinois, was master of ceremonies. Among those at the speakers' table were W. G. Bierd, head of the Chicago and Alton railroad; Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; Charles Vopicka, Russell Whitman, Edward N. Hurley, Edward J. Kelly, James Hamilton Lewis, Peter A. Waller, Anton J. Cermak, Bruce A. Campbell, William L. O'Connell, and Edward J. Glackin. After the Commercial club dinner, Gov. Roosevelt left just before midnight for Albany.

Shouse Tells Democrat Plans.

As chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, Mr. Shouse told the Democrats what was being done in putting the national organization on an all the year around basis.

"In Illinois nominate everywhere for congress and the legislature the best men you've got," said Mr. Shouse. "Then get behind them. Illinois and no other state is hopeless from that standpoint."

Mr. Shouse also prodded Mr. Grundy.

"Joseph R. Grundy," he said, "did more to drive home to the people the basic fact of how the Republican tariff is made than the Democratic party could have done in ten years.

"The part our committee has played has been merely to call to the attention of the country the patriotic service the Democratic senators and the Progressive wing of the Republicans are doing. The response from the country has been so enthusiastic that the administration wing has become the minority of the senate permanently."

BALTIMORE MAYOR, 9 OTHERS INJURED IN AN ELEVATOR CRASH

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mayor William F. Broening and nine other persons, some of them city officials, were severely shaken, but not seriously injured, when an elevator in the city hall snapped a cable and fell three floors this afternoon.

The mayor was the most seriously injured of those in the car, but tonight disregarded orders of physicians and attended a banquet. He suffered injuries to his head, ankles, and stomach.

Charles F. Goob, city engineer, also a passenger on the elevator, said the car dropped from the third to the first floor before being halted by its safety catch and then rebounded half way to the second floor, being held there and jamming shut the doors.

Firemen forced the doors and removed the passengers.

SOCIETY MAN, ANOTHER'S WIFE DIE TOGETHER

Found Side by Side Slain with Pistol.

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Henry Crew Crosby, 32 years old, member of a socially prominent Boston family and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan, and Mrs. Josephine Roche Bigelow, 22, the wife of Herbert Bigelow, a postgraduate student at Harvard, were found dead, each with a bullet wound in the head, in the studio apartment of Crosby's friend, Stanley Mortimer Jr., a portrait painter, on the ninth floor of the Hotel des Artistes, 1 West 67th street, at 10 o'clock tonight.

The couple had died of gunshot wounds in what Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, described as a suicide pact. Crosby and Mrs. Bigelow lay fully dressed in bed. The apartment is occupied by Stanley Mortimer Jr., a portrait painter and close friend of Crosby.

Woman Shot First, Belief.

The woman had died of a bullet wound in the left temple. Crosby had bullet wounds in the right temple and the right side. The man clasped the woman with his left arm. In his right hand, according to the police, was a Belgian revolver.

The police investigating the case worked on the theory that Crosby had shot the woman, then turned the gun on himself. They left no notes and the police were unable to gain any information from Mortimer which would supply a motive.

Door Is Battered Down.

Mortimer said that at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he had lent the key of his apartment to Crosby, who was the son of Stephen Van Rensselaer Crosby of Boston and is listed in the Boston social register as having lived at 19 Rue de Lille, Paris. After lending Crosby his key, Mortimer said, he left. He returned to his apartment about 10 o'clock, but was unable to gain entrance, the door being locked on the inside. The painter then summoned the superintendent of the hotel, who broke in the door with an ax.

The police said Mrs. Bigelow was married to the postgraduate student last June. They said she was the daughter of Arthur Rotche of 197 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and that she recently had come here to visit a family named Burgess at 1192 Park avenue.

DEPUTY BAILIFF SEIZED AS JURY SUMMONS FIXER

Deputy Bailiff William Scanlan was arrested yesterday on orders of Sheriff Traeger and charged with attempting to fix a jury summons which he was to have served on W. H. Beam, a member of the Board of Trade. Scanlan will be arraigned today on a charge of contempt of court before Circuit Judge Klarkowski, to whom the summons was returnable.

On Monday night Scanlan appeared at Beam's home at 2348 Geneva terrace with the jury summons. When Beam expressed his dislike for service Scanlan is alleged to have suggested that the summons could be fired. Beam made an appointment for the next day in his office in the Insurance Exchange annex, according to the charge.

Scanlan is alleged to have suggested that Beam place $10 in an envelope—$5 for Scanlan and $5 for his office. Beam notified the jury commission. When Scanlan appeared to take the envelope he was arrested and stripped of his star.

I. C. TRAINS KILL PEDESTRIAN, HIT CAR AT CROSSING

Autoist's Injuries May Prove Fatal.

A crowd of passengers who had just alighted from a west bound train at 6:20 p. m., saw three of the six coaches roll over the body of Frank Burke, 55 years old, 6900 Bennett avenue.

Burke, a building contractor with offices at 35 South Dearborn street, was the first man off the train. Failing to judge the speedy starting of the train he ducked under the gates and was ground to death as it dashed forward.

Train Hits Auto.

The crowd had been swelled to 1,500 when, a few minutes later, an east bound train, slowing down from 60 to 30 miles an hour for the stop, struck the automobile of Roscoe R. Stern, 35 years old, 337 West 65th street.

The impact hurled the car 150 feet and Stern was lifted from the wreckage, injured internally. Surgeons at the Jackson Park hospital said he had scant chances of surviving.

There was a dispute whether the crossing gates were lowered when Stern drove upon the rails. Reuben Mills, 7023 Jeffery avenue, the gateman, was positive he had lowered the gate, but scores of persons who telephoned the newspapers asserted the long wooden arm was straight in the air when the train struck the auto.

The gate had been broken off at the tip, but accusers of Mills said the damage was done after the crash when the gateman sent the sticks down with a thump. Mills was instructed to appear today at the inquest over Burke's body, although there was no question but that he had lowered the gates before the pedestrian was killed.

Bundesen Is Witness.

Coroner Bundesen and Ald. Clement A. Nance of the Seventh ward were on the scene a few minutes after the accident. Ald. Nance telephoned to THE TRIBUNE that he had submitted to the corporation counsel one week ago an ordinance compelling the Illinois Central trains to move no more than 5 miles an hour on 71st street until the tracks have been depressed.

"I knew the ordinance was unconstitutional, but I hoped it might go to the council and perhaps throw a scare into the railroad officials," Nance said.

Records at the Grand Crossing, Woodlawn and South Chicago police districts, all bordering on the street level tracks of the Illinois Central, indicated that at least 20 pedestrians and motorists have been killed by trains on the South Chicago division this year.

Eight deaths caused by automobile accidents increased the county motor toll this year to 952. The victims:

John Maites, 60 years old, 4846 North Paulina street. He died in the Ravenswood hospital of injuries incurred in an auto accident at Ashland avenue and Ainslie street. George Felton, 5061 North Damen avenue, driver of the car, was arrested.

Miss Callie Williams, 24 years old, colored, 4850 South Dearborn street. Struck Saturday night at 61st and State streets, she died in the Provident hospital.

Mrs. Blanche Lewis, 23 years old, 2761 Warren avenue. Killed last night by a truck at Halsted street and Washington boulevard. Des Plaines street police arrested the driver, Bicholas Matonzi, 21 years old, 927 South Wood street.

Mrs. Rose Rosenweig, 69 years old, 8135 Rhodes avenue. Died of a skull fracture suffered on Nov. 16 when a car struck her at 81st street and South Park avenue.

Fred Luich, 50 years old, 5518 South Albany avenue. Died yesterday of injuries incurred Monday in an accident at 51st street and Western avenue.

Joseph Farrera, 35 years old, 662 North Racine avenue. His body was found by highway police at Elmhurst and McDonald roads, two miles north of Des Plaines. Police concluded he was the victim of a hit and run motorist.

Mrs. Libby Bleshll, 61 years old, 4913 North St. Louis avenue. Died early this morning at the Norwegian American hospital of injuries suffered on Sunday when she was struck at California and Wabansia avenues by an automobile driven by Thomas Trooen, 2926 Indiana avenue.

Unidentified man, about 55 years old. Died in the Holy Cross of a skull fracture incurred when he was struck by a car at 63d street and Hamlin avenue. The motorist, Walter Peterson, 6158 South Kolmar avenue, took him to the hospital. The name L. M. Currey was sewed in the victim's clothing.

TWO ROB CIGAR STORE.

Two armed men, one wearing a red knitted cap and the other a derby, held up Robert Leventhal, manager, in a United Cigar store at 1800 West Lake street, yesterday and escaped with $50 in a battered touring car.

Grade Crossing Death Stirs South Shore Residents

Victor A. Fantus, 45 years old, 6523 North Ashland avenue, a real estate salesman, was found dead of automobile gas last night in the garage at the rear of his home.

WOMEN DOOMED BY RADIUM SEE VICTIM BURIED

First of 5 Afflicted with Poison Is Interred.

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—One chapter was finished today in the grim story of radium poison. Mrs. Quinta MacDonald of Orange, N. J., who died as a sacrifice to industry, was buried in Rosedale cemetery in Orange. She was one of the five women employed by the United States Radium corporation to paint luminous dials on watches who learned 16 months ago that they were afflicted with radium necrosis—and incurable.

The progress of the disease caused gradual wasting away of bone tissue, and the funeral itself had a grim and tragic cast today.

At the service were the four women who, doctors say, also must die. They were Mrs. Albin Larice, sister of Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Edna Hussman, Miss Grace Freyer, and Miss Katherine Schaub.

Settlement Made by Company.

These five women worked side by side, moistening their paint brushes in their mouths and thus taking into their systems the dread radium salts. They were side by side in court when later they sued for damages.

The terrific work of radium was unknown when they were working with it. The testimony of doctors that their lives would be a matter of months brought a private settlement from the company that employed them. Each received $10,000 cash, a pension of $600 a year, and life time medical treatment. It appeared last summer that Mrs. MacDonald had improved, but the improvement was only temporary. This fall her relapse was clearly evident, and a month ago physicians said that death approached.

One Woman Faints.

Each of the four survivors today was dressed in a warm fur coat bought from the proceeds of the settlement.

The quartet walked together to the grave and watched the coffin lowered. Three of them regained their automobiles with composure, but the strain was too much for Mrs. Schaub. She fainted, and it required several minutes to revive her. Then she was driven off with her companions.

Ban on Family Car at Funerals Safety Rule—Renters, Drivers

"There are some customs in Chicago which a stranger might think a little bit odd," said R. K. Sloan, secretary of the Chicago Motor Liverymen's Association, Inc., "but any one who appreciates the modern note in funerals and the traffic question can understand the arrangements our association has to make."

The specific Chicago custom Mr. Sloan alluded to was one introduced by his association, which he says has had great success. Briefly, it is that the family of the deceased, the pallbearers and, in funerals marked by fraternal rites, members of the lodge or society which is to perform the rites, must ride in automobiles hired from the Chicago Motor Liverymen's Association, Inc.

Livery Cars in Front.

A TRIBUNE reporter, investigating the situation, called on Mr. Sloan and at the office of the Chicago Auto Livery Chauffeurs union, local No. 727, J. A. Gavin, president of the Chicago Undertakers' association, with offices at 77 West Washington boulevard, an association not affiliated with the liverymen's association, also was asked what situation existed.

"It's just this—the family and relatives can't ride in their own cars unless they want to be pushed to the rear of the procession, and the undertakers can't hire any automobiles except those of the Chicago Motor Liverymen's association," said Mr. Gavin. "If they do, and other cars with their drivers appear, all the association cars turn around and go home."

Union Trustee Explains.

At headquarters for the Chauffeurs' union, 220 South Ashland avenue, a card game was halted while the matter was explained.

"It's a rule of the Liverymen's association," said Edward Gale, trustee. "Our men are hired by the association to drive their cars, that's all. It's for the sake of safety. Lots of private automobile drivers don't know funerals have the right of way, and they stop at red lights. That lets some fellow crash the line."

Mr. Sloan explained that the modern hearse was so much like an ordinary limousine that unless Chicago Motor Liverymen's association automobiles, marked with neat little purple and white flags bearing the association monogram, preceded and followed the hearse, the average motorist would not know he was approaching a funeral.

He did not agree with Mr. Gale, though, in the matter of stop lights.

"What if the family of the deceased insisted on using their own car and chauffeur?" he was asked.

"Why, it would just be unfortunate," he said amiably.

"You mean they would be shunted out of the way, that the liveried cars would push in ahead?"

WIFE SUES CIGAR MERCHANT FOR 2D TIME IN 6 WEEKS

Mrs. Georgia Gene Schwartz, 415 Aldine avenue, yesterday filed in the Superior court her second suit in six weeks against her husband, Schuyler C. Schwartz, wealthy cigar dealer. She asks separate maintenance. The latest bill follows Schwartz's alleged failure to comply with the terms of a reconciliation effected three days after she brought her first action last Nov. 2, charging that her husband has thirteen automobiles and a different sweetheart for each one of them.

The Schwartzes were married in New Albany, Ind., two weeks after his first wife, Mrs. Maude E. Schwartz, won a divorce before Superior Judge Gemmill on the same charge last April. In her first bill the second Mrs. Schwartz charged that she was deserted on Oct. 15 and alleged cruelty. This suit was filed by the law firm of Socrates & Davis, who also represented the first wife.

The second bill, filed by the same firm, repeats the allegations of the earlier action. It further states that a reconciliation was effected shortly after the bill was filed when Schwartz promised to sell his cars and forget his sweethearts. Mrs. Schwartz declares that after five days of listening to promises made over the phone she learned that her husband made no attempt to sell his cars and that he has not returned to her.

MEMPHIS CURE FOR DEBT CITED IN CITY'S CRISIS

State Took Charge, Fired Spending Officials.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A special session of the legislature has been urged as necessary to obtain a permanent remedy for the financial maladies eating at the vitals of the local governments. No one has yet outlined what the legislature should do.

The Tennessee legislature has set a precedent for a course of treatment, which has the merit of having been effective. Memphis became financially involved, as is Chicago. The Tennessee legislature, in effect, declared Memphis a bankrupt, and appointed the equivalent of receivers.

Pass Three Laws.

The legislature passed three laws. The first repealed the city charter of Memphis. The second established, in place of the city of Memphis, a new unit of local government—the taxing district of Shelby county. The third law provided for the administration of such taxes as were due the abolished city, in the interests of its creditors. All this happened back in 1879, but with a few modifications the system then established lasted until 1910.

Conditions in Chicago now are not much different from those which writers attribute to Memphis then.

Memphis was bankrupt. Attorney Silas H. Strawn three days ago characterized certain local governments as "broke." This was before city and county officials who did not question his description. Frank J. Loesch referred yesterday to the "insolvency" of Cook county at a Stevens hotel luncheon. Others have referred to local governmental finances as "desperate," "a crisis," and as "approaching chaos."

See Parallel Scandals.

Memphis, just a little while before its collapse, had a paving scandal. It was charged that large sums, for that day, had been squandered on pavements. Chicago has its expert fees, millions paid in the windening and opening of thoroughfares. A few months back several suits charged exorbitant prices were being paid for pavements, and a little while before was the street repair contract.

Of the river cities Memphis was known as the "Hip Hip Hurrah" town. Chicago has had much horn tooting.

And Then the Alibi.

The preamble of the petition asking the legislature to abolish Memphis charged "misgovernment and fraud, oppressive taxation and unwise expenditures." It further charged "the creation of enormous corporation debts of which not more than one-fourth of the actual value to the dollar was received."

On top of this came the yellow fever plague. Memphis politicians charged all of their difficulties up to yellow fever. By coincidence, Chicago officeholders are now charging nearly all of their difficulties to the reassessment of real estate, and it is an important factor just as yellow fever was to Memphis.

The bonded indebtedness of Memphis at the close of 1878, according to Keating's history, was $3,700,000 and its floating debt over $2,000,000. The Memphis population was then said to be around 45,000, the federal census "now" 40,226 in 1870. Its floating debt per capita was only a fraction of what Chicago's is now estimated to be—Chicago's aggregate now being placed at 200 million dollars.

Scrip Becomes Worthless.

Prof. Thomas Harrison Reed of the University of Michigan in his history of municipal governments says that the yellow fever epidemic was "the culmination of a series of misfortunes which reduced the city of Memphis to complete prostration."

Then the legislature stepped in, after being petitioned to act. After abolishing the city government and shoving the office holders out, it took over taxation. It prohibited city authorities to "issue bonds, notes, scrip or other evidence of indebtedness."

Most of the functions of an ordinary city government were placed in a board of three fire and police commissioners, one appointed by the governor, one by the Quarterly court, and one elected by the people.

Resemble Local Powers.

The "legislative council of the taxing district" was made up of the fire and police commissioners and the board of public works and the "board of health" was the police chief, a health officer, and a physician. The powers conferred upon this organization for safety, health, and convenience are much like the Chicago city charter powers on those subjects. One law vested "all necessary judiciary authority" in the president of the board of fire and police commissioners (which was the one appointed by the governor) to hear and determine all cases of offenders against the ordinances or tax laws. All the property of the city was transferred to the taxing district.

After two years the two boards were elected. For a summary of the results accomplished an article by W. J. Kennedy in Southern Bivouac is recommended.

Prof. Reed of Michigan says that the United States Supreme court "has shown a steady purpose to leave state legislatures free to deal with cities at their discretion." There is a Michigan decision which asserts there is an inherent right of local self-government which the legislature must respect. Prof. Reed says that that view has been "followed only in Indiana, Kentucky, Iowa, and for a period by Nebraska."

Strawn Names Citizens.

Seventy-six private citizens have been selected to help Cook county's local governments. They are to meet tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Mid-Day club. The list of those invited, as given out yesterday by Attorney Silas H. Strawn, is as follows:

Mr. Strawn is collecting the balance sheets of the city, school board, county, sanitary district and other local governments. A summary of these will be presented to the meeting.

City Spending Unauthorized Funds, Aldermen Are Told

Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic federation, told the city council finance committee yesterday that officials of the fire and electrical departments are evading limitations placed by the council last June on supplemental appropriations.

In the electrical department, Sutherland said, $139,000 was transferred from the street lighting account to the construction and maintenance account, while in the fire department $58,000 was transferred from the fuel account to a number of others. These tranfers, he said, were authorized by the council on the recommendation of the finance committee itself.

According to Sutherland these fund transfers enabled the two departments to spend $187,000 on the supplementry budget program for which the city council last June refused to authorize expenditures unless additional revenues were forthcoming. The bills, unpaid because of the transfers of these funds, will be carried over until next year.

World Abolish License Bureau.

Sutherland urged the abolition of the city's license department, stating that it would be deplorable to continue its activities while making cuts in the police and fire departments.

Health Commissioner Kegel protested the committee's proposed cut of $578,240 in his department, declaring that it was 40 per cent less than his requirements. He was told to pare his 1929 appropriation figure by that amount in any way that would injure his department the least.

Operation of the municipal airport will be impossible next year with $61,000, which is equal to the 1929 appropriation, according to Walter Wright, secretary of parks, playgrounds and beaches. He said $32,000 is needed to put the runways in the same condition they were a year ago. Either the beaches or the playgrounds will have to be closed unless the committee gives his bureau more money, Wright stated.

More Money for Cleaning.

After the appearance of Joseph J. Butler, deputy superintendent of streets, the aldermen decided they would have to set up more than $300,000 for the dumping of garbage. Butler approximated this item for next year at $925,000.

State's Attorney Swanson sent a letter to the county board yesterday in which he agreed to a constricted budget for his department next year, but warning the commissioners that the functioning of his department may be crippled seriously. His office has been subjected to the ten months service basis which is in effect a 17 per cent reduction in salaries.

MAURICE COSTELLO SUED BY MUSICIAN FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Vivienne Sengler, 25, musician and artist, today filed suit against Maurice Costello, stage and screen actor, for $100,000, charging breach of promise.

Miss Sengler, who said she was a former co-ed at the University of California, and lived in San Francisco and New York, alleged Costello, father of Dolores Costello, wife of John Barrymore, and Helene Costello, prominent motion picture actresses, proposed to her in Stockton, Cal., Sept. 16, 1928. At that time, her complaint stated, they mutually agreed to be married April 22, 1929.

Costello was a matinee idol in New York twenty-five years ago and deserted the stage to pioneer in motion pictures. He was divorced in 1927 from Mrs. May Costello, who died this year.

Costello denied there ever had been any understanding between him and Miss Sengler. He termed the filing of the complaint as "an attempt to shake me down."

TEACHER SLAIN BY A BOY PUPIL, LATEST THEORY

Police Hide Name of Newest Suspect.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—A 20 year old student, inflamed with jealousy after the sudden blasting of a classroom romance with his attractive 35 year old teacher, may have clubbed Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, head of the languages department of the Rockford High school, to death in her apartment last Sunday.

Police worked upon such a theory tonight in their investigation of the murder. They were reported to have been given the name of one of Miss Gummersheimer's pupils and told that this youth had professed a mad love for her and that she, to some extent, encouraged his attentions.

Then, when this student discovered that his first love had been corresponding with other men, receiving fervent love letters from them, his anger burst beyond bounds, the police were told.

Name Is Kept Secret.

They kept the name of the student secret because the story went no further. No one could be found who had seen the young man near the school teacher's apartment on the night she was murdered. And the youth had a good alibi, according to rumors.

State's Attorney William D. Knight today released Dr. Floyd D. Leach, hermit dentist, who previously had been the state's only suspect. Information from the prosecutor's office was to the effect that the state believed so strongly in the latest theory that they considered Dr. Leach exonerated of any connection with the murder.

The slain school teacher, her acquaintances said, had occasionally been annoyed by the impulsive attentions of some of her older students. Police admitted that they had inquired into the actions of one 15 year old boy who attempted to embrace her in the classroom one day. They quickly decided that this boy was too young to have had any connection with the case.

The state's attorney today questioned Miss Lois Morris, high school teacher, who lived with Miss Gummersheimer in an apartment until last May. She denied reports that she had broken with her roommate after a bitter quarrel.

So perturbed was Miss Morris over the questions thrown at her that she appealed to Attorney Roy Brown, who is also counsel for the school board, to represent her. Attorney Brown insisted that Miss Morris had told him nothing more than she told the state's attorney. He admitted that Miss Morris had expressed fear and said he has advised her to move from the apartment where she lives alone.

Enter a Lame Foreigner.

The police also were inquiring into reports that a slim, dark haired man of foreign appearance, who walked with a limp, arrived in Rockford on Saturday, the day before the murder occurred, and inquired his way to the apartment building in which Miss Gummersheimer lived.

"A hundred persons might have killed her," said Prosecutor Knight. "With her knowledge of French, Spanish, and German, she had wide and varied acquaintances. Then, there are her students."

$2,500 Idle in Belgian Diamond Trade Slump

BRUSSELS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Approximately 23,500 persons are now idle as result of reduced working hours in the diamond industry, made necessary by a sharp falling off of a demand for gems, following the collapse of prices on New York and continental stock exchanges. The loss in wages was estimated tonight at about $400,000 weekly. Thus far 145 gem establishments in Belgium have been affected.

MRS. ELLA MERSMAN.

Mrs. Ella Mersman, who, as secretary to three United States commissioners, has handled 10,000 dry law violation cases, declared yesterday that the national prohibition law cannot be enforced, and backed her opinion by citing cases ranging from small "blind pigs" to huge conspiracies. Mrs. Mersman resigned yesterday.

"I have seen many a bootlegger arrested one week, released on bond, and then arrested again the next week on a second and third charge," she said. "For every bootlegger who is arrested there are ten to take his place."

BOY TRYING TRIP TO NORWAY HELD AT SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—A 15 year old orphaned Chicago boy, found today by police as he emerged from an abandoned shack on the outskirts of this city, en route to Oslo, Norway, is puzzling Judge William E. Miller, probation officer.

The boy is Stuart Allen, who says he is a junior in the Lake View High school in Chicago. He is being held in the county jail. Stuart has a knowledge of Einstein, of church history and theories of philosophy and psychology. He said he ran away to join his aunt, Miss Anna Brunn in Norway. His immediate goal is Yonkers, N. Y., where he hopes to get help from the wife of Jack Britton, former boxing champion, who, Stuart says, was his dead mother's dearest friend. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. Gaillord Allen.

"When my mother and father died during the influenza epidemic in 1918, in Los Angeles," said the boy, "I was taken care of by my grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Peterson, who later moved to Chicago. We lived at 1548 Wolfram street. Grandfather died in 1922 and grandmother on Oct. 11 of this year.

"The woman named in the will to take care of me is Miss Jennie Nelson with whom I lived at 3451 Burling street in Chicago. I got good food and everything, but when Miss Nelson would have company she would talk about my grandparents and I couldn't stand that so I left."

Gene Oliver, Ellis, and Capone Are Arraigned

Gene G. Oliver, a member of the county board of assessors; Oliver J. Ellis, Chicago Heights slot machine operator, and Ralph Capone appeared before Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday for preliminary arraignment on tax fraud charges and were given until Friday to file demurrers to the indictments. Oliver pleaded not guilty; the others made no pleas. The three were indicted separately, Capone for concealing assets in making income tax payment, and Oliver and Ellis for failing to make payment.

U. S. INDICTS CRISSINGER ON FRAUD CHARGE

Ex-Federal Reserve Head Faces Trial.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Daniel R. Crissinger, former governor of the federal reserve board and former controller of the currency, was indicted today by the District of Columbia grand jury on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, chairman of the house committee on District of Columbia affairs, also was indicted.

Mr. Crissinger was a director and one of the active officials of the F. H. Smith company, a local concern engaging in the financing of real estate and construction operations which has been under fire for some time. Representative Zihlman was a director until recently.

Crissinger Harding Man.

Mr. Crissinger was one of the conspicuous members of the Ohio "gang" brought to Washington by the late President Warren Harding. He was one of Mr. Harding's closest friends and, although a Democrat, was appointed by him as controller of the currency at the beginning of his administration. He had been a lawyer and a banker in Marion, O., Mr. Harding's home town.

After serving from 1921 to 1923 as controller of the currency, President Harding elevated him to the governorship of the federal reserve board, succeeding W. P. G. Harding, who had been under fire in connection with the agricultural deflation of 1920.

Retires Under Fire.

Retirement of Mr. Crissinger from the federal reserve board took place in the fall of 1927 in the Coolidge administration, after he had been assailed in connection with the action of the board in forcing a reduction in the rediscount rate of the Chicago federal reserve bank at the instance of European financers.

Mr. Crissinger took the lead in bringing about that action and resigned after protests by Chicago bankers and others had been carried to President Coolidge. He announced at that time that he was resigning in order to assume an important position in the F. H. Smith company.

Attacks upon the F. H. Smith company by Senator S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] and others because of its real estate financing operations have continued for the last two years or more. Finally, within the last few weeks the company moved its offices to New York City. It had been largely forced out of business in this city and had developed a mail order business for the sale of real estate bonds. The company recently unsuccessfully resisted efforts of the federal district attorney to force submission of its books to the grand jury.

The particular charge in the indictment related to the financing of the Hamilton hotel in this city. The hotel was purchased by the Properties Investment corporation, subsidiary of the F. H. Smith company, for $1,800,000, which was approximately the amount of outstanding mortgage indebtedness. Thereafter the company placed a second and subsidiary mortgage upon it to secure payment of a bond issue of $1,250,000, which was sold to the public. It was asserted in the indictment that the bonds were "wholly in excess of the true value of the unincumbered."

ARKANSANS UP IN AIR OVER WOODCUTTER MURDER CASE VICTIM

Mountain View, Ark., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Public opinion in the Connie Franklin case, in which five men face trial on Monday on first degree murder charges for the mutilation and burning to death of the stranger woodcutter, changes each day.

Some of those who believed that the man identified Saturday and Sunday was the supposed murder victim, today doubt his story. They now think Franklin was killed and that the man who claims to be Franklin is an imposter.

Franklin was taken today to the scene of the murder. He, according to the sheriff, pointed to the wrong cabin as the home of Tille Ruminer, the 16 year old sweetheart and intended bride whose story of Franklin's death is chief evidence of the state in the prosecution of the five men.

Eugene Chaunicisee, another state witness, was taken today to see Franklin. When the witness refused to identify him the man who is Franklin's host became so threatening that Chaunicisee fled into the hills.

Pair Rob Messenger of $2,100 at "L" Station

Max Katz, 21 years old, a messenger for the Kahn Brothers Tailoring company, 2300 Wabansia avenue, was about to board an elevated train at the Western avenue station of the Humboldt Park line yesterday to deposit $300 cash and $1,800 in checks at a loop bank when two men with pistols held him up and snatched his money packet. Katz obeyed their command to run a block north. When he looked around they had disappeared.

Vote New Park District to Defeat Annexation

Residents of Edgebrook and Edgebrook Manor by a vote of 160 to 10 registered approval yesterday of a proposal to establish a park district, thereby blocking a plan which would annex their communities to the proposed Jefferson Park district. The voters also elected five park commissioners: Harold Aschenhurst, R. C. Beiersdorn, F. T. Laune, R. E. Wilcox, and Mrs. Grace Dean.

GRUNDY, UNDER LIMELIGHT, HIT BY QUIZ REPORT

Caraway Aims Sarcastic Volley at Fisher.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Reports that Joseph R. Grundy may be appointed United States senator by Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania brought forth a new volley of sarcasm and denunciation today from Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the senate lobby investigating committee.

Presenting to the senate a critical report of the committee's findings on Grundy's activities in behalf of higher industrial tariff rates, Senator Caraway charged that if Grundy wins a senate seat he will be put in it "by people who bought and paid for the office the governor of Pennsylvania now occupies." By inference he referred to Gov. Fisher as a "kept woman."

Senator Caraway's attack upon the Pennsylvanians occurred just before his committee, after a recess of two weeks, resumed its quiz into the sugar tariff lobbies. H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company, who organized a lobby against increased sugar duties, occupied the witness chair and was called again for tomorrow.

Seize Psychological Moment.

Issuance of the Grundy report today was not unexpected in view of the belief by political leaders that Mr. Grundy is likely to fill the vacancy opened when the senate barred Senator Elect William S. Vare last Friday. It was apparent that Senator Caraway and his committee, which is dominated by radicals, grasped the opportunity to condemn Mr. Grundy while he is in the public eye and in advance of his presentation of credentials as a United States senator.

Mr. Grundy is quoted in today's paper as stating modestly that he is undecided whether he will accept a seat in this body or not, which it is forecast will be offered him by the governor of Pennsylvania, Senator Caraway told the senate.

"I want to correct that last statement—not by the governor of Pennsylvania, but by the people who bought and paid for the office the governor now occupies. Whenever they make up their minds whether it is wise or otherwise he will speak, but in the meantime, he seizes upon the occasion to assail some of us who were opposed to the seating of Mr. Vare."

Returns Governor's Fire.

Explaining that Gov. Fisher had referred to Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] and himself as "effeminate," Caraway continued:

"The governor occupies the same position many politicians and governors are in, since we are talking about each other, that is mentioned as a title of the second book that a young lady wrote, the first book being entitled 'The Bad Girl.' Everybody remembers the title of the second book, and that apparently describes the condition of the man who for a little time, by the money of Grundy and others, is governor of the state of Pennsylvania."

The book mentioned by Caraway ostensibly was "The Bad Girl," by Vina Delmar. Her second book was entitled "Kept Woman."

The Grundy report, a six page pamphlet, explained that Grundy was the subject of an interim report "by reason of the extraordinary and commanding place he holds among the lobbyists in the national capital." After commenting upon his private position as a wool yarn manufacturer at Bristol, Pa., the report declared that Mr. Grundy devotes practically all of his time to politics.

Go-getter for Campaign Chest.

"His chief contribution to political life has consisted of the raising funds for campaign use," said the report. "As a member of the ways and means committee of the Republican national committee for Pennsylvania he raised for that committee in the campaign of 1928 nearly $700,000, a large part of it contributed by manufacturers interested in tariff rates.

"In the primary campaign in his state in the year 1926 he raised money to promote the nomination of George Wharton Pepper for United States senator and John S. Fisher for governor, donating himself $18,000, and loaning to the committee, conducting the fight $300,000 more. He preferred Vare, Pepper's antagonist, but concluded to tie to the Pepper-Fisher ticket because he knew Fisher was a foe of the repeal of the law exempting manufacturing establishments from taxation, while the position of Beidleman, Vare's running mate, on that issue was not so well known.

The report admitted that there is not doubt of Mr. Grundy's ardent attachment to the principle of protection, but discounted "the parity of his faith" on the ground that "he has grown rich in the pursuit of a highly protected industry."

No Direct Accusations.

Nowhere in the report appeared a direct accusation of wrong doing, but the facts were sprinkled through with critical comments and expressions.

Considerable attention was given to Mr. Grundy's views on the desirability of senators from "backward states" like Arkansas "with no chips in the game" having less to say on the tariff.

In their interrogation of Mr. Lakin, the members of the lobby committee pursued the same tactics they have used at previous hearings, first one and then another grilling the witness in an effort to make him disclose incriminating information. He was questioned in turn by Senators Caraway Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] and Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.].

Admits Hiring Hoover's Friend.

Mr. Lakin freely admitted that he represented his company, the Cuban government, and the Cuban sugar mill owners who are seeking to prevent an increase in tariff duties on Cuban sugar. He also admitted that he had employed Edwin Shattuck, New York attorney, "chiefly because" he is a personal friend of President Hoover and Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the senate finance committee.

"Did you think President Hoover could be influenced by a personal friend to do anything wrong?" Senator Caraway asked him.

"Certainly not," Lakin replied. "But I do feel that he would be more sympathetic to the cause pleaded by a personal friend."

NORRIS PARAPHRASES MARK ANTONY'S TALK FOR "NOBLE GRUNDY"

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Standing beside a table of wool exhibits during the senate tariff debate today and recalling that Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania is a worsted manufacturer, Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] appointed himself a "salesman" for Grundy and began "advertising" his goods.

Exhibiting a bright yellow woolen jacket, Norris said:

"If you have any tears in your eyes prepare to shed them now.

"This is Grundy's mantle. I remember when he put it on. It was on the day great Hoover won his victory and sent the hordes of Democrats back to the sidewalks of New York."

Pointing to imaginary holes in the jacket, he continued:

"Here is where Caraway sent his dagger. See what a rent the envious Borah made!"

"This is the most unkindest cut of all, for when the noble Grundy saw the jackass' stab in gratitude more strong than traitors' arms it quite vanquished him—then burst his mighty heart. And in this mantle muffling up his face the great Grundy fell."

PROPOSES HOUSE LASH MEMBERS FOR SLANDERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The prospect of holding members of congress accountable for utterances on the floor of the house of representatives was set forth today in a resolution introduced by Representative Fort [Rep., N. J.].

Under the resolution a committee of five would be authorized to recommend censure or discipline for a member whose words on the floor were found slanderous.

No Specific Case in Mind.

Fort said his resolution was not occasioned by the belief that members of the house alone were at fault in the abuse of congressional immunity, but that in his opinion every legislative group should have rules to curb "assassination of reputations" under the protection of the constitution. He explained that the measure applied to no specific case, but was offered simply with a view to the future.

Recent controversy over the question of congressional immunity has centered in the refusal of Senator Blease of South Carolina to testify before a District of Columbia grand jury after denouncing the Washington police department on the senate floor.

Citizens Might Complain.

The committee proposed by Fort would be authorized to hold hearings upon the complaint of any person that "untrue charges, accusations or statements" had been made by a member speaking on the floor of the house. A report on the committee findings would carry a recommendation for discipline of the member, if judged necessary.

BANK BANDITS GET $10,000.

DOODY, DOOMED TO DIE ON FRIDAY, MOVES FOR STAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

George Thomas, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Willie [Baby Face] Doody, diminutive bandit, who is scheduled to be electrocuted on Friday, filed a petition in the Supreme court yesterday asking for a writ of supersedeas to stay the execution until his case is reviewed. He was convicted several weeks ago of the murder of Chief of Police Charles Levy of Berwyn. The Supreme court is expected to pass on the motion today. Doody did not appear worried over the approach of the date set for his execution. He seemed confident that his attorney, William Scott Stewart, would stave off the electrocution. It was pointed out that if the Supreme court turned down his petition he could still resort to an insanity hearing or appeal to the pardon and parole board.

STRIKE GROWS; 3,500 MINERS OUT IN STATE

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—The strike of the new National Mine Workers union in the Illinois coal belt tonight was getting out of the control of the 500 National Guardsmen sent here last night to prevent bloodshed. All four units of the Peabody Coal company which comprise the Taylorville coal district were closed down today and the strike was 100 per cent effective in Christian county.

The strike broke suddenly Monday in mine 55 of the Peabody Coal company of Chicago, on the edge of this town. There are now some 3,500 miners out.

There was evidence that the strike might spread all through the Illinois coal district and even into other states. Strike leaders said that 10,000 men in the soft coal fields of Pennsylvania were ready to go out if the strike becomes fully effective in Illinois, and there were rumors of trouble in the Indiana coal districts.

Disorder at Springfield.

A group of some 500 strikers who early this evening had caused some disturbance when they drove to Peabody Mine No. 57, at Springfield, were back late at night and preparing, it was stated, to go to mine No. 10 at Kincaid, 16 miles south and to another mine at Staunton, 50 miles southwest of here early in the morning.

The men in a mine at Buckner, near Benton, in Franklin county, more than 100 miles below Taylorville, were reported out tonight. The same report stated that the miners at Valier and Coello, near Christopher, in Franklin county, would go out in the morning.

Much trouble is expected at Nokomis, Staunton, and Springfield tomorrow. It was believed troops might be sent to each mine to assist the deputy sheriffs in averting possible bloodshed. Two men were arrested for attempting to incite trouble at the Springfield mine this evening.

Guns Avert Trouble.

Machine guns and bayonets constituted the only element preventing bloodshed in this strike ridden section of the Illinois coal belt today. There were some attempts at rioting and disorder around the gates of the mine this morning. But when the strikers and workers saw the machine guns they got peaceful at once.

It is freely charged here that the communist party of America is financing this strike and that the trouble here constitutes the most serious attempt yet made by the communists to get a foothold in American labor.

Newspaper editors and publishers who have no direct interest in either the coal industry or in the old miners' union made that claim and say they can back it up. Others familiar for years with the coal mining situation in Illinois say the same. They assert that many of the leaders in the new National Miners' union, the organization fomenting the strike, are out and out communists. They charge that Martin Brophy of Philadelphia, head of the N. M. U., is known for his radical leanings. They charge Henry Corbishley, ousted from the United Mine Workers' union at Zeigler for being a communist, is an officer of the national union.

One Organizer Jailed.

Freeman Thompson, one of the organizers of the present strike, who was placed under military arrest on charges of inciting to riot at Peabody mine No. 9, this morning, is another reputed to have communistic leanings.

Coal men predict that this strike is the beginning of the end of the United Mine Workers of America. Illinois is the last stronghold of the United Mine Workers. The organization recently has been split wide open, its 80,000 members about evenly divided as followers of John L. Lewis, the national president, and Harry Fishwick, president of the Illinois district. Suits have been filed by the opposing factions to oust the officers of each. It is into a breach that has been considered as wide as the ocean that the new organization has stepped.

Demand 5 Day Week.

The National Miners' union at the eleventh hour last Saturday called the strike, making sixteen demands on the operators, these including the six hour day, a five day week, and a $10 a week minimum wage. Once the call was out professional organizers and strikers took over the locals of the United Mine Workers, ousted any officers who were faithful, set up temporary officers and asked the men to join the National Miners' union.

The miners who refused to join were met at the gates of the mines last night and this morning by large groups of strikers and their women. They were cursed and stoned, the women threw their arms around their necks and either taunted them or pleaded with them. Or their dinner buckets were snatched and kicked about the streets. And then most of them, willingly or unwillingly, joined the National Miners' union.

One strangely disturbing factor was the presence of militia. At mine No. 8 most of the men would have gone to work this morning if it hadn't been for the soldiers. When they saw the guardsmen they disdainfully refused to go to work. They appeared to believe there was a stigma in working under the guard of soldiers.

Warrants for 64 Miners.

Boonville, Mo., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Warrants for the arrest of sixty-four men on charges of rioting were issued here this afternoon in connection with mine disturbances here.

The Warrick county mines, scene of trouble recently because union miners objected to their operation by nonunion and coöperative men, were working today with deputy sheriffs on guard.

MISSING GIRL, 8, RETURNS HOME.

PRESIDENT OF GREECE RESIGNS; OLD AGE AND HEALTH ARE REASONS

ATHENS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Premier Admiral Konduriotis, who was appointed chief executive of the Grecian republic on Dec. 4, 1926, resigned today.

Premier Venizelos visited the president this morning, but failed to persuade him to withdraw his resignation. The president said that his advanced age and weakened health prevented him from continuing in office.

Parliament will meet on Saturday to elect a new president. President Zaimis of the senate will take over the duties of president of the republic until the new chief of the state is in office.

President Konduriotis, who is 74 years old, has had a distinguished and long career of public service in Greece. He was the victorious commander of the Greek fleet in the Balkan war of 1912-13 and a regent after the death of King Alexander in 1920, and again after the departure of King George II. in 1923.

ANOTHER PLEA TO SAVE SNOOK FROM EXECUTION

Columbus, O., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—New legal talent has been employed by Dr. James H. Snook in an effort to save him from the electric chair, Dec. 20. The Ohio State Supreme court today took under advisement the appeal of the former university veterinary professor from the sentence of death for the murder of Theora K. Hix, co-ed paramour, on June 13.

Arthur C. Fricke, Cincinnati, new counsel for Dr. Snook, asked the State Supreme court to reverse the conviction in Common Pleas court on a first degree murder charge. After a short review of the facts leading to the murder, Fricke asserted that there has been no claim that Dr. Snook had debauched Miss Hix, and declared that Snook knew of her relations with other men during their relationship.

"Some of the evidence was repellant and had no business in the case," Fricke said.

"There were times when the crossroads were reached when they should have sacrificed all to keep the testimony out."

The statement was regarded as indicating that Fricke was not in sympathy with the testimony offered by the defense through Dr. Snook.

Eugene Patterson Named Illinois Food Inspector

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Clarence F. Buck, director of the state department of agriculture, today appointed Eugene Patterson of Joliet as inspector of foods in the division of foods and dairy products.

TAX REVALUATION ILLEGAL, 3 WEST SUBURBS CLAIM

Petitions asking that County Clerk Sweitzer, the board of assessors, and the board of review disregard the reassessment and proceed with the extension and collection of taxes based on the 1927 quadrennial assessment, were presented to the county officers yesterday by attorneys representing the suburbs of Cicero, Maywood, and Bellwood, and school districts in Cicero and Proviso townships. The petitions blame the reassessment for the financial breakdown of the local governments and hold that it has become inoperative, ineffective and void.

The opinion was prepared by Attorneys Ode L. Rankin, Edward J. Carmody, town attorney of Cicero, and Jacob E. Dittus, village attorney for Maywood. They contend that the state tax commission was without power to set aside the quadrennial valuation and substitute the reassessment, and that the latter is void because it has delayed collection of taxes beyond dates set by statute.

Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, pointed out that the system has been upheld by the Supreme court which recently returned an opinion voiding the 1927 quadrennial. The petitions will be discussed at a conference of tax officers today.

WORST FILM FIRE KILLS 10 IN FEW FEET OF SAFETY

Flames Convert Comedy Into Tragedy.

tain!" It had turned a rosy red. There were only a few chemical fire extinguishers and a hose line in the hall, but they were put to use without effect. The jazz players were first to see the danger and raced ahead of the smoke to safety.

Mahoney dashed through both floors of the studio yelling a warning, "Get out and make it snappy." The chorus girls in their scanty dresses who were already "on the job" rushed to the street, but those in their dressing rooms thought the warning was to get on the stage and refused to be hurried. Some paid with their lives.

It was a two alarm fire before half of those in the building were out. A minute later it was a three alarm and then a fourth alarm brought all available apparatus.

Up on the balcony the officials of the company were gathering what records they could save. The cameramen already had their instruments outside. Joseph E. Flinn of the Pathé company, and his secretary, Mrs. Frances Walsh, escaped from Flinn's office to a balcony looking down on the street. They were carried down a ladder to safety by firemen.

Morgan Bauer, cashier, scooped the pay roll from a safe and dashed to the street. There was little loss of finished film, only a bit of a cowboy picture in the cutting room. The vault beneath the building, stocked with talking pictures, was undamaged.

Across the street—Park avenue at 134th street on the east fringe of Harlem—was a pipe and fittings factory. Inside that building the hysterical chorus girls recruited from Jack Donohue's "Sons of Guns" and "The Little Show," two of Broadway's hits, gathered in their charred and smoked grimed night life costumes to seek refuge from the icy wind. There, too, the injured were first carried, later to be removed to Harlem hospital.

Meanwhile the dead had been carried out to the Park avenue sidewalk, where they were laid in a row on the water soaked asphalt and covered with a tarpaulin. Most of them were so badly burned that identification was difficult.

The surviving chorus girls in their dancing trunks and ballet costumes came from the warmth of the pipe factory to kneel shiveringly on the sidewalk beside the victims' bodies.

Electrician Tells Story.

The story of those who survived the flames is fraught with heorism as well as panic. It was Richard Starding, an assistant electrician now in Harlem hospital. This is the story he told as he lay swathed in bandages.

"I was up above the balcony in what we call the flies. I got an order to turn on the sunlight lamps and another electrician up there with me got the same order. When he turned on his lamps, I saw a piece of red hot carbon fall down alongside the curtain and set it on fire. I ran down to help put out the fire. When I got there it seemed as if the whole building was on fire. I fought my way outside."

Walter Strenge, also an electrician, told a similar story. He said the fire undoubtedly started from an arc lamp.

There were other explanations given during the afternoon as Francis Marra, an assistant district attorney, questioned scores of survivors. It is possible that some one violated the rules and dropped a cigaret. There also is the chance that there was a short circuit and a flash from a switch box or crossed wires near some flimsy stage decoration, but it is certain that the fire originated behind the velvet curtain.

Unidentified Hero Saves 7 Girls.

First place among the heroes belongs to an as yet unidentified electrician who carried seven fainting girls from the burning building to the street and then collapsed, overcome by smoke. Ben Mahoney, the assistant director, was responsible for the escape of twenty of the players and more would have been saved had his warning been heeded. Among those who followed him to safty was Miss Ruth Goodwin, said to be a niece of the late Nat Goodwin, and three principals—Harry McNaughton, Bob Carney and Cy Wills.

Four carpenters were imprisoned in the basement until firemen sawed them out.

Two of the girls who escaped were Dorothy Knowlton and Emily Von Losen, dainty blondes who dance nightly in the Hollywood restaurant. When informed of the fire, Miss Knowlton said, she was upstairs with more than twenty other girls, all in revue costumes.

"I sauntered down," she said, "with some of the others. We saw the fire in the curtains but it looked small to me and I went back upstairs again to get my coat. I was cold. By the time I reached the second landing the girls were coming down in a hurry. I could not get by them. I tried for ten minutes. Then the lights went out and the smoke got heavy and black. The girls began screaming. We all ran downstairs as fast as we could and I didn't get my coat."

Sees Girl Held Prisoner.

Miss Knowlton said after she reached the street she saw several girls screaming for help as they beat their hands against the iron meshed windows on the second floor. Some of them were saved by firemen with ladders, she said, but not all of them got out.

The exits, according to some of the survivors, were adequate, but the fire burned too quickly for any but one, the main entrance at Park avenue, to be used.

According to Capt. Peter C. Spence of the bureau of fire prevention, officials of the studio had failed to comply with a bureau order requiring them to install a sprinkler system. The order was first given last year, according to Capt. Spence, but the movie people appealed to the board of standards and appeals, and obtained a modification.

Last May inspectors of the bureau, finding the place was being used to make talking pictures, again ordered the installation of sprinklers.

Police Seize Husband of "Red Slicker" Girl Bandit

William Levinson, 24 years old, husband and alleged robbery companion of Josephine Dobscher, the "red slicker bandit" who was recently sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary, was captured in his room at 3001 Washington boulevard, by the police early this morning. With him was taken his roommate, Guy Dion, 24 years old. Levinson has been sought since Oct. 6, when the Dobscher girl was arrested.

CRASH FATAL TO WOMAN.

Pana, Ill., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Harry Wallace of Windsor, Ill., was killed and three other persons injured in a collision between automobiles driven by Harry Wallace, husband of Mrs. Wallace, and F. O. Howbecker of Sullivan on route 16, near here, last night.

FRIENDS LOSE ON HIS ADVICE; ENDS OWN LIFE

Dr. Arthur Tanner, 39 years old, 1515 West Monroe street, a dentist, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of gas inhaled in a suicide attempt in his office at 108 North State street on Monday. The police were told that his own losses in the stock market and the losses of his two office assistants, Miss Carol Macha, 5532 South Rockwell street, and a young man who aided him in his laboratory, whom he had advised in market deals, caused the dentist to end his life.

Dr. Tanner was a graduate of the Northwestern university dental school, a former instructor in the school, and a member of the Chicago alumni chapter of Psi Omega fraternity.

HAT; THEN ROB RESTAURATEUR.

William Coles, owner of a restaurant at 1940 North Damen avenue, was robbed of $200 by a pair of customers who drew pistols after eating breakfast yesterday.

COURT DECIDES AGAINST CUNEO IN TOWER FIGHT

Holds Law Illegal; Orders Permit Revoked.

to obey the council mandate the neighboring property owners took the controversy into court. The three objecting properties are the Michigan-Lake building, the Crerar library, and the 175-181 North Michigan Avenue building. Through Attorneys Joseph B. Fleming, Clay Judson, and Lester Falk, property owners sought revocation of the permit and the amendment. They based their plea on six points.

The property owners contended that the notice for the committee hearing on the amendment did not comply with the law; that the hearing before the committee was not legal, and that the proposed building was inimical to public welfare in that it would cut off light and air and increase congestion and fire hazards. The amendment was attacked as unconstitutional on the grounds that it was ambiguous, made no allowance for existing conditions, and constituted special legislation.

Judge Taylor's Ruling.

Judge Taylor ruled that the first three of the points were unsound and unsupported by evidence.

On the question of ambiguity his opinion says: "The amendment would allow an increase of two-thirds in the height limit to properties fronting on three streets, one greater in width than 100 feet, and across from a public park, public waterway, public playground or a cemetery.

"The words attacked as ambiguous are 'public park,' 'public waterway,' 'public playground,' and 'cemetery.' May a plot of ground 20 feet by 50 feet be sufficient to comply? What is a public waterway. Is it any public running water? Would two graves make a cemetery? This may all seem rather critical, but the law is made up of nice distinctions, and especially is that true when great and important matters are dependent on the exact meaning of such general words and phrases.

Holds Amendment Illegal.

"It would seem, therefore, that the amendment, requiring as it does in its present form an exercise of discretion on the part of the commissioner of buildings and the board of appeals, is illegal and void as undertaking to give to them not only administrative but legislative power."

The decision continued with the statement that the statutes provide that amendments shall make due allowance for existing conditions, conservation of property values, and the direction of building development to the interests of the entire city. The zoning laws were formed after a study of fourteen months, with consultation with many experts, the ruling pointed out.

"From the evidence presented," the decision continued, "it seems difficult to resist the conclusion that a building such as the Cuneo building, built pursuant to provision of the amendment giving that building an obvious advantage of from 27.7 cents to 42.1 cents per square foot over a building built under the previous ordinance with the 264 foot limit, would fail to make due allowance for existing conditions, conservation of values, and the advantage of the city.

Law Changes Situation.

"Before the amendment more than $300,000,000 in property was put up under the assumption that changes would not be made in the laws without recognition of the fact that present values would be conserved. So that when the amendment brought a change, a jump of 66 2-3, it became obvious that something revolutionary had taken place, and it is quite to be expected that property owners should attack the wisdom and validity of the amendment.

"The change would not be confiscation of values but ex post facto confiscation of property rights without compensation. Although no mind is acute and comprehensive and prophetic enough accurately and with certainty to appraise today the ultimate and total effect of such a radical change; and although there is no a priori test or rule for the determination of an ideal height and volume, the conclusion seems quite irresistible that the amendment in question must be condemned and held to be in violation of the zoning statute."

On the final point of illegal classification Judge Taylor said:

"The amendment on its face is inconsistent with the original comprehensive zoning ordinance of 1923. It is impossible to read the ordinance without concluding that the amendment permits the specious interjection of arbitrary, inappropriate, inharmonious, and preferred situations, which are to be established and give special privileges and special freedom from the established height without cause.

Applies to Only Four Properties.

"The amendment applies only to four properties at present, three of which are improved, and more broadly to others by assembling of properties to meet requirements. Neither the Cuneo property nor the few other like properties are so differently situated from neighboring properties that it would be fair to establish them as a class and to give them, and them alone, such freedom from restrictions that their potential height limit should be 66 2-3 per cent above all others.

"Holding that the city council in passing the amendment, has no foundation in reason and its action is a mere arbitrary or irrational exercise of power having no relation to public health, public morals, the public welfare or the public safety, and constitutes giving special privilege without just cause, it follows that the amendment is obnoxious to the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution; one of the objects of the latter amendment being to prevent any person or class of persons from being singled out as a special subject for discriminatory legislation.

"The judgment of the court is that the decision of the board of appeals be reversed and the permit revoked."

The hearing of the property owners' case began on Nov. 4 and continued for 13 days. More than two dozen witnesses, including architects, engineers, real estate men, physicians, and professors, testified. Final argument took four days. Judge Taylor took his decision under advisement ten days ago.

HOOVER REITERATES HANDS OFF POLICY IN SENATE PRIMARIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Inquiries at the White House today prompted a reiteration that President Hoover was pursuing a "hands off" policy in all senatorial primary campaigns which will come up next year. The inquiries were caused by reports that former President Coolidge might become a candidate for the senate in Massachusetts and the announcement that Dwight W. Morrow would be appointed a senator from New Jersey and later stand election for that post.

HOOVER CRITICS SAY HE WABBLES ON ALL ISSUES

Nonsense, Defenders of President Reply.

Defenders of Mr. Hoover reply that no inconsistency is proved in this indictment. Mr. Hoover, they say, has always favored American adherence to the world court on terms guaranteeing us against entanglement in European affairs and has merely approved a proposed compromise between the senate and the European statesmen with respect to one part of one reservation, which compromise was initiated by President Coolidge in a letter to the league of nations a year ago.

Scoff at Root Rumors.

The attempt to link Mr. Hoover with the international bankers through Secretary Stimson and Mr. Root is, they assert, ludicrous in the extreme. Mr. Stimson, it is contended, owes his appointment to the Hoover cabinet quite as much to influence of Chief Justice William H. Taft of the United States Supreme court as to that of Mr. Root, who in his world court activities is actuated not by relationships with the international bankers, but by his part in the formation of the court in 1920 and his labors for 30 years to establish an international tribunal of justice.

Another accusation is that the President flopped in his stand on prohibition policy before and after election. According to the wets, Mr. Hoover committed himself soon after his nomination to a course of action hinging upon an investigation to determine whether prohibition in the form of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act is practically workable.

William J. Donovan, who at that time was assistant to the attorney general and one of the closest political advisers of Mr. Hoover, was the author of this proposal. The Donovan plan provided that Mr. Hoover, as soon as inaugurated, should appoint a commission to make an exhaustive inquiry into the actual operation of the prohibition law and to report to the executive its opinion of the feasibility of enforcement.

If the commission found enforcement practicable, the President was to initiate far-reaching reforms to make prohibition prohibit. If the commission found otherwise, the President was to recommend modification of the law.

Hoover Approves Idea.

Mr. Hoover is alleged to have fallen in with this plan and to have written the section on prohibition in his acceptance speech with this proposition in view. This section was entitled "stand on law enforcement," but it dealt with the enforcement of only one law—prohibition.

"Common sense," said Mr. Hoover in this speech, "compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred—abuses which must be remedied. An organized searching investigation of fact and causes can alone determine the wise method of correcting them. Crime and disobedience of law cannot be permitted to break down the constitution and laws of the United States."

Throughout the campaign and till shortly after the election Donovan and the other wet leaders were confident that Mr. Hoover intended to go through with this program for an investigation to determine whether prohibition is practicable. It also was assumed that Donovan, although a wet and a Roman Catholic, would be appointed attorney general.

The election was no sooner over, however, than the dry organizations, captained by Protestant churchmen, began mobilizing their influence to prevent the selection of Donovan for attorney general, and to head off an investigation of prohibition. Mr. Hoover yielded ground in both particulars. He turned Donovan down for attorney general, and unsuccessfully sought to placate him with the governor generalship of the Philippines.

He also began to veer away from the proposition of an investigation of prohibition as the result of the influence exerted by Bishop James Cannon Jr. and other dry leaders, according to some of the Hoover critics, although others hold to the theory that the President, wholly without prompting, had begun to interpret the election as a prohibition referendum overwhelmingly won by the drys and begun to trim his sails accordingly. At any rate, it was Bishop Cannon, after a visit to Mr. Hoover, who first spread the tidings that the great investigation was not to be confined to the "noble experiment," but was to embrace the enforcement of all laws.

He Turns Noncommittal.

This change in the program was officially recorded in the Hoover inaugural address, which relegated the prohibition investigation to the position of a component part of a comprehensive inquiry into "the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence." The devolution so ardently desired by the drys was completed in June, when, in organizing the Wickersham law enforcement commission, Mr. Hoover made a speech in which he did not even mention prohibition by name. The problem, he said, is not "confined to the enforcement and obedience of one law," but is "partly the attitude toward all law."

Nor did Mr. Wickersham in replying mention the dread word prohibition.

In his message to congress last week, however, Mr. Hoover says that the Wickersham commission is investigating "the entire problem of the enforcement of our laws and the improvement of our judicial system, including the special problems and abuses growing out of the prohibition laws."

One criticism heard of his utterances on law enforcement in the message to congress is that Mr. Hoover apparently regards the Wickersham commission as an agency for devising legal thumbscrews by means of which the people are to be compelled to obey the prohibition law. In this respect, it is contended, the President has gone the limit in the direction desired by the most fanatical drys.

While the drys are lauding Hoover for going over to them bag and baggage, the Ku Klux klan organs are assailing him on a charge of change of base on the proposal to establish a federal department of education. They accepted his utterances in the inaugural address as a declaration in favor of a large measure of federal control over education, to which the Roman Catholics are bitterly opposed. Shortly after his inauguration, however, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur procounced against a federal department of education and appointed a commission which is to take a year to study the subject of federal aid to education.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] has charged the President with executing an about face on the question of the flexible tariff. In answering Mr. Hoover's recent appeals for retention of the prevent provision for tariff revision by the President on advice of the tariff commission, Mr. Borah quotes the speech of Oct. 15, in which Mr. Hoover said that "the American people will never consent to delegating authority over the tariff to any commission, whether nonpartisan or bipartisan."

This, say the Hoover defenders, was an argument against lodging complete revisory authority in the tariff commission, upon which the President had not changed his mind.

THE WORLD COURT AND THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The analogy used to acquaint Americans with the functions and purposes of the world court refers to the United States Supreme court. If the internationalists are allowed to have their comparison, they become more and not less disquieting. The United States Supreme court is a product of the same development which brought the American government into being. It is supposed to have the same background of tradition, institutional growth and mental and moral discipline that the other branches of American government have.

Some of its authority was a purely American conception, but it was a congruous government form. Even so, it was probably the most opposed of all the forms adopted. The early Americans agreed much more readily to the provisions for legislation and administration than they did to the provision for the federal judiciary. This was particularly true as to the authority to prevent legislation by declaring it contrary to the constitution. There was a feeling that if this power was not given to the executive it ought to be reserved by the states or that it ought to be so reserved without question and without any alternative.

In the development of the court it acquired final authority, and when it did so the Union of states had become a nation held together by a power which could make conclusive decisions. It was more than the court of last resort. It was the authority which no state could resist legally. It was the clamp which made one state out of many. It did what Marshall intended it to do, and what Jefferson and Jackson tried to prevent by doing. Unionists though they were.

It was contended from the beginning that the court made political decisions, and that Marshall's constructions were creating a power of state not intended or contained in the constitution. The court proved to be irresistible. In the Dred Scott decision it imposed a legal rule of property rights which was abhorrent to a large part of the country, and the court at that time was publicly accused of participation in a political conspiracy to preserve and extend the dominance of the south and slavery. But short of force the protesting states had no remedy so long as the court controlled legislation.

If the world court is the counterpart of the United States Supreme court, as its proponents explain when they want to allay fears and misgivings, it is the court of a world state. Its purpose then is to bring the nations which adhere to it into a close and binding union in which the United States would be one state just as Illinois is one state in the American Union under the United States Supreme court.

If that is the definition of the thing as the supporters of it say, then the triumph of the league of nations over the American instinct for avoidance of alien interference is only a small part of the consequences. The development of this international federation into a world government by the decisions of a world court is in prospect. The American states are content to accept this consequence in relation to their own federation of states because, in spite of their occasional troubles, they want to maintain a nation. They may not like all the decisions which come from their supreme judicial authority, but they prefer to accept that authority rather than the alternative of not having it.

The American people have not said they wanted to submit to a world federation which would make a world state. Time and again they have said they did not want to. They do not want a place in such a superstate. They do not want this or any restriction upon their nationality. If the world court is only the Supreme court of the United States transferred to a world jurisdiction, then the league of nations is only a sovereign body, the members of which are merely constituent states. The United States, then, will take the first step into the world state when it submits itself to the world's supreme court.

MANIAC AT LARGE.

The man Ahrendt who has confessed to the murder of Mrs. Josephine Ford, in whose home he was a boarder, was released six months ago from a California insane asylum. He had committed several other crimes of violence and seems obviously to be a dangerous lunatic. Why he was turned loose by the California institution has not been investigated, but certainly it ought to be. Either the authorities responsible for his discharge are scientifically incompetent or they have a grossly inadequate sense of their responsibility. It is a pity that in clear cases the law does not fix a severe penalty for such neglect of duty. There are, of course, difficult cases in which a strong diagnosis or prognosis procures the discharge of dangerous patients and authorities could hardly be held to accountability as insurers of their medical judgments. But where a patient with a record of repeated violence has been turned loose something is radically wrong and there is sufficient knowledge of the nature of mental disease to establish and to lay the foundation for the punishment of gross and culpable error or negligence. Our surveillance of the insane is seriously defective and the formulating and establishment of an efficient system, or at any rate of a system reasonably approximating the conditions of our present knowledge, though difficult, are overdue, but at least we might deal with clear and egregious cases of incompetence or worse, like the case of Ahrendt. Certainly there should be some accounting in such tragic failures.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT.

Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York has been a welcome visitor to Chicago, where, as among his intelligent fellow citizens generally, his high qualities of mind and heart are esteemed regardless of party affiliations. Gov. Roosevelt is, however, from the latter point of view, one of the chief assets of his party, as well as a credit to and resource of American politics and American citizenship beyond the considerations of party. Especially to those of us who regard the preservation of the American constitutional system, now much neglected by the administration, as of vital concern at this time, Gov. Roosevelt is looked to for wise counsel and for real leadership, and we believe that if he will revive in his own party the Jeffersonian principles of civil right and local responsibility he will not only serve that party well and restore it to its proper traditional function in American political life, but perform a most needed service to the American people. In this rôle he might very well bring the party out of the trenches of an unproductive opposition, and from the White House restore to the American people the rich heritage of constitutional order which the great statesmen who founded that order bequeathed to posterity.

ON THE OTHER FOOT.

The soviet press suggests that our government refrain from sending troops to Haiti in view of our renunciation of war as an instrument of policy and of our suggestion to Russia and China that they refrain from military measures in Manchuria. The Paris Soir suggests that the league of nations take the Haitian matter in hand.

We are not concerned to comment upon these suggestions, except to remark that they contain a hint to the American people that if they favor their government's adoption of the rule of monitorship in all international controversies involving the use of force they must not expect to remain free from international intervention in our self-assumed police responsibilities in the regions we have hitherto considered our special concern.

THE COURTS AND PROCEDURAL REFORM.

It is to be hoped the recommendation of the judicial advisory council that the Illinois courts inquire diligently into their existing powers and make use of them fully to bring about amendments of organization and procedure will be acted upon without delay. We have expressed the opinion that substantial advances in procedural and administrative reform can be accomplished without resort to a reluctant legislature, and the advisory council, with better knowledge than we pretend to, seems to have reached the same conclusion. What is now needed is action, and we hope the judges will take it without hesitation or delay. We think a great many, if not most, of the faults of our present judicial administration can be removed by placing in the courts themselves a broad rule-making authority. Of course, there are weaknesses in the administration of law which legislation must correct and some which only a reform of political morale and a more intelligent public opinion can correct. But the courts, we think, can do a great deal, and in so doing will assist to reforms they cannot accomplish within their own present powers.

Editorial of the Day

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

In a statement just issued at Chicago, Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, for the moment turns the spotlight upon the importance of the farmer as a consumer.

Home from the conference of farm leaders with President Hoover, where agriculture pledged its aid to the proposed program for speeding up industry and public improvements, Mr. Thompson points out:

That there is a return of confidence and of buying power in rural America as a result of the manifest intent of the government to extend the protective system to agriculture and to fulfill the home market pledge.

That the farmers of rural America are ready to buy 150,000,000,000 feet of lumber, when they can afford it, to catch up with the repairs needed in buildings alone, and that this is more than four times the annual production of lumber in the United States.

That 5,000,000 farmers barred from access to markets, and the merchants who serve them when unimproved roads are impassable, are ready to authorize expenditures, when they can afford them, to expand and improve secondary roads reaching from farms to markets.

That this project will have an immediate reaction in the automobile industry reflected in sales of motor cars, and a subsequent reaction meaning the employment of more men in the automotive manufacturing industry.

That prosperity for the farmer will mean also a decided reaction in the farm implement manufacturing industry, with results identical with those in the automobile industry.

Mr. Thompson might have gone much further with full warrant of facts. For it is true the farmer will buy more radios, more pianos, more electric lighting plants, more plumbing, washing machines, more rugs, clocks, furniture, clothing, more of the comforts that go to create the American standard of living, when he is able, and that the producing manufacturing industries for all these commodities will be correspondingly benefited.

And outstanding in this situation is the fact that a billion dollar home market now denied the farmer by the tariff, when given him will permit him to spend money at home, which now goes abroad, and to improve his capacity as a consumer.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK.

Otto H. Kahn, the rich patron of the arts, was talking about art to a Chicago reporter.

"High brow artists," he said, "are content to make a living. The low brows want to make a fortune.

"A high brow wrote a play. It was put on at one of the little theaters, as high brow theaters are always called, in Greenwich Village.

"On the third or fourth night the author turned up and said anxiously to the box office man:

"'Well, old horse, how's she going?'

"'O, very much better,' said the box office man. 'Fewer and fewer leave now before the end of the show.'"—Exchange.

COOKING FATS.

Aside from the protection given there is no important reason for cooking fats, assuming that a taste for raw fat could be cultivated. The danger from eating raw fat is not great in comparison. Few bacteria capable of producing disease either exist in fats or multiply there. There are records of tuberculosis and typhoid fever caused by eating butter and cream, but that almost completes the record. This danger can be guarded against by making butter from only pasteurised milk and cream. There is no particular danger in eating uncooked butter and uncooked cream cheeses made from such milks.

From the standpoint of digestibility raw fat is preferable. The cooking of fats is liable to convert some of the neutral oils into fatty acids, and these are not readily digestible. Heat will produce in a few minutes some products similar to those which we recognise as causing rancidity and which result from age and exposure. The Eskimo eats raw blubber or fat, enjoys it, digests it, and is not harmed by it. We would be just as well off, or maybe a little more so, if we, too, learned the art of eating fats raw.

There is some advantage in letting cooked fat become cold before eating it. The human palate seems to have a definite preference that way and this points to a physiological advantage of some sort. Men prefer chilled cod liver oil, cold cream, solid butter and cold fat meat, and they digest more easily. They "sit better on the stomach." This is about all there is to say of the comparative advantage of eating cooked rather than raw fat.

As to fats as foods, the factors of age and weather present some points that should be known. People beyond middle life do not need much fat unless they are exposed to extreme cold. Most of them would get on better if they ate less of it. On the other hand, children and younger adults generally need more fats than they get unless it be in hot weather.

ERUPTION CAUSED BY MILK.

O. Z. writes: Our three months old boy has been suffering almost since the beginning from eczema. First, only his cheeks were affected but now it is beginning to show on other parts of his body. Do you think it will disappear as soon as he cuts his first teeth? That's what some mothers told us.

REPLY.

This eruption is caused by milk. Cutting teeth will not affect it directly one way or the other. The quickest way to cure it would be to stop giving him milk and to substitute other foods. Feeding a baby a milkless diet requires considerable skill and experience. There are milk substitutes not made from milk. In some cases feeding skim milk cures. In hot weather it is generally safer to continue milk feeding and wrestle with the eruption as well as one can, using coal tar ointments locally.

EXPERIENCE OF EPILEPTIC.

F. W. writes: I have had epileptic fits for thirty years. In the old days I expected attacks at intervals of about three weeks. The day preceding an attack I was always elated, if not superactive. The day after I had a raging headache with nausea and vomiting. My bowels would be very constipated, about as is the case in certain periods of spastic colitis.

I have had only one attack in a year. The day preceding the attack I was constipated and my tongue was coated. I wanted to take a purgative, but that was not immediately convenient, and before I got one I had the spell.

REPLY.

That constipation and also overeating precipitates attacks of epilepsy should be widely known.

FATIGUE A LARGE FACTOR.

M. L. H. writes: Is there any harm in strenuous exercise for a boy of 14 who has a slight touch of chorea, expressed in involuntary muscle twitching? He is apparently in excellent health, with this one exception.

REPLY.

PARTNERS DISAGREE.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When two men are partners in business, may one partner rent jointly owned property to a tenant who is objectionable to the other partner?

M. M.

The mutual rights and obligations depend on the partnership agreement. In general, if the partners cannot agree on the conduct of the business affairs nor on dissolution, proceedings for dissolution should be brought in court.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MEDINA AVENUE LIGHTING.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—[Friend of the People.]—Could not something be done to improve the street lighting of Medina avenue south of Milwaukee avenue?

C. G.

The department of gas and electricity installed 520 250-candle-power residential type units and 219 1,000-candle-power lighting units on street car thoroughfares in the Forty-first ward out of the 1927 electric light bond issue funds, which are now exhausted. It will be impossible for the department to make any further additions to the municipal street lighting system until a new bond issue for the purpose has been presented to and successfully passed by the electorate. The money appropriated in the corporate fund is specifically set up for the purpose of maintaining the system in its present condition.

The department will be glad to service the street in question with gas lighting as a temporary measure until a bond issue has been passed as outlined above, provided the 1930 budget provides for same by appropriation.

Commissioner of Gas and Electricity.

WHERE SON OWNS CAR.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a son, minor, buys a car can the father be made to pay for damages in case of accident? J. H. O.

The father would not be liable on the bare facts stated, but in many such cases the car is used for family purposes and the father becomes liable on that ground.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

A CERTAIN RICH MAN.

(An old Italian proverb says, "There will be no pockets in the last robe you wear.")

Way, make way for the millionaire!
His is the earth with its glittering show.
He rides the road and the devil may care!
With chin held high how he scorns the low.
Lesser minions may come and go,
Fools may query and wise men probe
But he is uncaring—and yet we know
There'll be no pockets in his last robe!

Clothe him warm from the biting air
Pelts from the far flung northern snows.
Feed him full with all dainty fare
Ground that answers the clanging hoe.
Speed him on land and on water's flow
Engines that circle the green girt globe.
Earth yields her gold to him daily, though

These, his women, are soft and fair
Gleaming in silk and in gems that glow,
With delicate skins and lustrous hair,
And no one has taught them to say him no.
His is to pay and theirs is to owe.
As he pinches a pearl in an ear's pink lobe

Sleek red Master of Richman's Row,
Think not to reap because you sow!
Impatient as Peter, or patient as Job,

ANCHUSA.

THE OTHER night when we were pondering sadly on all the problems now before the house—prohibition, law enforcement, long skirts, the World Court, radio, Christmas presents, the League of Nations, how to keep from getting fat, and so on—we happened to pick up a book, and then we read that the star Deneb was 25,000,000,000,000 miles from the earth. Oh, to be in Deneb now that December's here! How nice it would be to spend the winter months in Deneb. And the spring and summer and autumn months likewise. Ah, Deneb, Deneb, we hear you calling me!

8—Article—8

Article 8 is going to be talked about a great deal now. The conductor on the street car as he takes your seven cents will probably say, "One more cent and it would be eight, wouldn't it? Which reminds me: What do you think about Article 8? Should we stand for it the way they've trimmed it up or not?" And what will you say? And the beautiful lady at the dinner party will turn on you as the clock strikes eight and say, "Oh, eight o'clock. Well, what do you think of Article 8? Do you think Mr. Root changed it himself, or did the British slip one over on him?" What will you say? And then when the taxi driver, talking out of the side of his mouth, says, "What about this here Article 8? Don't you think them furrin guys is doublecrossin' us?" What will you say? Fevvins sake ask somebody to tell you all about Article 8.

Moral: And whatever he tells you will be the baloney.

NOW THAT the United States of America has started joining things, where will we wind up? There are so many things the U. S. might join. We've started off with the World Court. Next in line comes the League of Nations, then the Order of the Garter, the French Foreign Legion, Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, the Every Tuesday Bridge-Whist Club, the Society of the Cincinnati, the West Side Fun and Pleasure Dance Club, the Jolly Horseshoers' Athletic Club, and so many more. Bet Mr. Hoover puts the U. S. in all of 'em.

WHILE MR. EMMERSON, the governor general of this here now proud commonwealth of Illinoy, was visiting Mr. Hoover at the White House some one stole his hat. And they kept Mr. Vare out of the senate!

"IF I WERE PRESIDENT"

I would request Congress to appropriate an amount sufficient to purchase the entire output of the Linebook and have them all chucked in the Chicago river, where the current flows the swiftest, says H. L. T. in The Chicago Tribune.

Now, what did H. L. T. find in the Linebook to make him so all-fired mad? We don't know, but we've got an idea. Get a Linebook today and see if you can guess. Price, 10 cents over the counter at all Tribune offices and all book stores; 12 cents by mail.

THE 1929 LINEBOOK
Makes 'Em Mad—Makes 'Em Glad

The Original at Last.

While we were in London last summer we prowled around the old book stores in the city, around Covent Garden and over in Southwark, hoping to find a book containing the poems of Clement Scott, who wrote The Garden of Sleep. (Hank set it up and we sent you a copy, remember?) We couldn't find the book, all the dealers telling us it had been too long out of print. But a nice English friend, W. M. Teasdale, said he would keep on the trail of that book until he found it. Sure enough, yesterday we got it. It's called "'Lays and Lyrics,' by Clement Scott," and was printed away back in 1888. And there was The Garden of Sleep as it was originally written. It is prettier than the song version. And also each verse is two lines longer and concludes with the refrain—

Sleep! Sleep!
In the down by the Deep!
Sleep, my Poppy-Land!
Sleep!

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 11, 1864.

ANNAPOLIS.—The steamer Victor has just arrived from Charleston. When the Victor sailed, on the 7th, there was heavy firing in the direction of Savannah, being either an attack on that city or on the railroad between Charleston and Savannah.

WASHINGTON.—Rebel newspapers say that Sherman remained in the vicinity of Millen for several days to gather supplies and on the 2d resumed his march. On the 6th his advance was reported skirmishing with the outposts of the rebel forces defending Savannah.

NEW YORK.—A private dispatch to the World learns from deserters and other sources that the rebel papers have conceded that up to the time he reached Millen Sherman's march was practically unopposed, the only fighting being cavalry skirmishes between Kilpatrick and the rebel Wheeler. The march has created a tremendous panic. It has swept all central Georgia clear of grain, forage, horses, mules, and Negroes.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—At daylight on the 7th the Fifth corps, with the Third division of the Second corps and two brigades of Gregg's cavalry, started south. They were heard from later in the day and had crossed the Lottoway river on the Jerusalem road without opposition of any consequence.

CHICAGO.—Miss Lizzie P. Patten of Palatine and Mr. L. C. Davis of Chicago were married on Dec. 5 by the Rev. Mr. Hawkins.

DECEMBER 11, 1899.

LONDON.—After nearly two weeks of careful preparation, Gen. Gatacre opened his campaign on the southern frontier on Dec. 10, fell into a trap and lost nearly 700 men in discovering that the Boers' position at Stromberg was impregnable. Gatacre officially describes the engagement as a serious British reverse and lays his defeat to misleading information from his guides. The Boer force was estimated at 3,000 and the British from 2,000 to 3,000. The fighting was severe at times, but the British losses are almost entirely in wounded and captured. Details are meager but it is known Gen. Gatacre's intention was to surprise the Boers at dawn. Before light broke, however, he was himself surprised while his troops were in marching order and wearied after the trying night march. The Irish Rifles, who headed the column, quickly turned and sought shelter behind a hill, with the Northumberlands and mounted infantry trying to follow. No sooner had the British concentrated under the shadow of the kopje than it was shelled by the Boer guns with remarkable accuracy.

CHICAGO.—Barney Dreyfuss of the Louisville baseball club has become president of the Pirates. He is in Chicago dickering with President Hart of the Chicago club for players.

DECEMBER 11, 1919.

WASHINGTON.—Chicago won the Republican national convention by a vote of 44 to 9 in the Republican national committee. St. Louis got the other nine votes. The convention will start June 8 and will consist of 984 delegates, seven less than four years ago.

INDIANAPOLIS.—The coal strike is over. When the whistles at the mines blow tomorrow morning 400,000 miners will begin their return to the pits.

CHICAGO.—Gov. Lowden, at the request of U. S. Attorney General Palmer, issued a call for a conference of mayors of Illinois cities, state's attorneys from every county, district fair price commissioners, and representatives of women's clubs to meet here on Dec. 16 to confer with Mr. Palmer on plans to bring food prices tumbling before Christmas. The campaign promises to halt the "sugar famine."

HOW TO GET A UNION STATION.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—A union terminal for the south side steam railways is certainly one of the most urgent needs in Chicago. One may question, however, if the problem admits of the simple solution you propose in your editorial, "How to Get a Union Station."

In this respect the history of the California decision to which you refer is quite illuminating. Six years ago the California railway commission issued an order to the railroads entering Los Angeles requiring them to consolidate in a union station. The Southern Pacific railroad resisted this order and carried an appeal to the United States Supreme court. The Supreme court held that the state commerce commission did not have power to require interstate railroads to expend the huge sums necessary to build such a terminal: (R. R. com. of Cal. vs. Southern Pacific R. R. Co., 264 U. S. [1924] 331).

Thereupon the California commission appealed to the interstate commerce commission for assistance in this matter. The interstate commerce commission issued the order which was recently held void by the United States Supreme court.

The situation, therefore, seems to be completely blocked as far as present legislation is concerned. Presumably the only remedy is through an act of congress conferring on either the state commissions or the interstate commerce commission authority over this matter.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Nov. 11.—By same mail I am posting you a copy of the Cape Times' week-end issue with supplement. Will you be so kind as to hand this on to one of your regular subscribers with the request that he send me a copy of your paper in return?

In this way I feel that we shall get to know more of one another's affairs, which is the best way to strengthen the ties of friendship that already exist between our peoples.

THE EXPULSION OF IOWA.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 8.—The expulsion of Iowa from the Big Ten points out the broadening influence of education. A jury of faculty members of various schools has decided that their athletic systems are so clean that they must not be soiled and sullied by associating with unclean Iowa. Such a bigoted viewpoint is unworthy as representative thought of these universities. It will be interesting to see if this decision will go unchallenged by the Big Nine faculties and student body.

CALL FOR DR. PEGLER.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 9.—Could you arrange to have Pegler conduct an independent investigation of the Iowa incident? It seems that Mr. Maxwell regards the question as one calling for an attitude of high seriousness. He has a perfect right to regard it in that light, and my suggestion is not to be taken as implying criticism.

But I for one do not regard the home as one calling for the loss of any sleep. I suspect that this incident, in common with the sport business generally, abounds in elements of human comedy. While his readers were enjoying the fruits of Pegler's researches interested parties could compile themselves by contemplating the possibility that a dash of wood hymeneal realism might do as much as anything to bring the affair to a satisfactory termination. THE PROBEL SCHOOL, GARY.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 3.—James O'Donnell Bennett, THE TRIBUNE sage, who recently turned pedagogist to write about the Gary school system, is grossly unfair to Froebel High, or otherwise he must have never heard of that school. In today's article he is writing about the main school buildings in the Gary public school system and he fails to even mention the name of Froebel.

In a previous article he had mentioned that a certain Gary school was chosen as a winning model in an exhibition in Seville, Spain, and that future schools in that country were to be built mostly after that model. The model was taken after Froebel, the largest school in the Gary public system. Its conglomeration of nationalities, upward of 30, makes it one of the most prolific melting pots in this country.

LOWDEN BACKS FARM BOARD, BUT SEES FEE NEED

Bureau Due to Ask More Aid for Agriculture.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Frank O. Lowden, militant champion of the farmer's cause and former Illinois governor, deviated from his set speech on taxation yesterday to announce that he had joined the ranks of those urging farmers to support the federal farm board's national program of coöperative marketing.

But in so doing, he informed the American Farm Bureau federation delegates, at whose convention he was speaking, that, figuratively, his fingers were crossed, for he still believes that there may come a time when it will be necessary to institute the equalization fee to control farm production. This is the basic plan in the McNary-Haugen farm legislation, vetoed by Calvin Coolidge and strenuously backed by Mr. Lowden and the farm bureau.

To Keep on Striving.

"If it shall be found later," he said, "that it is necessary to adopt some plan by which the nonmember producer of any commodity may be made to share equitably with the members the expenses which the coöperative has incurred, we shall keep on striving until we shall secure the adoption of such a plan."

His statement was acclaimed by the delegates and sentiment expressed after the address indicated that most of the farm bureau leaders still entertained hopes for the eventual inclusion of this equalizing system. It was the refusal of the Republican party at Kansas City in 1928 to include this provision that caused Mr. Lowden to bolt the party.

Mr. Lowden referred to the fact that this nation is the only leading country that has not abandoned the general property tax. He cited the heavy burden on the farm real estate which this antiquated taxation system causes, and proposed in its place the establishment of a new plan for taxing incomes.

Sees Danger for Farms.

Criticising farm leaders who in recent weeks have stated that the farmer's position has improved materially recently, the owner of Sinissippi farms said:

"In my opinion, it is very unfortunate for this opinion to go abroad. We have fought vigorously for eight years and more just to secure recognition of the fact that our agriculture is in a serious plight. Having secured this advantage, shall we throw it away by confessing that the ills of agriculture are rapidly curing themselves?"

The farm bureau sessions opened yesterday with the presentation of medals and diplomas for distinguished service to agriculture to two farmer leaders by Sam H. Thompson, president. The awards were made to L. W. Duncan, director of farm bureau extension for Alabama, and George L. Cooley, Dover township, Ohio. These men were selected from state nominees by a committee of three farm paper editors.

Urges Better Roads.

Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri, speaking at the afternoon session on "Adequate Farm to Market Highways," told the delegates that federal and state aid for the development of a nation-wide network of roads would benefit city and rural populations alike by lowering city living costs and raising the standard of living on the farm.

Resolutions to be introduced this morning are expected to encompass some nineteen questions of farm bureau policy. The federation is expected to approve wholeheartedly the federal marketing act and the farm board, withholding suggestions for changes in the act until they are asked for by the board.

An emphatic resolution on the present tariff situation is anticipated. It is expected to call on congress to live up to party pledges and to lift rates on farm commodities to insure an American standard of living on the farm. The wall would be built by the farm bureau to exclude so-called colonies of the United States, unless these colonies are admitted to the Union, according to reports.

For Reforestation Plan.

State and federal coöperation will be asked for a program of reforestating cutover and burned over land, if a committee resolution is adopted today. Another plank is expected to give the bureau's indorsement to a federal appropriation of 125 millions for road development. Farm to market roads probably will be urged by the federation.

Another pending resolution would have farmers represented on all federal boards and important bodies. The administration probably will be called upon by the federation to pay more attention to debt reduction than to tax reduction. Changes in federal laws on rural credits may be recommended.

Among other policies that will be offered for discussion or passage today are the providing of funds for agricultural extension work and federal support of rural education systems.

Paul Bestor, commissioner of the federal farm loan board, will speak this morning on farm finance. Arthur J. Weaver, governor of Nebraska, and Lieut. Col. E. L. Daley, in charge of rivers and harbors section, United States army engineers, will talk on inland waterways.

Officers will be elected at a meeting of 42 voting delegates.

SWEDISH-AMERICAN INSTITUTION LAUNCHED WITH $1,500,000 GIFT

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Donation of properties valued at $1,500,000, including the Swedish newspaper, the Svenska-Amerikanska Posten, and a stately gray stone mansion known as "the castle," to the American Institute of Swedish Arts, Literature, and Science was announced today by Swan J. Turnblad and family.

Mr. Turnblad is president of the institute, which completed its organization yesterday. Announcement of the gift also said Crown Prince Gustaf Adolph of Sweden had agreed to act as patron of the new institute.

"The castle," which required nearly five years to build, has been a landmark and point of interest here for nearly a quarter of a century. The newspaper, which Mr. Turnblad published for about thirty-five years, is said to have the largest circulation of any Swedish language publication in America.

FRUIT GROWERS OF MICHIGAN AND WISCONSIN NEXT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—(Special.)—Fruit growers of Michigan and Wisconsin will be the next to line up in the coöperative marketing system of the federal farm board. An announcement by the farm board today said that a tentative understanding had been reached with representatives of fruit growers' coöperative organizations of the two states "looking to the development of a unified coöperative marketing program." Two regional corporations are planned.

The board is willing to lend to the fruit growers as facilities loans a total of $1,920,000, to be advanced to individual coöperatives on a basis of 60 per cent of the properties acquired or constructed.

Organizations Represented.

Organizations represented are the Door County Fruit Growers' union, Fruit Growers' Canning company, Michigan Fruit Growers, Inc., and the Michigan Cherry Growers.

The first of the two new regional corporations to be set up will combine sour cherry producers and will handle, process, and market sour cherries.

Regional coöperative No. 2 will handle cherries, pears, apples, peaches, plums, grapes, and small fruits.

Lobby Committee Calls Barnes.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States chamber of commerce and close friend of President Hoover, was summoned by the Caraway senate lobby investigation committee today to appear Friday for questioning about his activities in connection with the federal farm board.

It is presumed that the committee will inquire into reports that Mr. Barnes has assumed leadership of a group of northwest grain dealers in an attempt to influence President Hoover to compel the board to modify its wheat loan policies. These reports have been discounted at the board's offices and were denied today at the White House.

It was learned authoritatively that the President has not received a protest from Mr. Barnes.

FEAR NOT, FORGE ONWARD, SCHWAB TELLS BUSINESS

Outlook Never Better, Says Steel Veteran.

Fifty years in business and Charles M. Schwab, the old ironmaster, never saw greater opportunity for American industry than he sees today.

To the fourteen hundred members and guests of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, banqueting last night at the Stevens hotel, and to the nation at large, Mr. Schwab delivered this comforting homily:

"Be not afraid as manufacturers in this progressive country of ours. Business in the United States is going to grow just as surely and just as fast in the future as it ever did in the past.

"When you have Presidents such as you have in Washington today, sound in their administration of the nation's business, you may be fearless in your undertakings and go ahead. You may rely upon it that our future Presidents will help you as this one is. Be optimistic. Be not afraid to pursue your aims. Forge onward in security."

Recalls Days of Big Stick.

Mr. Schwab recalled an earlier time, nearly thirty years ago, when he addressed Illinois manufacturers in Chicago. Then, he said, President Roosevelt was holding the big stick over American business, unfriendly to mergers and combinations, and many people were apprehensive of the growing powers of capital.

He contrasted that day with the present.

"Our great President today is holding councils with the leaders of trade and industry," Mr. Schwab said. "If he cannot do the big things himself, he can at least inculcate confidence among the people, and while that confidence exists, prosperity shall always be ours."

No Need for More Plants.

During the day Mr. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel company, was asked in an interview why he had not built a plant upon the southern shore of Lake Michigan.

"There has never been a need for it," he replied. "All the steel needs of this midwestern area are amply supplied by the present plants in operation here. You have the Illinois Steel company, the Inland Steel company, and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. Whenever there has been a demand exceeding the supply, these companies have increased their capacity and their output.

"As for the great advantages in water transportation existing here, for bringing ore from the mines and shipping steel to industries, you know we have a large plant at Buffalo which serves the Great Lakes area.

"We have confined our business to the east. We have no market here. Recently we have gone to the Pacific coast, where we purchased the Pacific Steel company."

Praise for Chicago Steel Chief.

Mr. Schwab referred to the interview in his address last evening.

"As long as you have great men such as my friend E. J. Buffington at the head of your steel industry here there is no need for me to come here," he said.

Seeming never to lose the exuberant buoyancy which has marked him always, Mr. Schwab started out in his speech by pushing aside the microphones intended to amplify his voice so that all might hear.

"I hope I can make all of you hear," he said, and he did. He went quickly to the American current topic, the stock market.

"This great speculative era in Wall street, in which stocks have crashed, means nothing in the welfare of business," he said.

"Values Are Unchanged."

"If some one has lost ten or fifteen thousand dollars, some one else has won it. The millions and millions behind American business are still there. The money hasn't disappeared. The same factories have the same wheels still turning. Values are unchanged.

"The stock market cannot stop or stem the prosperity that extends throughout this great country of ours. The trouble has been that some one, investing or plunging in stocks, has lost sight of the fundamentals of business and that has brought speculation.

"Wealth is beyond the quotations of Wall street. Wealth is founded in the industries of the nation, and while they are sound, stocks may go up and stocks may go down, but the nation will prosper.

He Refuses to Retire.

"My friends, this year I've completed my fiftieth year in industry. I've thought of retiring. I ought to retire. But when I think of the men who have worked with me and from whom I'd have to separate the cost is too great. I'm happy in business and I can't give it up.

"I've always been an optimist in business. Newspaper men tell me it's history for me to be optimistic, that it would be a real story if I was pessimistic for a change.

"Yes, I've always been an optimist, but I want to say to you that I'm a greater optimist tonight, looking at the future of American business, than at any time in those fifty years of mine.

"As I have stood before the men of my trade, I have wanted to tell the President of the United States: 'You can do more in Washington for business yourself than all the captains of industry. You can confer with leaders of trade, and regulate the stability of commerce without ever transgressing the laws of the United States.'

"When the federal government took up regulation of the railroads there was fear and trembling for their safety. But by guiding them wisely, by fixing property rates and by honesty of purpose, the railroads have been built up until today they are more efficient, more prosperous than ever before."

Mr. Schwab paid great tribute to Charles Piez and Edward N. Hurley, seated with him at the speakers' table, and with whom he served on the United States shipping board during the world war.

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You.

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious diseases.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WANT SHANAHAN TO LEAD G.O.P. OUT OF WILDERNESS

County Chiefs to Ask Aid of Veteran Legislator.

BY PARKE BROWN.

David E. Shanahan, considered by many the dean of legislative deans of the entire country, may be drafted to become the directing power of the reorganized Republican county central committee.

It became known yesterday that the Snow-Barrett-Harding reconstructionists, who have most of their plans completed for the rebuilding made possible by the recent withdrawals of Homer K. Galpin and Robert E. Crowe from their camp, already have discussed among themselves the possibility of obtaining the services of Speaker Shanahan as chairman of the proposed executive committee of the organization.

They agreed, it was said, that if he would consent, the committee not only would have the aid of his acknowledged political judgment and organizing ability, but also the benefit thought to be certain from such an evidence that the projected rehabilitation is to be genuine.

35 Years in Legislature.

Speaker Shanahan, having been elected for eighteen consecutive terms in the Illinois house of representatives, is now concluding his thirty-fifth year of service there. During that time he has served five terms in the speaker's chair. It is this latter record more than his thirty-five years of experience that is believed to be unequaled in any state in the country and to entitle him to be called the dean of deans.

He is not a factionalist. His west side district is heavily Democratic and the Republicans there, regardless of factional differences, have supported him almost unanimously for years.

The speaker was a powerful influence in the election of Gov. Emmerson last year. When it was found the warring factions could not be brought together after the primary, those in charge of the national and state campaigns determined to handle the Cook county situation for themselves. Shanahan took charge of the state end and aided materially in the local end of the national battle.

Although he never was given the formal title on signs or letterheads, he became the real manager of the Emmerson campaign before election day.

Snow Calls Meeting.

Mr. Shanahan is out of the city now and is expected to be away until Dec 21, but it is probable an effort will be made to communicate with him before the reorganization meeting of the county committee. B. W. Snow, vice chairman, issued the formal call yesterday, setting the meeting for the Louis XVI. room of the Hotel Sherman at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. That date was fixed because the law requires five days' notice of such a session.

Livened up materially by the visit of Gov. Roosevelt of New York, Democratic politicians, including a number of prominent downstaters, were busy in confabs all afternoon, the one definite upshot being a strong demand for the selection of Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis as the state organization entry for the United States senatorship.

"I have made no decision in the matter," said Mr. Campbell, who attended the Roosevelt luncheon. "For several months some of my friends have been asking me to run. At present it is unsettled."

He is a former president of the Illinois Bar association and has been the keynoter at several big Democratic meetings, including state conventions. Leaders of the Chicago group are inclined to look downstate this year for senatorial timber, the organization entries in the last two contests having come from Chicago.

Frank J. Loesch was the principal speaker at a luncheon of the Business Men's Republican organization at the Hotel Stevens at which the candidacy for county commissioner of Edward F. Mansure, vice president and general manager of the E. L. Mansure company, was launched.

The resolution of the Central District association urging Mr. Mansure to become a candidate was read by Walter F. Mara. Axel Lonnquist presided.

SUFFERED CONSTANT TORTURE

"Finally my doctor suggested that I try a pair of Ground Gripper shoes. Now my foot troubles are over. Fallen arches were the cause of my misery."

Flat foot

How foolish it is to permit poorly designed shoes to cripple our feet and limit our activities!

Foot troubles are so needless; shoes combining the three correct principles eliminate them.

Ground Gripper shoes bring comfort to tender, aching feet...quickly and unfailingly. For they relieve all pressure and strain and allow the foot muscles to function with natural freedom.

BULLETIN.

Isles of Shoals, Me., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The July, an auxiliary schooner out of Boston, caught fire and burned off here today. The crew was picked up by the Antonia, a flounder dragger on its way to Boston.

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—The United States liner Republic came into port today, bringing one of those tales of storm and stress and dauntless courage which, after all, are merely commonplaces of the sea. Eleven living human beings snatched from the grip of the North Atlantic devils of ice and tempest illustrated a thrilling saga of seamanship, endurance, and daring.

Aboard the Republic, owners of nothing in the world except the dried rags they stood in, were the skipper and ten men of the fishing schooner Gander Deal, rescued by the liner a long way east of the Grand Banks in the eleventh hour of their extremity. The British consular authorities took charge of the fortunate mariners and are sending them home tomorrow as Christmas presents to their wives and families—home being Newtown and a string of fishing villages along the bleak Newfoundland coast.

They had meant to take a lot more home—toys for the kids, silk dresses for the womenfolk, candy, groceries, and store goods—but luck broke against them and they came out of their adventure with just one possession—the breath in their battered bodies.

Near Harbor When Storm Struck.

The Gander Deal, a bit of a boat—only sixty-eight tons—out of St. John's, had finished the cod season and was retreating before the winter blasts when the great gale struck on Nov. 29.

She was working her way up the coast, keeping in sight of land as much as possible, when the storm smote the sea, raising waves fifty feet high. The wind rose to a full gale by noon of Saturday, Nov. 30, and the Gander Deal was battered like a cork in the enormous troughs of the sea.

Five times men narrowly saved themselves from being washed overboard. Manuel Barbour, the skipper, was lashed to the wheel, and every man on watch moved with a line looped about his waist and tied to mast or rail.

Sight Ship; It Vanishes.

Saturday night the skipper saw that the Gander Deal was doomed, so he sent up rockets and burned distress flares. Late at night the lookout sighted a steamship—far off—but apparently the distant liner failed to see the signals. The liner's light blinked out and she was gone into the void of night.

Twelve hours before rescue came conditions were desperate. The crew jettisoned all the cargo except the 35 tons of coal, but the schooner continued to sink. Gradually, however, the storm abated, and at 4:30 p. m. on Dec. 1 the Gander Deal lay in an abated sea, helpless, waterlogged, slowly foundering.

Rescue at Last.

Then suddenly, far off to the east, a big liner was sighted churning southwestward. It was the Republic. Her lookout spotted the distress flares and by 6:15 p. m. the steamship was a quarter of a mile to the windward of the low lying hulk.

Swiftly and smartly, Chief Officer Harold L. Winslow was away from the Republic and over the sea toward the schooner. The storm, luckily, was rapidly abating. Alongside the Gander Deal, no time was wasted. The Newfoundland fishermen knew exactly what to do. At 6:45 p. m. they were safely aboard, possibly a record for a rescue of such magnitude.

CALIFF OF CARTHAGE.

Reduction Moves Beaten by Far Westerners.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Far western senators today successfully resisted efforts to force reductions in increased duties recommended by the senate finance committee on wool. Votes on various amendments developed a split among the radical Republicans, a few representing states where sheep raising is not an important branch of agriculture favoring lower rates, while others supported substantial increases.

The senate, by a vote of 22 to 53, rejected an amendment by Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] to fix the duty on carbonized noils at 24 cents per pound, as in the present law, instead of 30 cents as proposed by the finance committee. A Blaine amendment to cut the duty on wool wastes, carbonized, from 23 cents as proposed to 16 cents, and on wool wastes, uncarbonized, from 16 cents as proposed to 10 cents, and on wool wastes not specially provided for from 24 cents as proposed to 20 cents, was defeated by a vote of 25 to 45.

Another amendment by Senator Blaine to fix the duty on wool rags at 9 cents per pound, an increase of 1½ cents over the present rate, instead of 24 cents as proposed by the finance committee, was defeated 31 to 42. The senate also rejected an amendment by Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] to fix the duty at 10½ cents.

When adjournment was taken for the day amendments were pending by Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] to compromise the wool rag controversy by fixing the rate at 18 cents and by Senator Jesse H. Metcalf [Rep., R. I.] to impose graduated rates ranging from 8 to 16 cents.

Senator Blaine in presenting the cause of the consumer found himself on the same side of the fence as eastern Republicans like Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], who objected to increases on the raw material of the woolen manufacturers.

Radicals who joined with Senator Blaine were Senators Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] and George W. Norris [Rep., Neb]. Many of the other radicals come from sheep raising states and lined up for high duties."

Gary's Lake Front Drive Plan Is Killed by County

Gary, Ind., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Construction of a proposed lake shore drive along the Gary lake front, which has been opposed by more than two thousand Gary taxpayers, was definitely blocked today when the petition asking for the building of this road was denied by the Lake county commissioners.

SENATOR WARREN'S ESTATE VALUED AT $6,742,449 IN WILL

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The will of the late United States Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, in which the senator estimated the total value of the estate at $6,742,449 at the time it was drawn, March 4, last, was filed for probate here today.

The widow, Mrs. Clara A. Warren, and a son, Frederick E. Warren, are the principal beneficiaries, and are named as executors.

Gen. John J. Pershing, a son-in-law, was left $30,000 in stock of the Warren Livestock company and the F. E. Warren Mercantile company.

Large blocks of stock of the United States Rubber company and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana were listed in the bequests to the widow, in addition to stock in several companies which Senator Warren operated in Wyoming. Market values of the stock at the time the will was drawn were used by the senator in the estimate of $6,742,449 as the total value of his estate.

Francis E. Warren II., a grandson, and a granddaughter, Mary Helen Warren, were among relatives receiving substantial bequests. Several employés received $1,000 each.

FRANCE'S DEBT PLAN APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A favorable report on the Hawley bill, to provide settlement of the French debt as requested by President Hoover in his annual message, was recommended today by the house ways and means committee.

The senate finance committee has before it a companion measure introduced by Chairman Smoot.

Chairman Hawley of the house group, said he would seek early action, and Smoot promised a similar attempt.

The house committee vote followed quickly the testimony of Undersecretary Mills of the treasury, who explained details of the settlement providing payment of four billion 25 million dollars over a period of 62 years.

Hawley declined to make the roll call public, but opposition was indicated during the hearing by Representatives Garner of Texas, the minority leader, and Rainey [Dem., Ill.]. Representative Crisp [Dem., Ga.], a member of the American debt commission which negotiated the settlement, repeated his views that the sum represented every cent America could hope to get from the French.

WELDING WATER TO LAND AND AIR...

ON THE CONTINENT'S WESTERN EDGE

TO CAPITALIZE upon this nature-fashioned "jumping off place"... to markets of staggering size in the Orient, South America, and Oceania... Port of Oakland now completes the task of welding water to land and air.

Deep sea shipping facilities of vast San Francisco Bay are being connected more efficiently to the termini of three transcontinental railroads, to the highways' ends of 29 truck freighting and bus lines, to the airport runways of six transport companies.

With millions being expended by a world-minded citizenry, the Port of Oakland rapidly develops its officially-designated Port of Entry.

Huge concrete piers have been built... Inner and Outer Harbor channels are being deepened. Clogging bridge traffic has been eliminated by the new $5,000,000 Posey Subway through which motor cars and buses drive under ocean liners between Oakland and Alameda.

Alameda County's other bayside cities—Berkeley, Emeryville, Alameda—match this swift pace... with large investments in facilities to speed the day of western maritime supremacy.

Already, Port of Oakland is self-supporting. More than 30 steamship lines dock regularly to load or discharge with no lost motion—in direct ship-side contact with other transportation.

CHINA WAR SCENE SHIFTS; REBELS POUND AT CANTON

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11, Wednesday.—(AP)—Fighting between nationalist troops and Pukow mutineers 50 miles north of Pukow was reported in advices from Nanking at 10 o'clock this morning. Wounded from the battle had arrived in Nanking.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANTON, Dec. 10.—The Kwangtung provincial government suffered a severe blow this morning when 10,000 Cantonese troops at Samshui, about 15 miles from Canton, revolted and declared allegiance to the "Ironsides division" rebels under the leadership of Gen. Chang Fak-kwei. The rebels attacked and captured Sunkai, 19 miles from Canton. Gen. Ho Ying-ching's garrison at Sunkai fiercely engaged with the rebels for five hours, but the Ironsides occupied the town, driving off the government forces this afternoon.

Vanguards of Gen. Chang's soldiers are now attacking the government fortifications in a suburb of Canton in the White Cloud mountains. Numerous refugees, mostly Chinese, left Canton for Hongkong after hearing the gunfire. The foreign residents have decided to remain in the foreign quarter, which is considered safe.

Chinese police today commandeered hundreds of motor cars and trucks to transport soldiers to the front. These vehicles returned tonight with scores of wounded from the region of the White Cloud mountains.

War on Nanking Slows Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11.—The development of active aggressions against the Nanking government by the rebels in central China has been somewhat slower than expected, although the rebel troops of Gen. Tang Sengchi, with headquarters in Chengchow, Honan, are said to be moving southward with the intention of occupying the Wuhan area, which comprises the triple cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang.

President Chiang Kai-shek appears to be unwavering in his determination to carry on and suppress all opposition. He announced today that he expects to fully defend Hankow and the sister cities against the rebels.

Reports seem to indicate that what a few days ago appeared to be a united front against Nanking is dissipating from the usual cause—failure of the revolters to agree among themselves.

Governors Declare Loyalty.

Gen. Ho Chen, governor of Hunan province, who was expected to side with Gen. Tang, has announced his loyalty to the government and is not sending troops against the Wuhan cities. Gov. Chen Tao-yuan of Shantung province, whose attitude was doubtful, now definitely declares he will support President Chiang.

Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, although dissatisfied with certain phases of the Nanking regime, has announced his disapproval of the recent circular telegram denouncing President Chiang. In any event he is not likely to actively engage in warfare.

While it was first reported that the government troops in Honan had joined Gen. Tang, it is learned that minor officers have elected Gen. Yang Chieh as commander of the 10th army corps to replace the rebel leader and have already engaged with the troops of Gen. Tang south of Hsuchang. This requires the latter's attention for the subjugation of the remaining loyalists prior to his concentration on the march to Wuhan.

U. S. Warships on Way.

Notwithstanding reassurances from Nanking, and although Shanghai-Nanking railway service was again resumed today, the American flagship Pittsburgh and six destroyers are rushing here from the Philippines. They are expected tomorrow. An additional Japanese gunboat also will arrive tomorrow.

Preparations are being made here for defense of the foreign settlement in case of emergency. Barbed wire barricades and iron gates have been erected, separating the foreign settlement from the Chinese city. Foreign troops here number approximately 5,500, including 1,000 United States marines.

A. OF C. BANQUET TO BE ATTENDED BY TRADE CHIEFS

The 25th anniversary of the founding of the Chicago Association of Commerce will be celebrated at a banquet in the Palmer house tomorrow night. Two generations of Chicago business men and several national industrial personages will participate.

Walter S. Gifford, a former Chicagoan who went to New York and became president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, will deliver the principal address. His subject will be "Prosperity." Charles Ward Seabury, president of the association, will be toastmaster and the Rev. Duncan H. Browne of St. James' cathedral will deliver the invocation.

David R. Forgan, second president of the association in 1906, will be guest of honor. Other past presidents attending will be Richard C. Hall, Edward H. Skinner, Harry A. Wheeler, E. U. Kirkbank, Howard Elting, Charles L. Dering, John W. O'Leary, Lucius Teter, Harry H. Merrick, W. W. Baird, Joseph R. Noel, Edward E. Gore, Judson F. Stone, William R. Dawes, and Frank Winans.

WAR SECRETARY TO HELP ILLINOIS GET WATERWAY

Co-operation Is Promised by Army Officers.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Pledges of coöperation by war department officials today gave a substantial impetus to the Illinois waterway project.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, and Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways corporation of the war department, were among the speakers at a luncheon given by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce to the Illinois delegation in congress, and to Gov. Louis E. Emmerson and other Illinoisans in attendance at the annual meeting of the national rivers and harbors congress.

Secretary Hurley's promise of coöperation seemed sufficiently broad to remove any misgivings which Illinoisans may have had as to his attitude on the waterway project which his predecessor, the late James W. Good, was known definitely to favor.

Hopes for Decision Soon.

"We are having some discussions on the Chicago to the Mississippi Hurley. "We hope the matters we are discussing will be concluded waterway project," said Secretary shortly. I am unequivocally for the completion of the nine foot channel."

While Mr. Hurley did not make specific reference to the proposal that the federal government appropriate the amount to complete the Illinois state waterway project, now estimated at $7,500,000, his remarks were construed as implying his support if the details can be worked out in a satisfactory manner.

Good's Order Being Obeyed.

Gen. Brown explained that it was considered unethical for an army officers "to tell what he knows in advance of reporting to his superior officer." However, he promised to speed up action on the report, soon to be transmitted by the army engineers to congress on the Illinois project.

"With regard to the lakes to the gulf waterway," said Gen. Brown, "Secretary Good before his death gave me very positive instructions to get the subject in shape to present to congress this year. I hope we shall be able to present it in such form that it can be acted upon by congress at this session."

Gen. Ashburn asserted that the government barge line now in operation on the Mississippi will be extended to the Illinois river "as soon as terminals are completed."

Gov. Emmerson, in his address, declared that under the limitations of the Illinois constitution the state must look to the federal government for the completion of the waterway project. Federal aid should be forthcoming, he said, in view of the fact that the Chicago sanitary district and the state of Illinois already have expended considerably more than 100 million dollars on the waterway. The governor said he wants to see the waterway completed within two years.

Hoover's Greetings Received.

Inland waterway development was boosted at the sessions of the national rivers and harbors congress. President Hoover sent the following message:

"Please extend my cordial greetings to the national rivers and harbors congress in its convention on Tuesday, and express my appreciation of its steadfast support of a waterways policy that will systematically enlarge the internal communications of the country."

Secretary Hurley and Gen. Brown were among the speakers. Representative W. E. Hull spoke in advocacy of the Illinois waterway project and defended diversion of water at Chicago. The opposition to Chicago water diversion had a spokesman in Representative Grant M. Hudson [Rep., Mich.], who declared that, while the lakes to the gulf waterway is entitled to such diversion "as will be necessary to maintain such navigation as commerce might require," excess diversion would mean a burdensome expense to shipping interests using the great lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

Diversion Debated in House.

Meanwhile, the controversy over diversion of water at Chicago broke out on the floor of the house. Representative Hull dealt with the lake levels question in a speech and was answered by Representative W. H. Stafford [Rep., Wis.], who contended that a diversion of 2,000 cubic second feet will be sufficient for navigation in a nine foot waterway. Representative Hull had insisted that diversion of a substantial amount of water at Chicago is essential for the success of the Illinois waterway project.

"The evidence is conclusive and it cannot be honestly disputed that rainfall and runoff are the principal factors affecting changes in the levels of the great lakes," said Mr. Hull. "If the original natural levels of the lakes are desirable they can be obtained by compensating works at a cost of $3,-000,000.

"In my judgment, it is doubtful whether the lake levels are the real bone of contention, when they can be restored so easily and cheaply. It seems that power or commercial supremacy, or both, are probably the real issues."

Says City's Bankruptcy Irrelevant.

Representative Stafford denied that the great lakes states are opposing the Illinois waterway. He quoted from testimony in the Hughes hearings in the Supreme court case that a diversion of 2,000 feet was sufficient for navigation.

"I am not concerned here with the bankruptcy of the municipality of Chicago under the wonderful leadership of that great general who had a war with King George of England and succeeded in misleading the people of Chicago into the belief that the interior fortification of Chicago was endangered by the hosts of Briton coming across here," said Mr. Stafford. "I do maintain that as Milwaukee and other lake cities have established sewage disposal plants at the expense of millions of dollars, that course should be followed by the city of Chicago."

Beats and Robs Woman in North Chicago Home

An armed Negro entered the home of Felix Lewanowicz, 1025 Jackson street, North Chicago, yesterday noon, found Mrs. Lewanowicz alone, and beat her with his pistol butt and fists until she revealed the hiding place of $150 in a mantel clock. He escaped. Mrs. Lewanowicz, whose spine was dislocated in the struggle, was taken to a hospital.

U. S. Diverts Ship with Reinforcements.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Galveston, which reached Jacmel several days ago with a small body of reinforcements, will leave that port tomorrow for Port-au-Prince, stopping at Aux Cayes, Jeremie, and Miragoane en route.

Haitian government officials and officers of the United States marine corps joined today in declaring the disorders apparently had been crushed and that the backbone of any movement that may have been planned by the political opposition had been broken.

Establish Curfew Order.

Col. Frank Evans, commanding the American military police in this city, said he was confident that there would be no further trouble in the larger communities, although there was a possibility of an outbreak in the interior, where agitators were said to have been inciting people with stories that the United States and President Borno had combined to enslave them through imposing high taxes on tobacco and coffee.

Martial law was strengthened in the capital by a marine corps order for every one to be indoors by 9 p. m. Military police continue their general rounds of the city.

Plans are proceeding for the marriage of Madeline Borno, daughter of President Borno, to Daniel Brun, Haitian architect, on Saturday, five hundred guests having been invited.

U. S. Marines Diverted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—American marines, en route to Haiti on the airplane tender Wright, were diverted to Guantanamo, Cuba, today to await further developments. Unless a new outbreak occurs, the 500 marines will not be sent to Haiti. For the present, the American re-enforcements will be kept close enough to the island republic to permit their use quickly if needed.

The state department tonight made public a message from Brig. Gen. John H. Russell that conditions throughout Haiti are steadily improving and that there is no present evidence of unrest in central Haiti.

"Prominent Haitians at Cape Haitien state they welcome a firm orderly government whether administered by Americans or by their own government," said Gen. Russell. "Reassuring statements by the garde are quieting the country people. Three-fourths of the school children at Cape Haitien have returned to school."

Gen. Russell also said that reports from Cape Haitien were that the recent statement that President Borno would not be up for re-election had a most telling effect in restoring order.

Aviation Notes

Boeing Air Transport, Universal Air Lines, and Continental Air Services have variously been named recently as prospective purchasers of Sky Harbor airport west of Glencoe. Inquiry yesterday, however, failed to show any basis for the reports. While officials of Sky Harbor have refused to discuss their financial affairs, rumors have persisted that the new airport, which was the scene of much activity during last summer, is to be sold.

Expansion of their service to include San Francisco in a two day air and rail service to New York was announced yesterday by the Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddox lines. The new service will be routed via Barstow, Cal., for the eastbound planes and via Los Angeles for the westbound.

The Junkers management yesterday indicated that it would take some legal action against the Ford Airplane company for the alleged infringement of Junkers patents in the construction of all metal planes, according to an Associated Press cable dispatch. The German company took action to obtain an injunction as soon as a new Ford plane was delivered at Seville, Spain. A statement issued by Junkers stated that so long as Ford did not export planes the company had refrained from action.

L. H. Atkinson, former vice president of Brainiff Air Lines, came to Chicago yesterday to organize a pilots' trade union. He said that Dale Jackson, endurance flyer, is associated with him in the venture.

Ole Eielson of Hatton, N. D., father of Carl Ben Eielson, arctic flyer, who has been lost since he took off from Nome, Alaska, on a rescue flight a month ago, yesterday announced that if all other searching parties fail he will undertake the search. If no word is heard from his son by Feb. 1 the elder Eielson said he would leave for Alaska.

Mexico's first air meet opened yesterday when 24 Mexican war flyers flew in formation as a salute to a group of distinguished American visitors in Mexico City.

COL. O. B. DUNCAN HELD GUILTY OF FALSE CLAIMS

Col. Otis B. Duncan, said to have been highest ranking colored officer in the United States army during the world war, will be sentenced on Jan. 7 by Federal Judge Wilkerson for entering false claims against the government for approximately $1,700. Duncan was declared guilty in Judge Wilkerson's court yesterday.

Duncan entered a plea of nolo contendere three weeks ago, and the hearing yesterday consisted of testimony given by character witnesses for him. He also testified in his own behalf, presenting his war record as mitigating evidence. The conviction carries a maximum penalty of ten years in a federal penitentiary and $10,000 fine.

Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Foust prosecuted the case for the government.

BRAIN EXPERTS TAKE STAND FOR MRS. McCORMICK

Dr. Kempf's Treatment Hit by 2 Witnesses.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Santa Barbara, Cal., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Mentality experts called by Mrs. Stanley McCormick see no value in psycho-analysis for her afflicted husband and advised abandonment of Dr. Edward Kempf's method of treating him, while on the witness stand today.

Dr. Thomas Orbison of Los Angeles and Dr. George Dock of Pasadena testified most of the day in support of Mrs. McCormick, who is opposing Harold McCormick and Mrs. Emmons Blaine, in their plea for court orders continuing them in co-guardianship with the wife over Stanley McCormick's health and wealth.

Audience Titters at Replies.

Dr. Orbison was a lively witness. He answered, "Thank God, no!" when asked if he was a psycho-analyst, and the courtroom laughed. Other replies to Attorney William Caselis of Chicago, during cross-examination, brought more titters. Orbison's testimony was followed in less striking words by Dr. Dock, who for 17 years occupied a chair at the University of Michigan and also was professor at Tulane and Washington universities.

The two experts spent hours sniping at the psycho-analytical school of mental healing, and in particular the methods of Dr. Kempf, who is Stanley McCormick's chief physician at $130,000 a year. Mrs. McCormick is seeking court power to discharge Kempf, whose retention is desired by Harold McCormick and Mrs. Blaine.

Tells of Three Visits.

Judge William Dehy listened intently as Orbison testified about his three visits to Stanley McCormick, on May 1, May 8, and Nov. 22, 1929, and said McCormick seemed better on May 8 than in November. In November, Orbison said, "We asked questions and he maintained long silences, but then names and sentences began coming out of his recollection like corks bobbing up to the top of the water. Many of his answers had no meaning."

Orbison said he asked the patient, "Do you believe psycho-analysis is doing you good?" and the patient replied, "No."

"As the disease progresses," Orbison said in explaining its nature, "there are less dynamic changes in the patient. No longer does he become so excited, so depressed as in early years. He sometimes has good days, good weeks or good months."

Urges Good Companions.

Newton Baker, Mrs. McCormick's chief counsel, asked: "You have seen this man. You have diagnosed his case. You are aware of the financial resources available for his treatment. What would you suggest to be done for him that holds out most hope?"

Orbison replied: "Every attempt should be made to give him anything that would enable him to express himself. I would surround him with persons of a high type of education. I believe Mr. McCormick is just as lonely as he can be. I would not use him as a human guinea pig, testing him out for this and that, but with his means this man can certainly improve."

Psycho-analysis Rapped.

"While professor of medicine at Washington university," Dr. Dock said, "I consulted my medical friends throughout the country as to putting in a chair on psycho-analysis, but the consensus was that we did not need it, and I do not think that was a mistake."

Dock gave a more favorable description of the patient's condition than Orbison's, but, like Orbison, he held that Dr. Kempf's system of psycho-analyzing McCormick had run its course in efficiency.

Judge Dehy, Attorney Baker, and Attorney Oscar Lawler, for the opposition faction, made a trip to the bedside of Cyrus H. McCormick this afternoon and took his testimony by deposition. He commended Dr. Kempf's treatment.

ALIMONY BUREAU PAYS $172,063 TO EX-WIVES IN YEAR

Reconciliation Is Part of Official Duty.

In the last year, records of the Cook county bureau of public welfare reveal, $172,063 was collected by the alimony bureau without the use of legal process from ex-husbands for the benefit of mothers and children. The amount is $23,000 more than the alimony payments collected in the previous year.

In all 740 cases were handled during the year by the alimony bureau, headed by Mrs. Margaret Donar, assistant director of the public welfare bureau. But the total of cases reaches about 2,500, Mrs. Donar said, when those are included in which reconciliations between the divorced parents were effected, or in which divorce proceedings were dropped.

Two Reconciliations a Week.

Mrs. Donar said that an average of two reconciliations a week are brought about in her office, after social welfare workers at the bureau have paved the way for an understanding.

She was occupied yesterday afternoon with just such a situation. It was a suburban couple whose happiness was wrecked on the wife's $50 monthly allowance for household expenses. She said it was not enough. He said it was. She beat up her husband and then went out and got a $16 a week job.

Yesterday, advised by welfare workers, the wife was ready to relinquish her job and return to her two children and her $50 a month, and the husband was spreading the welcome mat in Mrs. Donar's office.

"They'll get along," prophesied Mrs. Donar. "That $50 is plenty where they live, and with their own garden and the extra money he gives her for the children.

What Jail Does to a Man.

"Two months ago I had a case where the couple had been divorced six years. He was $600 in arrears on the alimony. We worked on the case, then finally brought them in here, and the upshot was that I sent them downstairs remarried.

"One man we had to call into court swore he'd stay in jail forever, rather than pay his wife $650 in alimony. After spending seven months in jail he called in a lawyer, borrowed $500, and arranged to pay the balance.

"As a general rule, we find that a divorced husband is willing to support his children, if we assure him the money will be spent on the children."

The alimony bureau was instituted in July of 1926. In the remainder of that year it handled 125 cases involving $23,968. In 1927 it handled 573 cases involving $98,928. In 1928, there were 523 cases, and $138,886.

Schiller Threatens Council Plea.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson was informed last night that the city's case for the refund of $648,444 paid in federal income taxes by four real estate "experts" hinges on the fact that Mayor Thompson had participated in the conspiracy. The "experts," defendants in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's expert fee suit, received huge sums from the city.

The argument was made by Jay A. Schiller, special assistant corporation counsel, who was suddenly recalled from Washington by Ettelson after he had filed a brief in which the mayor was referred to as a "conspirator." Unless he can continue his oral argument upon the theory that the mayor was a member of the conspiracy, Schiller threatened, in his letter, to inform the council of the facts and ask to be relieved of further responsibility for the outcome of the case.

Holds Charge Merely Duty.

"I am convinced by a long line of court decisions that the city may only obtain restoration of these funds from the government if the mayor was a member of the conspiracy and participated therein," wrote Schiller. "Being so convinced, it was and is my duty, as the legal representative of the city, to reassert before the bureau of internal revenue, both in the brief and oral arguments, the charges of fraud and conspiracy against these officials.

"I cannot possibility eliminate the references to the conspiracy and its perpetrators from my presentation of this case, for by so doing, I would deprive the city of the best theory upon which it can recover these large sums.

"Unless you withdraw the countermand of my authority which you have filed with the bureau of internal revenue, and unless you allow me to present the brief and oral argument upon the sole theory upon which in my opinion the city has the maximum probability of recovery, I shall be compelled to address a communication to the city council, which retained me in this case, advising them of the premises and requesting that I be relieved from further responsibility for the outcome of the case."

Protected Mayor, Claim.

Schiller charges in the letter that Ettleson countermanded his authority and asked government officials not to consider or regard as official the brief filed by Schiller because the mayor was characterized as a "conspirator."

After reciting a history of the case in the Circuit court, Schiller wrote: "By requiring the mayor to make restitution of this sum of money the court specifically found that Mayor Thompson had participated in the conspiracy." The defendants were ordered by the court to refund to the city a total of $2,245,604.

Ettelson now has a corps of assistants studying the Schiller brief and has hired Attorney Frederick A. Bangs to assist in drawing a new brief. The new brief, according to statements, will hinge on the theory that the case can be prosecuted without referring to the mayor in harsh terms.

DIVORCED WOMAN ASKS MILLION OF ALFRED DU PONT

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 10.—(Special.)—Declining to disclose the basis for her action, Mrs. Mary Ball, a kinswoman by marriage to the wealthy Alfred I. Du Pont, sued him and his wife, Mrs. Jessie Ball Du Pont, for $1,000,000 here today.

Mrs. Ball was divorced in Jacksonville two years ago by Thomas Ball, a Los Angeles Cal., attorney, who is a brother of Mrs. Du Pont. At that time Mrs. Ball threatened to sue Du Pont and his wife for damages, charging that they had alienated Ball's affections and caused him to divorce her.

In answering her husband's suit, Mrs. Ball declared that a conspiracy existed between Mrs. Du Pont and Ball, in which her husband's sister attempted to take him from her.

Du Pont Refuses to Comment.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 10.—(Special.)—Alfred I. Du Pont refused tonight to comment on the $1,000,000 suit brought against him and his wife.

U. S. DRY AGENT IS SHOT DEAD BY A NEGRESS

Cushing, Okla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Otto Butler of Enid, a federal prohibition agent, was shot and killed here today when he attempted to serve a warrant on a Negro charged with selling whisky. Butler's companion, George Danhour, also a prohibition agent, was dangerously wounded. John Young, the Negro, and his wife were arrested.

Butler was instantly killed by a shot which Danhour said the woman fired. Danhour, with bullet wounds in the side and shoulder, was taken to a hospital here, where it was reported he had a chance to recover. Shots from the revolvers of both Young and his wife wounded him, Danhour said.

SNATCHES $300 AND ESCAPES.

A well dressed young man walked into the Eizga Optical company, 60 West Superior street, yesterday afternoon, asked the switchboard operator, Miss Clara Klavas, 5301 Kenmore avenue, for a "Mr. Seitz," and, when she turned to consult a directory, snatched up and fled with a cash box containing $300.

CARRY ON WITH THE TRIBUNE!

Keep your family well this winter!

Sickness rides hard and fast on the heels of winter. Slush and snow breed dangerous coughs and colds. Limbs are unsafe on slippery streets and sidewalks.

Winter holds no terrors for the family having a car. Going to school is fun for the children. Mother's shopping trips are pleasant. She can visit friends frequently. Winter doesn't imprison her.

If the family car spends its days downtown with you, get your wife and children a good used car. It will give them a splendid shield against illness.

You can easily get a good used car of the make and model you like among the hundreds listed daily in Tribune Want Ads. Make your selection from those advertised in today's Tribune. Its cost will be little. Its returns in your family's increased health and happiness will be priceless!

RITCHIE TELLS WHY MARYLAND HAS NO DRY LAW

Backs Repeal Drive in Massachusetts.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, proponent of the "wet" cause and an advocate of the principles of state rights, tonight said that no state in the union was under any obligation, legal or moral, to pass a state law to enforce or help enforce national prohibition.

Maryland, which never had a state enforcement law, was better off without one, according to Gov. Ritchie, who cited conditions in his state to support his assertion. He spoke before a large audience under the auspices of the Liberal Civic league, which, with other "wet" groups, is behind a movement to repeal the state enforcement law in Massachusetts.

Quotes Police Figures.

To substantiate his contention "that a state Volstead act is not necessary for an orderly and law abiding city," Gov. Ritchie offered figures showing that in 1928 Boston, under such a state act, had 5,291 more arrests for drunkenness than Baltimore, without a state enforcement act. "We look at other American cities and we see more crime and more lawlessness under state Volstead acts than we have in Baltimore without one," he said.

Gov. Ritchie said that Baltimore, which has more than half the population of Maryland, has a better record for crime punishments than New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, and Milwaukee. He based his statement on figures compiled by Prof. Raymond Moley of Columbia university.

No Nullifier, He Says.

Gov. Ritchie emphasized that although Maryland has no state prohibition act, Baltimore and the counties have local laws governing the subject which allow the measure of enforcement the people of those places want.

"Maryland," Gov. Ritchie said, "does not defy the federal law or try to nullify it. . . . We may be legally bound to obey it, but we are not bound and we decline to assume the burden and the cost of enforcing it. That is for the federal government to do."

Rehearing in $4,000,000 Gas Tax Case Is Denied

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—The state Supreme court today denied a petition for rehearing in the case of the Richardson Lubricating company, involving more than $4,000,000 collected by the state under the invalid gasoline tax law of 1927. In a decision handed down in October the Supreme court held that the money belonged to the state. Attorneys for the company indicated some time ago that the case would be fought to a finish and further evidence will be heard when the case is remanded to the Circuit court of Sangamon county.

SPECIAL ENVOY

WILLIAM A. CASTLE.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—William A. Castle, first assistant secretary of state for the last three years, will serve as ambassador to Japan during the period covered by the five power naval arms conference in London, it was announced at the White House today. The nomination of Mr. Castle as ambassador was sent to the senate by President Hoover and he will leave Washington for his post, Dec. 31.

In making the appointment known it was stated at the White House that Mr. Castle would return to his present duties when the armament conference is concluded. His selection for special ambassadorial duties was made so that the administration would have a trained diplomat, thoroughly conversant with the naval situation, in Tokio while the naval conference was in session.

Selection of Mr. Castle completes this phase of the President's preparations for the London parley. John W. Garrott, American ambassador to Italy, has returned to Rome after making a study of the American naval position at London. Walter E. Edge, the new American ambassador to France, left for Paris last week after making a thorough study of the Hoover position on the armament situation.

SWEARS HE WAS FORCED TO SIGN ARNOLD PAPERS

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—There was much waving of affidavits and photostatic copies of affidavits in the face of a former servant in the household of Arnold today in the trial of Mrs. Bessie S. Arnold's divorce suit against Ray H. Arnold, wealthy investment broker, in Supreme court.

Andrew Bokola, who was twice discharged as a servant for the Arnolds, testifying today as a witness for the defense, swore that he was forced to sign affidavits in behalf of Mrs. Arnold last September because young William Arnold, son of the defendant, threatened to "bump him off" if he did not do so.

Bokola said that he was taken to the house of William J. Rapp, one of the attorneys for Mrs. Arnold, and there, in the presence of Rapp, young Arnold, and two other persons, signed the affidavits. Bokola said he did not want to sign and that Rapp became belligerent.

"Mr. Rapp was very mean with me," said Bokola. "He said he would frame me and he would put me in the penitentiary for twenty years unless I changed my mind."

"And what did William Arnold say?" asked Kenneth Walser, attorney for Mrs. Margaret Crenshaw West, named by Mrs. Arnold as co-respondent.

"He said he'd bump me off if I didn't do what they told me," replied Bokola, "and I wrote what they told me. I was scared."

Bokola testified that as houseman and butler at the Arnolds' country home at Greenwich, Conn., in 1925 and in 1926 he had seen Mrs. Arnold intimate with Charles Hann Jr., attorney for Mrs. Arnold and named as co-respondent in Arnold's counter suit against his wife.

More of the hired help for the Arnolds was on the stand today. Carl Aschenbrenner, who was houseman and butler at Greenwich in 1923 and 1924, said he had been thoroughly "embarrassed" on one particular occasion because he inadvertently walked into the sun parlor one night and found Mrs. Arnold and the late Charles Pittsch Jr., named by Arnold as a co-respondent, together.

"I excused myself and walked out again," said Aschenbrenner, after describing what he said had embarrassed him so.

MRS. THOS. KELLY DIES; NOTED FOR AID TO CHARITIES

Mrs. Thomas Kelly, 71 years old, a resident of Chicago for nearly half a century, died yesterday at her home at 191 East Walton place after a brief illness. She was widely known for her services to charitable orgahizations and undertakings, and was a former president of the Friendly Aid society.

She was the widow of Thomas Kelly, founder and president of the national live stock commission, and came to this city with him from Mississippi as a bride in 1886.

THE BALTIMORE NEWS

makes an important announcement in the interest of National Advertisers in the Baltimore market

IT HAS been an old Baltimore custom to favor locally established manufacturers, jobbers and distributors with local rates, which has placed the invading manufacturers, jobbers and distributors at an economic disadvantage. Consequently, the Baltimore situation as it relates to local-national advertisers receiving local advertising rates has been a sore spot for years.

There seems to have been no ethical ground for the original establishment of this policy and certainly there is no excuse for continuing it. National Advertiser XYZ located in Kokomo comes into Baltimore with a package coffee. He pays the national rate. The local roaster has been permitted to buy advertising in The Baltimore News 17% cheaper and in another Baltimore paper this local man pays 50% per cent. less than Advertiser XYZ.

Correctly interpreted, a local advertiser is one who sells at retail through outlets which he owns or controls.

This seems a fair definition of advertisers entitled to local rates. It is a rule that would work universally fair wherever applied.

At present in Baltimore the rule seems to be:

An advertiser located in Baltimore—regardless of what his product is or where or how he sells it—in any event he gets the local rates. This rule would work chaos if universally applied.

Since it seems impossible for Baltimore newspapers to agree on a definition or to agree as to what is fair, The Baltimore News feels obligated to act independently in the matter.

Henceforth local rates will be applicable in The Baltimore News only to such advertisers as sell at retail through outlets which they own or control.

Automotive, tire and gasoline advertising will count under the national or general classification.

In the future radio as well as other general advertising cannot be placed through distributors at local rates.

Present contracts will be carried out.

Henceforth general advertisers in The Baltimore News will not have to face rate competition when coming into the Baltimore market.

There will be one Baltimore newspaper selling its advertising space on a legitimate basis. It will be The Baltimore News.

And just by way of propaganda: The Baltimore News is not a combination buy, forced or otherwise. It delivers an unduplicated circulation at one cost. Incidentally, this is the largest daily circulation that can be bought south of Philadelphia. Large enough to do a REAL job and adequately cover the city. November's net paid was 160,042.

Any advertising executives interested in this local-national rate situation in general and in the Baltimore situation in particular are invited to address the publisher.

Tells Parliament She'd Like to Sing "Belinda."

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Lady Astor today again characteristically supplied a little diversion in the house of commons during a debate on the unemployment insurance bill. While speaking on a clause concerning the education of children, whom, she declared, the government was exploiting for insurance funds, she was continually interrupted from the labor benches.

Laborites Visibly Annoyed.

The government supporters were visibly annoyed. She then charged Sir Charles Trevelyan, minister of education, with not safeguarding the interests of the juvenile unemployed, declaring she was reminded of the song "Say Something, Sweet Belinda, I Love to Hear Thy Voice."

The government is to be challenged in the house of commons before Christmas on its unemployment policy. The opposition tonight forced Prime Minister MacDonald to concede the opportunity before the Christmas recess for a "full dress" debate.

Prime Minister MacDonald agreed, following strong protests by both opposition parties, to allow the debate to take place on the formal question of the "Salary of the Lord Privy Seal"—the official title of J. H. Thomas as the minister who is responsible for the government's unemployment proposals.

Debate on Jobless Looms.

Both oppositions are strongly dissatisfied with what they regard as "inadequacy" of the government's proposals to find work for 1,300,000 jobless, an official figure issued by the ministry of labor today up to Dec. 2. It is the labor government's minority of 9 in the commons is a result of the opposition's challenge, it is being regarded with considerable interest in parliamentary lobbies.

Illustrating the inadequacy of the government's work, the opposition's proposals point out that the unemployment schemes of Mr. Thomas as outlined on white paper, issued tonight, will only provide a year's work for about 90,000 persons.

NEW ARMOR MAY LEAD TO ARMIES IN COAT OF MAIL

British Light Plate Resists Bullets.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Secret tests of a new type of armor plate of exceptional resisting power which has been evolved by British armament researchers are going on under the supervision of high naval and military experts at the great Woolwich arsenal, the British government's chief armament plant and experimental depot.

These plates have been rolled down from thicker carburized armor plates, the face being hardened after the rolling. They differ from the usual type of bullet proof plate in that the latter is uniformly hard throughout. Plates manufactured by this formula have already been tested by British admiralty experts. They were fired at with half inch armor-piercing bullets. The results of these experiments are being kept a close secret.

Weight Called Great Drawback.

Commenting on the new discovery, which has given rise to considerable discussion in naval and military circles, the Daily Telegraph's naval correspondent declares that weight is a great drawback in the use of armor, whether for tanks, infantry shields or warships. The correspondent then raises an interesting possibility of the future, declaring that if the present weight of sheet armor, capable of keeping out ordinary rifle or machine gun bullets, could be reduced by half it might become feasible to equip infantrymen with bullet proof shields. At the same time the problem of tank construction would be simplified.

No expert has yet been found, however, who will commit himself to a statement that this stage has already been reached, but the correspondent declares that all are hopeful that the secret processes now under test will effect a marked improvement in the resisting properties of armor plate. Several of the foremost British chemists and metallurgists are working on the problem.

No Longer Dependent on Krupps.

It was pointed out that British armor manufacturers are no longer dependent upon Krupp's formula for hardening steel. Purely national methods, it is said, have been evolved of superior efficiency which have been demonstrated beyond cavil.

In comparative tests between Krupp cemented plates taken from the former German battleship, Baden, and plates of a similar thickness and of contemporary data made to British specifications, the German armor proved inferior. The German armor was penetrated by a shell which the British plate resisted.

Regarding the application of armor plate to warships, it was pointed out by the Daily Telegraph correspondent that even more marked improvement in the resisting power of plates would still leave unsolved the problem of defending 10,000 ton cruisers against gunfire.

In these vessels so much weight is preempted by high powered machinery and guns that very little margin remains over for protection.

U. S. NAVY TO GET FIRST OF 23 NEW CRUISERS TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—The Salt Lake City, first of the twenty-three 10,000 ton 8-inch gun cruisers on the American naval building program to be completed, will join the United States fleet tomorrow. A sister ship of the same size will be commissioned in January, and eleven others now building are scheduled for completion before the end of the 1933 fiscal year.

Ten other Washington treaty cruisers for which construction funds are carried in the Hoover 1931 budget are scheduled to be laid down late in 1931. Whether all this latter group of vessels will be completed will depend upon the results of the five power naval reduction treaty to be held in London in January.

No Limit Set on Number.

The treaty cruiser, a new type vessel to enter the navies of the world, sprang into existence following the ratification of the five power naval limitation agreement entered into at Washington in 1922. This treaty limited the size of cruisers to 10,000 tons and the caliber of guns to 8 inches. Within those limits each major naval power was permitted to design and construct the type of cruiser it thought best for national defense needs. No limit on numbers was fixed.

Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan immediately launched cruiser building programs while the United States delayed action. As a result this country was left far behind the major powers in the construction of these powerful speedy cruisers. Great Britain, at present, has eleven Washington treaty cruisers operating with her fleets, Japan eight, France four, and Italy two. Commissioning of the Salt Lake City tomorrow will give the United States one.

Protection Is Light.

A glance at the characteristics of the treaty cruisers of all powers reveals that they are alike in having destroyer speed, battleship range with their 8-inch guns, and a comparatively long radius of action. Their weakness lies in the fact that most of the ships in this class are only lightly protected. The displacement of these ships is limited to 10,000 tons without fuel or feed water. This gives a normal displacement of 12,000 tons and a fuel displacement approaching 14,000 tons.

The Salt Lake City mounts ten guns, is 585 feet long, 64 feet in breadth and is designed to make 32.5 miles an hour. It is comparatively lightly armored. The reports are that it has 2 inch deck armor, 1½ inch side armor, and special protection for vital parts. Later American cruisers will have only nine guns, 33 to 34 knots speed and heavier deck protection.

EIGHT DEPUTIES TRIED AFTER SIX DEATHS IN RIOT AT MILLS

Burnsville, N. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—State and defense late today agreed upon twelve men who will sit as a jury in the trial of eight McDowell county deputy sheriffs accused of the murder of six cotton mill strikers during a riot at Marion on Oct. 7. For the most part the jury consists of Yancey county farmers and loggers.

The case was brought to this little mountain village to get it away from the atmosphere of the industrial sections of the state. The courtroom was jammed.

The bar was so crowded with court attachés, attorneys, and newspaper men that the eight defendants—W. A. Fender, Dave Jarrett, B. L. Robbins, Jim Owens, Charles Tate, Taylor Greene, William Twiggs, and Robert Ward—were seated outside the railing, in the seats provided for spectators.

Only general mention of the early morning battle in Marion on Oct. 7 in which a score of persons were struck by gunfire and a dozen others injured by other weapons was made in the examination of the veniremen.

The seven indictments against the deputy sheriffs were consolidated. Six of them charged all of the deputies with second degree murder on each of the deceased, Tilden Carver, Luther Bryson, George Jonas, Randolph R. Hall, Samuel Vickers, and James Roberts. The seventh indictment charged all of the deputies with all of the deaths. Second degree murder conviction carries a sentence of two to thirty years.

ALDERMAN SEEKS "L" TO STREET CAR TRANSFER ACTION

Ald. John A. Massen [48th] announced yesterday that he would request the council local transportation committee at its meeting tomorrow to institute action toward obtaining an order directing the elevated and surface lines to issue transfers between their systems. The Illinois commerce commission has the power to direct the issuance of the transfers, Massen said, and the council should appeal to the commission for such an order.

"The reorganization committee, which is trying to devise a financial setup, no doubt is working hard," said Ald. Massen. "The activities of that group, however, are not the only avenue to progress. Suppose this committee of bankers should be unable to work out a financial plan. Then, unless we do something in the meantime, we will be where we have been for years.

"Transfers between the elevated and surface lines will help give Chicago better local transportation service than it ever has had. We ought to make progress in the traction problem, and this is a good place to start."

In an affidavit by James E. a railway official, Elmer Marek, Cedar Rapids High school gri was attracted to Ohio State b of a $240 per month inducemen other sworn statement, this by C D. Hadlock of Chicago, point that Frank Baker, a Northweste with another year to play, had eating free since he enrolled north shore school. Baker also from Cedar Rapids.

All that the Big Ten officials say about the charges was tha were old. They had been invest months ago and found to ha foundation in fact. They exp deny similar rumors that are to spring up shortly.

Father Boosted of Salary?

The affidavit alleging that Mar reason to go a long way from h tive state to complete his educ points out that it was the fath the athlete, Mr. F. A. Marek, a the athlete himself, who reveale purported salary."

Blake swears that the elder M hinted to him that while Elme was in high school he was thought to selling his services grid star. Representatives of the versity of Wisconsin are said to made a trip to Cedar Rapids fo purpose of attracting the youn They also wanted Murrel, who h cided to go to Minnesota. M subsequently walked out on Gophers and accepted an invitat West Point.

It was after the Wisconsin according to the affidavit, that hustled away to Columbus, O. alleged to have gone there a mon so before the fall term opened.

Father Denies Story.

When the affidavits were made Be yesterday Mr. F. A. Marek ried to mention that somebody be kidding. He didn't recall ta to Mr. Blake about salaries for lege athletes. Mr. Hadlock swore he was with Blake when the ment was made.

Elmer himself evinced more o surprise, even annoyance, by opening of the question. He is ployed in a rubber factory at A O. When requested for a few on the subject Elmer replied th never had received a cent; th had had enough trouble with fo and wanted to be let alone. 'He up the receiver on one would terviewer.

Another denial came from State. Athletic Director St. John that so far as the athletic depar was concerned no such offer, o other kind, ever was made Mr. St. John said that he had in possession of a copy of th davits for months.

Baker Works for Board.

The blast directed at Northw by the Hadlock affidavit, which Baker solved the age old sco eating gratis, had the same wea noticeable in the sworn stat from Blake. The latter failed veal the source of Marek's 150 per month. Hadlock was to say who paid for Baker's checks.

Baker is supposed to have tol lock that as soon as he entered Western he was told to do his It a certain restaurant in Ev and not to bother about such as paying the check. Baker inf Madlock, so the affidavit runs he did as instructed, but didn't fise identity of his benefactor.

Out of fear that Northw might be besieged by hungry at Director Kenneth Wilson yes hastened to report that the sc not engaged in giving awa Neither did Wilson know Baker might have received such from enthusiastic alumni. He Baker worked in the restaura change for his board.

Name Marek, Baker in Affidavits.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The first of the series of charges that can be expected from pro-Iowans who wish to cause the Big Ten some annoyance for its purity play in which it banished the Hawkeyes, boomed forth from Cedar Rapids, Ia., yesterday. But there were no casualties.

In an affidavit by James E. Blake, a railway official, Elmer Marek, former Cedar Rapids High school grid star was attracted to Ohio State because of a $500 per month inducement. Another sworn statement, this by Charles D. Hadlock of Chicago, pointed out that Frank Baker, a Northwestern end with another year to play, had been eating free since he enrolled at the north shore school. Baker also hails from Cedar Rapids.

All that the Big Ten officials had to say about the charges was that they were old. They had been investigated months ago and found to have no foundation in fact. They expect to hear similar rumors that are going to spring up shortly.

Father Boosted of Salary?

The affidavit alleging that Marek had been on to go a long way from his native state to complete his education, points out that it was the father of the athlete, Mr. F. A. Marek, and not the athlete himself, who revealed the reported salary.

Blake swears that the elder Marek hinted to him that while Elmer still was in high school he was giving thought to selling his services as a grid star. Representatives of the University of Wisconsin are said to have made a trip to Cedar Rapids for the purpose of attracting the youngster. They also wanted Murrel, who had decided to go to Minnesota. Murrel subsequently walked out on the Gophers and accepted an invitation to West Point.

It was after the Wisconsin "bid," according to the affidavit, that Marek hustled away to Columbus, O. He is alleged to have gone there a month or so before the fall term opened.

Father Denies Story.

When the affidavits were made public yesterday Mr. F. A. Marek hurried to mention that somebody must be kidding. He didn't recall talking to Mr. Blake about salaries of college athletes. Mr. Hadlock swore that he was with Blake when the statement was made.

Elmer himself evinced more or less surprise, even annoyance, by the opening of the question. He is employed in a rubber factory at Akron, O. When requested for a few words on the subject Elmer replied that he never had received a cent; that he had had enough trouble with football and wanted to be let alone. He hung up the receiver on one would-be interviewer.

Another denial came from Ohio State. Athletic Director St. John said that as far as the athletic department was concerned no such offer, or any other kind, ever was made Marek. Mr. St. John said that he had been in possession of a copy of the affidavits for months.

Baker Works for Board.

The blast directed at Northwestern by the Hadlock affidavit, which alleged Baker solved the age old secret of eating gratis, had the same weakness noticeable in the sworn statement from Blake. The latter failed to reveal the source of Marek's alleged $200 per month. Hadlock was unable to say who paid for Baker's meal checks.

Baker is supposed to have told Hadlock that as soon as he entered Northwestern he was told to do his eating at a certain restaurant in Evanston and not to bother about such details as paying the check. Baker informed Hadlock, so the affidavit runs, that he did as instructed, but didn't know the identity of his benefactor.

Out of fear that Northwestern might be besieged by hungry athletes, Director Kenneth Wilson yesterday hastened to report that the school was not engaged in giving away meals. Neither did Wilson know whether Baker might have received such help from enthusiastic alumni. He claimed Baker worked in the restaurant in exchange for his board.

CHICAGO CAGE QUEENS

May and Malone Girls Step Out; Seek Basket Honors

On that particular bit of the sports stage where athletically molded and occasionally astonishingly pretty girls play basketball like men, a new act has appeared. The May and Malone girls have stepped into the spotlight, long monopolized by the Taylor Trunks and the Brownies, with the rather brusque invitation to "move over and make room."

There is an even greater link [and perhaps point of rivalry] between this latest addition of the big shots of this particular sport in former years. Two of the present May and Malone girls were members of the Trunks last year, six of the squad formerly played with the Brownies and only one is a holdover of the 1928 team.

The May and Malone team is the newest of the Big Three having been organized only four years ago. After indifferent success for two years they won two-thirds of their games in 1927 and 80 per cent of them last year. This season the team started with three one-sided victories, the first over Brook House at Hammond, Ind., 55 to 0, the second over Dvorak Park, 40 to 2, and the third over Olivet Institute church, 36 to 5.

This year the girls are playing preliminary games for the Chicago Nationals, and their schedule indicates that they intend to make good the boast of their manager, S. O. Schmidt. "We'll take on any of them, and if they're too good for us we won't squawk if we lose. We're not picking setups now, and while we won't be ready for the best of them for a couple of months, we're not going to dodge anybody, even if we think they're better than we are."

To back up that statement Schmidt indicated some of the games he has scheduled or expects to schedule. Topping the list is the Edmonton Grads of Edmonton, Canada, generally rated the girls' world champions, for early next spring. A series of games probably will be arranged with the Taylor Trunks for late in January.

On the whole, the team is tall, averaging about 5 feet 6 or 7 inches. Betty Barratt, the smallest, is one of the four athletic instructors on the squad. She coaches at Austin High school. Inza Teague is an athletic instructor at Aquinas High school. Ted Teichman is an instructor at the Welles park playground, and Marion Ryan coaches the Central Trust company girls' team.

The one member of last year's May and Malone team who remains with the team is Frances Lambert, a star guard. The others on the roster are Spot Teichman, Alice Lindeman, Helen Teague, and Jo Copeland, center.

Daily Maroon Deplores Verdict Ousting Iowa

The Daily Maroon, University of Chicago student publication, stands in sympathy with Iowa and is ready to approve moves leading to the incrimination of other Western conference schools and their subsequent ouster on the proposition of unclean athletics.

The Daily Maroon, representative of one of the four schools siding with Iowa in its fight to keep within the Big Ten, today will say:

"The expulsion of Iowa from the Western conference has been immediately attended by a series of countercharges, preferred by interested citizens against other members of the Big Ten. Specific indictments have been laid at the doors of Northwestern, Ohio State, and Wisconsin.

"The Daily Maroon heartily applauds such moves. It is our hope that Iowa partisans may find and publish sufficient evidence to incriminate every one of the other seven institutions which stand already accused by the Carnegie report. If such charges are forthcoming it will be interesting to note whether the coaches and faculty representatives be allowed, each man to his neighbor, the same stern justice which collectively they rendered in the case of Iowa.

"One thing is certain: public interest has been aroused to the point of sharp vigilance. If these gentlemen of unimpeachable integrity, who felt it necessary to condemn Iowa, desire to save their own faces they must again assemble in high session and throw black balls at one another with the same unerring accuracy.

Note: Shires Outpleased Fainting Phil.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—Judging from the written accounts of the debut of Art Shires, the first baseman of the White Sox, as a professional pugilist, the 5,000 customers who congregated in a small fight club in Chicago had a much more enjoyable time than the 20,000 who attended the swooning of Fainting Phil Scott in the new Garden here on the same evening.

Mr. Shires came out of his corner full of belligerency and the other young man, Mr. Mysterious Dan Daly, who was making his professional debut, too, met in the same mood. Within 21 seconds the Dangerous Daly had been rendered quite innocuous and Mr. Shires was launched on his career with a professional record of one consecutive knockout and an average of 1.000.

Fainting Philip, on the other hand, answered the bell with an expression of alarm in his bottle green eyes and spent most of round one searching the ropes for some gate or turnstile leading outward. Then in round two he ascended high in the air, poised an instant like some great graceful bird and dipped to the canvas in a perfect three point landing, claiming to have been grievously fouled by Otto Von Porat.

Foul Raised the Dive.

It was a beautiful swoon, worthy of the best traditions of the English heavyweights except that he took off claiming foul which, of course, interfered with the customers' enjoyment of the performance. If Fainting Philip had succumbed to a crushing left jab to the shoulder, the demonstration would have been acknowledged by one and all as the greatest since the days of Falling Fred Fulton, who attained such artistry in swooning to the resin that some citizens of a new oil town in the Shreveport field, wishing to do honor to a hero of the hour, named their community Smackover, Louisiana.

The Chicago customers were well pleased with the work of Mysterious Daly, even though it appears that he simply flopped down in a loose, ungraceful posture, but the New York customers felt, as customers always do in such cases, that Phillip still owed them a swoon. However, the customers have long since given up all hope of collecting from the prize fighters who are in debt to them one way or another, so there is no point in dwelling on this slight flaw in an otherwise ideal demonstration of the old English heavyweight folk rite, the jack knife dry dive.

Both Pugilists Are Sorry.

The Chicago customers paid $12,000; the New York customers more than $90,000. It seems to be very much a gamble, after all, this matter of investing in prize fight tickets, and inasmuch as gambling is held to be contrary to good morals, that may be the reason why pugilism is held to be morally indistinguishable from the more orthodox forms of larceny in the basic laws of 47 American states.

Both pugilists engaged in the swooning of Fainting Bill Scott have expressed the greatest sympathy for the customers and announced their eagerness to atone for the unfortunate affair in a return match, and this solicitude is very touching, although neither of them has said anything about performing a return match free of charge.

It would be good business to bring Mr. Shires to New York without delay and match him with Mr. Leo P. Flynn's Ethiopian gladiator, Mr. Bunker Hill, who has belonged to the grand army of the unemployed so long now that he must rank as a major general by the law of seniority. Mr. Flynn, who is virtually fearless in such matters, says he would not be afraid to match Bunker Hill with any pugilist in the world, and inasmuch as Mr. Shires has had only one business fight to date, Mr. Flynn's tigerman, who is very docile, suggests himself as an advantageous match for all concerned.

Mr. Shires probably would be able to

Rudolph, Natalie Win Matches in World Cue Meet

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—The second and third games of the world's pocket billiards tournament were played at Recreation this afternoon before a capacity crowd. Erwin Rudolph, former champion, defeated Ornifrio Lauri of Brooklyn, 125 to 51, and Pasquale Natalie of Detroit won from Joseph McCann of Jacksonville, Fla., by a score of 125 to 38, the latter having seven scratches.

Rudolph scored his 125 points in ten innings and succeeded in clustering 63 for his high run of the afternoon, Lauri's best run was one of 28. Both players showed skill, although the game was virtually featureless, and in only a few instances did they resort to safety plays. Lauri's high run was made in his second inning, after which he was unable to do anything exceptional.

Natalie played a remarkable defensive game, leaving but little for his opponent to shoot at. He played his string in 15 innings, the final one being an unfinished run of 34, which also was his high run.

McCann scored but in two innings, running off 41 in the ninth and four in the eleventh, which, with seven scratches, brought his total down to 38.

ARMY POLISHES DEFENSE AGAINST STANFORD PLAYS

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Coach Biff Jones kept his Army team on the defensive through a 45 minute scrimmage today as the Cadets settled down to hard work for the game with Stanford at Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 21.

The first team, with Miller center, Hillsinger and Humber guards, Perry and Price tackles, Messinger and Carlmark ends, Carver quarter back, Cagle and Hutchinson half backs, and Murrel full back, was pitted against the strong plebe eleven which went through the season unbeaten.

The plebe attack developed great strength and had Coach Jones permitted the plays to advance beyond the development stage the first year men might have scored several touchdowns. Running plays used by Stanford last year were put on by the plebes with great success, but Coach Jones expects the varsity will be able to offer a better defense within the next few days.

FIRST DOWN, THREE YEARS TO GO

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Convinced the Chicago World's Fair of 1933 is a fact in the process of accomplishment and not merely a plausible suggestion, the sports committee yesterday began the actual work of constructing a sports program. Their intention is to have tournaments, championships and games of every sport from archery to polo, and yachting to boxing, with the greatest athletes from all nations competing.

The first direct action was to call on chairmen of committees on individual sports to make up budgets of expected expenditures and receipts, these to be submitted to the general committee for approval. On the basis of these figures the amounts to be allotted each sport will be determined and the sports directors can begin making arrangements with foreign countries to send athletes and other competitors to the games.

Use Subcommittee System.

The next action was to arrange for the formation of committees to handle groups of sports. These are to have sub-committees in charge of individual sports, so there will be no conflict between events, yet each will have an executive head. For instance, one of the committees would be for water sports and under that general head would come sub-committees on rowing, canoeing, motor boat racing, yachting and the like.

Col. R. R. McCormick, chairman of the general committee, opened the luncheon meeting at the Palmer house by saying he had been deliberately holding back the enthusiasm for a sports program until he was certain the exposition would be all that was anticipated. He added he had been convinced by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and Rufus Dawes that the success of the exposition was beyond question and this meeting was the signal for a start.

Stagg Suggests 1933 Grid Card.

Committee chairmen's reports led to discussion of various sports. One of the questions was whether it would be better to plan the intercollegiate football program for the fall or 1932 or 1933. A. A. Stagg, chairman of that committee, suggested 1933 would be the better. He added it would be comparatively easy to get games if sufficient guarantees could be offered and to the suggestion that Chicago's three stadia—Stagg field, Dyche stadium and Soldiers' field—be used, he said it was possible for Chicago to fill all three on the same day if the football games offered were of high enough quality.

Sheldon Clark talked of the high advertising value of motor boat racing, and suggested the possibility of building a motor boat to be named "Miss Chicago," for racing in regattas through the nation as an advertisement of the fair. He added that half a million persons saw motor boat racing in Detroit one day last year, as a means of stressing the point of an advertising value of such a speed boat.

Foreign Entries Inquire.

Avery Brundage reported he had had correspondence from South Africa, Greece and Sweden relative to entering athletes in any set of games the fair might inaugurate, and H. N. Scott said it was almost a certainty Chicago would get a national championship trap shoot in 1933. Harry G. Goelitz suggested holding a series of races between clubs as a means of building up the marathon race.

Maj. L. R. Lohr, manager of the fair, reported the final plans would be submitted to the architectural committee on Dec. 19, and they would be approved not later than the first of the year. Plans are to spend a large part of the first $10,000,000 raised in buildings, and he said a year from this time some of the buildings would be finished.

Those present and their committees were: Avery Brundage, athletics; Paul Butler, polo; Sheldon Clark, motor boats; Harry G. Goelitz, equestrian sports and marathon; H. N. Scott, trap shooting; A. A. Stagg, intercollegiate football; Col. R. R. McCormick, general chairman, and Maj. L. R. Lohr, exposition manager.

Police Investigate Norris Bombing.

Sidney Strotz, who with Mrs. Strotz was a guest at the home of James Norris, principal stockholder of the Chicago Stadium, when a stick of dynamite was discovered by the butler, is ready to step out as general manager of the $7,000,000 sports arena.

Mr. Strotz last night admitted his willingness to relinquish the reins he assumed when Paddy Harmon was ousted as president of the Stadium he promoted. The executive committee of the Stadium previously had requested and received Mr. Strotz' resignation at a meeting held Monday afternoon.

Announcement of the appointment of a new general manager is expected within several days. Sheldon Clark, recently elected president of the Stadium, will issue the announcement. Applications for the post have been simmered down to those of two men.

Hawks Secure Good Contract.

The executive committee meeting was called ostensibly to pass upon the contract offered by the Blackhawks for the lease of the Stadium for the remainder of the Chicago hockey season. After the contract had been accepted, the appointment of a new general manager was brought up, and Mr. Strotz reminded of his promise to relinquish his duties at the request of the executive committee.

"I expect the new chief will be picked by the end of the week," Mr. Strotz said last night. "I don't expect to withdraw entirely from the work of running the Stadium, but will relinquish most of the duties. I'll be glad to 'let the other fellow do it.'"

Details of the contract made with the Blackhawks were not revealed yesterday, but it was reported that the Hawks, represented by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, obtained an unusually advantageous contract. Stadium directors, it is said, virtually let Maj. McLaughlin write his contract in order to get hockey into the west side sports auditorium.

SWORN AS POLICEMEN

James Norris, wealthy broker, and Strotz were sworn as special policemen yesterday when they asked Commissioner Russell for permits to carry revolvers following the finding of a stick of dynamite in Norris' Lake Forest home last Sunday.

They had been in conference with Chief Lester Tiffany of Lake Forest and there was a report Norris had asked State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county to ask a grand jury investigation. From Commissioner Russell they asked protection for the Stadium and for Norris personally. Sheldon Clark accompanied them, but he was not appointed a special policeman.

Police Doubtful on "Bomb."

Mr. Norris was indignant over a police expert's opinion that there was no attempt made to bomb his home—that the dynamite was intended merely to intimidate him. Lieut. George Barker of the Chicago bomb squad gave the opinion.

There was no detonating cap attached to the dynamite, Lieut. Barker said, and the fuse was too short to be practicable. If there had been a detonator affixed the explosion would have killed whoever lighted the short fuse, Lieut. Barker asserted.

Norris was considerably upset, however.

"How'd you like to have that dynamite in your house?" he demanded when asked if he didn't consider that the explosive had been placed there only as a warning. "If you had a wife and three children in the house, wouldn't you sooner have a rattlesnake in the house? What would have happened if the butler had thrown it in the incinerator?"

Explosion Held Unlikely.

One answer to the last question was that the dynamite probably would only have burned and would not have exploded. But Norris had a different view. He was worried about calls to to his home asking the ages of his children. He hadn't considered the possibility that the caller might have been a newspaper reporter.

"But nobody can scare me," he said when asked what purpose any one would have in seeking to frighten him.

Strotz announced himself as similarly determined.

"I was appointed a special policeman at Mr. Norris' suggestion," he said. "If we have to we'll send our families out of town and stay here ourselves and fight. We had no trouble with any one till we joined in the promotion of the stadium.

"Perhaps some racketeer thought he might intimidate us. We don't think Harmon knew anything about the bomb. He has a lot of money invested in the Stadium and he has profit only through it's success."

Harmon was not inclined to take the story of Norris seriously.

"Norris thought some one had sent him a liver sausage; isn't that terrible?" Harmon commented. "He said the butter picked up the package from the dining room table and thought it was a sausage so he put it in the pantry. It was wrapped in oil paper, he said at the director's meeting, and now he claims there was a fuse attached."

SHORTER SEASON GAINS FAVOR AT WINTER MEETING

Landis Plans to Stop "Chain Baseball."

New York, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The first skirmishes of the annual midwinter baseball battles were decided today with all indications pointing to an earlier closing date for 1930 and to a closer check of activities of clubs which acquire control of franchises in smaller leagues. Commissioner K. M. Landis, active opponent of chain store baseball as it is operated by the Cardinals and other clubs, brought the question of an official checkup before the opening sessions of the two leagues in the Commodore today.

National league club owners favored the commissioner's plan to require major and minor clubs to file official notification with baseball authorities upon acquiring control of a smaller baseball property. The commissioner's recommendation pointed out that in the case of the purchase of an individual player any club was required to notify duly constituted authorities and that it was only reasonable to ask as much when an entire team was purchased.

Will Decide Tomorrow.

The National league's consideration of the Landis recommendation was purely preliminary to a vote which will decide the question at the joint meeting Thursday. The American league expressed itself as of the opinion that the matter of chain store ownership could be better solved by inserting the universal draft, indicating that the Barnard circuit may vote adversely upon the question in the joint session. The favor of the National league and the commissioner's own vote, cast only in case of tie, apparently assured success of the plan, however, regardless of American league action.

The commissioner would require major league clubs purchasing minor franchises to notify not only the office of the commissioner but also the two major league offices and the headquarters of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, the minor league governing body.

Radio Problem Unsolved.

The National league also favored the reduction of the playing season to 149 days with a closing date on Sept. 28, indicating the success of this measure in the same way, as Commissioner Landis is known to oppose an extended schedule. The American league did not make known its deliberations upon this question.

The question of broadcasting major league games was not decided by either league today and the chances seemed to be that the matter would be dealt with only in the joint meeting.

beat him, thus extending his professional record to two consecutive knockouts. Bunker Hill would earn some resources, and Mr. Flynn would make some progress in his efforts to get Bunker Hill off his cuff. At last reports Bunker Hill was on Mr. Flynn's cuff almost up to the shoulder, what with small loans, bail, money and one thing and another, and almost any little sum of money would be a gain worth making in the worthy work of getting Bunker off Mr. Flynn's cuff.

It would not be advisable to match Mr. Shires with a pugilist of any extended experience unless his managers, whoever they may be, make specific arrangements with his opponent to treat him with every consideration, as is not infrequently done. In fact, this practice has received the highest sanction, having been resorted to in the advancement of more than one champion in recent years, including the most virtuous of all the champions, who need not be named by name as this description will identify him to one and all, including himself.

Meade Quite Experienced.

I read that Mr. Fat Meade, the manager of Mysterious Daly, scooped his man-killer up from the floor and took him back to his corner with practiced grace and skill when the referee had finished counting over him. This is a knack of Mr. Meade's and I doubt that there is any man in the country, unless it be some ex-manager of Fred Fulton, who excels Mr. Meade in the feat of bringing in the grounded heavyweight. Mr. Meade got his experience bringing in Mr. Diving Dan O'Dowd in various sections of the country over a period of years and he finally developed such dexterous grace that he would start up the steps of the ring as Diving Dan went into his plunge and pick him up on the first bounce.

However, Diving Dan O'Dowd was of a type quite different from Fainting Phil Scott. Diving Dan was strictly a bouncer or plunger with a low trajectory, seldom rising more than a few inches from the floor, whereas Fainting Phil favors the graceful, arching flights which are characteristic of the English heavies.

With a man of Fat Meade's canny eye and practiced speed standing on the stoop in his corner, Fainting Phil would never need roll his ring trunks with resin. Mr. Meade would start into the ring at the instant of Fainting Phil's takeoff and catch him in mid-air like a foul fly.

Firemen to Hold Annual City Handball Tourney

The second annual handball tournament for the Albert W. Goodrich trophy will be held at the courts of engine company 5, 1324 South Des Plaines street, at a date to be announced later. The tournament is open to firemen and civilians. First Division Marshal Joseph A. Mackey is in charge of the registrations, which should be made at engine company 5.

Americans Win, 1-0, from Maple Leafs

New York, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The reconstructed and vastly improved New York Americans scored their second victory of the National Hockey league season tonight, defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 1 to 0. It was the third time this season Toronto has figured in a one goal game, losing two of them.

Although much of the improvement in the Americans was due to the newly added reserve strength, it was their veteran player-manager, Lionel Conacher, who scored the only goal. Before the game was five minutes old, Conny sailed down the right alley and beat Goalie Chabot with a perfect shot.

BOSTON, 5; PITTSBURGH, 4.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins edged the lowly Pittsburgh Pirates out of a loosely played National league hockey game here tonight, 5 to 4. During the free fight Fredericksen, the Pirates' playing manager, injured his knee and had to be carried from the ice.

Though the champions were in command at all stages, the Pirates pressed them hard and were battling heavily to square the count at the final bell.

CANADIENS, 3; DETROIT, 2.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Two goals from the stick of Howie Morenz in an overtime period gave Montreal's Canadiens a 3 to 2 victory over the Detroit Cougars in a National Hockey league game here tonight. The winning counters came after the Canadiens had come from behind to tie the score.

Detroit got a two goal lead in the opening period on tallies by Aurie and Goodfellow, but the flying Frenchmen took advantage of penalties to tie up, Lepine and Leduc making the shots. Detroit went ahead again in the second period only to have Sylvio Mantha knot the count again in the third.

INDIANA COLLEGE FIVES MOVE INTO ACTION THIS WEEK

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Indiana has returned to its annual indoor obsession—basketball. Some high schools have been working for several weeks, but until this week college quintets have desisted.

De Pauw, having toppled Indiana, plays Indiana State at Terre Haute Thursday, and Indiana opposes Pittsburgh at Bloomington Friday. Notre Dame, having broken the ice by beating Kalamazoo and Lake Forest, plays Albion at South Bend Friday. Washington of St. Louis visits Purdue Saturday.

Butler, 1929 state champion, opens here Friday against Manchester. Oakland City is at Rose Poly Thursday. Ball Teachers meet Indiana Central at Muncie Saturday. McKendree visits Evansville tomorrow. Miami plays at Earlham and Franklin at Central Normal Thursday, and Concordia takes on Huntington Friday. Crane will be at Valparaiso Saturday.

Harvard Adds Whiteside to Crew Coaching Staff

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The appointment of Charles J. Whiteside of Duluth, Minn., to the Harvard varsity crew coaching staff was announced tonight by William B. Bingham, director of athletics.

Refined to suit each climate

Now, no matter where you are or where you go, when you stop at the Sign of the Shell you get a gasoline exactly suited to local climatic requirements. Startling new refinery procedure, based on the study of 15 years of weather, keeps Shell 400 "Extra Dry" exactly suited to the climatic demands of each 50-mile circle on the map. It is weather-wise from Miami to Duluth . . . and provides uniformly fine performance everywhere. Shell 400 "Extra Dry" Gasoline turns into a dry vapor that fires right now. It burns completely, and makes crankcase dilution no longer a danger. Delivers full power, flashing get-away.

Mr. Joe Sherman Speaks.

Joe Sherman, president emeritus of ... brotherhood, gave out a lengthy ...tatement in discussion of the cur... crisis. The statement in part:

"The members of the brotherhood ...el that their art is being taken too ...ghtly and that promoters are show... a tendency to pack their premises ... the expense of the finer phases of ...fflem.

"Personally, Shires and Trafton, ... instance, are friends of mine and ... wouldn't have any of my remarks ...nstrued as antagonistic to these fine ...lows. But the way C. Arthur has ...n attracting attention is deemed by ... brotherhood as nothing short of ...ndalous.

"The present situation is another ... of the bad results of conditions ...collegiate athletics. MARQUETTE FIVE BEATS CITY RIVAL IN OPENER, 20-16

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 10. — [Special.]—Marquette university's basketball team wavered a bit in its debut here tonight but squeezed out a 20 to 16 victory over Milwaukee State Teachers before a capacity house.

Marquette scored first on a long shot by Shipley, a sophomore guard, and never was headed. The Teachers came within 2 points of tying the score in the last two minutes of play. A shot by O'Brien, another sophomore, sailed away the game in the last minute, however. Marquette led at the half 12 to 7. Capt. Hendley and Garboth played well for the Teachers, while Capt. Jimmy O'Donnell, Shipley and O'Brien featured for Marquette. The lineups:

MOON MULLINS—MOON STARTS HIS FORTUNE WITH A SHOESTRING

IT LOOKS LIKE MY WIFE'S COUSIN JAKE HAS DECIDED TO EXTEND HIS VISIT TO FROM NOW ON
BY GEORGE! MULLINS, I'D GIVE A $500.00 REWARD TO ANYBODY THAT CAN MOVE HIM OUT OF MY HOUSE, BAG AND BAGGAGE.
FIVE HUNDRED BERRIES! WHOOEE! SYLVESTER, I'LL SEE YOU LATER.
$500.00 THAT'S A LOT OF MONEY, BUT IF MULLINS DOESN'T CHASE JAKE OUT OF TOWN, JAKE WILL CHASE MULLINS OUT, AND THAT'S SOMETHING.
WELL, HERE I AM, SYL. HOW ABOUT LETTIN' ME TAKE FIFTEEN OR TWENTY BUCKS OF THAT REWARD NOW?
WHY CERTAINLY, MULLINS— CERTAINLY.
BUT TELL ME, HOW DID YOU GET JAKE OUT SO QUICKLY?
OH-I DIDN'T YET- BUT THE BOYS ARE HAVIN' A LITTLE CRAP GAME DOWN AT THE GARAGE, AND I JUST THOUGHT I'D DRAW A LITTLE ON ACCOUNT

Bruins Meet Syracuse Pro Five Tonight

Hoosiers Win

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Fort Wayne defeated Syracuse, 23 to 18, here tonight in a game crammed with smooth passing and sensational play. Syracuse, with Nat Holman in the lineup for the first time, showed improvement, but lacked the fine team work of the Hoosiers.

Rusty Saunders and Dave Banks led the Hoosiers' offensive, Saunders scoring three baskets and four foul points. Banks shot five baskets.

Holman led Syracuse scorers with five points.

Nat Holman and the Syracuse quintet are the opponents of the Chicago Bruins tonight at the Chicago Stadium. The veteran Bruin five is expecting confidently to better its standing in the pro league by winning the two game series.

Syracuse has a well balanced squad, but the big ace of the easterners, of course, is Nat Holman. When the New York Celtics disbanded last week Holman was sold to Syracuse, Johnny Beckman went to Cleveland and Fort Wayne secured Dave Banks. Holman will have Red Kearns and Jerry Sullivan working with him tonight. Both are well known to Chicago basketball fans.

The big edge to the series with Syracuse is that it brings Nat Hickey against Holman. The New Yorker has been rated as the most colorful and one of the best players in the league. In recent seasons, however, Hickey has stepped into the spot and has held up his end of the battle whenever Holman came to town.

Two preliminaries are scheduled tonight, the first starting at 7:15. The May and Malone boys meet the Christ Church Crescents and the Taylor Trunks girls' team faces the West End Mermaids.

Sparks Five Nips Millikin in Last Minute, 22 to 21

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Millikin university dropped its opening basketball game, losing to Sparks Business college of Shelbyville, 22 to 21, in the final minute of play. Jarnegan's field goal just before the final whistle gave Sparks the winning points. The score was tied at 9-all at half time.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

PLAYER OF GREATEST VALUE.

DEAR WAKE: Let us try a little elimination. Minnesota without Nagurski still would have been good. Pape would have filled Glassgow's shoes. With either Welch or Harmeson playing, Purdue was still strong. Any full back would have gained back of that strong Northwestern line.

With a weak line, Hal Rebbols was the biggest ground gainer for Wisconsin and on top of that he is credited with making 50 per cent of the Badger tackles for the entire year. Rebbols's jersey is being put in the Wisconsin trophy room as the Badgers' greatest defensive man.

The average football expert laments that the public does not give credit for defensive play and here is the greatest defensive man of the conference hardly mentioned as yet for your trophy. I was told by a conference official that without Rebbols Wisconsin would have been beaten by fully 40 points in every major game played.

R. A. Shelton.

I nominate Frosty Peters, Illini quarter back. Here is a fellow who to quote Coach Stagg after the Illinois-Chicago game, "plays smart football." Peters can pass, kick, play a whale of a defense, and direct a game to perfection as we saw in the Iowa, Army, Chicago, and Ohio games. He was an inspiration to his team, his passing was accurate and his out-of-bounds and long distance kicks were sensational. The Illini played a different kind of game when Frosty was there calling signals. If he had been in the Northwestern game, which injury prevented, I think it would have been a different story.

New Yorker-Illini.

Pest Welch not only was a great ball carrier and kicker, but he was a wonderful blocker for other runners, and perhaps greatest of all on defense. Here is the finest all-around player the west has seen in many seasons. John Low.

ROPER DENIES HE WILL RESIGN AS PRINCETON COACH

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—A persistent rumor, originating in New York, to the effect that Bill Roper, whose two year contract as coach of the Princeton football team expired at the close of the last season, would not be asked to continue in that capacity was categorically denied today by Roper himself and various athletic officials at the university.

The Tiger coach said over the long distance telephone that he had not been informed he was to be dismissed and that he had not intended resigning. C. W. McGraw, chairman of the football advisory committee, verified the first part of that statement and asserted that no steps toward ousting Roper had been taken.

Becker Finds New Points in Quail Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

Sportsmen who spend much time behind good bird dogs in search of coveys of Bob Whites are apt to see some unusual points in the course of a season. On our recent hunt near Mattoon we witnessed one of these odd points because Doc, a white setter owned by Ben Overman, struck a statuesque pose in order to direct our attention to a bird on the ice.

It was about 11 o'clock when Doc and King, the latter a husky liver and white pointer, worked through four or five acres of tall weeds along a small creek to locate a covey. Dr. Herrick Baughman was with us at the time. With guns ready, we moved up behind the dogs to see what we could do about the situation.

About ten birds flushed with a roar. Each of us dropped a bird with our first shots, but drew blanks with the second volley, try as we did to make doubles. After the dogs had retrieved the birds we walked on while they ranged to the right, where a small creek twisted through the bottomlands. The stream was frozen over where the water was fairly quiet, but the swift water was still open.

We heard Doctor Baughman call as he stood on the low bank of the creek and then we heard him urge the dogs to "fetch." This was puzzling, so we came up on the run. It seems that on our second volley into the flying covey one of us had nicked a bird. This Bob White had traveled to the creek, dropped on the far bank, and then started to run back across the ice—a reverse play that is a favorite of the quail.

Doc, the setter, came up just as the quail was on the ice, caught the bird scent, and pointed with his head over the bank straight toward the bird. Needless to say, the quail didn't linger long on the open ice. It hustled to the bank and ran into the thicket as quick as a flash, much to the confusion of the dogs.

ANOTHER LIST OF DIVIDENDS IS ANNOUNCED

But Two Concerns Will Omit Payments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—A long list of extra and Christmas dividends was part of the business news today, but announcements came from two companies that dividends due at this time will be omitted.

Directors of the Selberling voted to omit the common stock payment. President F. A. Selberling explained that it was the policy of the company to pay dividends only out of earnings. Preferred requirements are covered by the earnings, he stated. The company has been paying at the rate of $1 a year on common stock.

Passes Dividend.

Norfolk and Southern railway passed the semi-annual payment of $1.25 on the capital stock. Dividends were resumed on this stock at this time last year, when a semi-annual payment of $1.25 and an extra of $1 were declared.

Directors of the Public Service corporation of New Jersey voted a special dividend of 80 cents, which brings the total dividend for the year to $2.40. The directors decided to place the stock on a $2.40 basis for 1930.

The Taggert corporation placed the common stock on a $1 annual basis by the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of 20 cents.

A dividend of $5 for the year was voted on the stock of the Virginian railway. Last year the company paid $7.

The following extra dividends were voted: Western Electric, $1; Securities Corporation General, $5; North Western Yeast, 3 per cent; Singer Manufacturing, $3.50; Indiana Pipe Line, 25 cents; City Machine and Tool, 40 cents; Brady, Cryon & Colleran, 2 per cent on participating preferred; Petroleum Rectifying, 35 cents; Titantic Standard Manufacturing, 20 cents; Broadway Market corporation, 60 cents; Integrity Trust company, Philadelphia, 5 per cent; Bank of New York and Trust company, $3; National Recording Pump, 50 cents on common and 50 cents on managers' common.

On $12 Yearly Basis.

The Empire Trust company placed the stock on a $12 yearly basis by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of $3. The Peoples National Bank of Brooklyn voted a quarterly of $3. This is equal to $24 on the old stock. Formerly the issue paid $23, including extra dividends.

McQuay Norris Manufacturing company declared a 1 per cent stock dividend in addition to the regular quarterly cash payment of 25 cents.

NATIONAL LEAD FORMS CANADIAN HOLDING FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—Formation of a holding company in Canada to take over its extensive properties which extend from Montreal to Vancouver, B. C., is announced by the National Lead company. The new company is known as the National Lead Company of Canada, Ltd.

The New York company will hold the entire $5,000,000 capital of the Canadian subsidiary.

Included in the new company will be the recently acquired Hoyt Metal Company of Toronto, and Canada Metal company and other companies in Montreal, Winipeg and Vancouver. It will constitute one of the strongest powers in the lead industry in Canada and will manufacture lead pipe, solder, babbitt metal, brass castings and sheet lead.

November Auto Sales in Ill. Hit by Seasonal Slack

New car sales for Illinois in 1929 are just 16,135 away from a yearly total of 250,000 cars, according to a statement from the Illinois chamber of commerce, listing the total sales for the first eleven months at 233,875. November figures fell to a low for the year, a total of 2,195 cars, with all counties showing a decrease, due, for the most part, to a seasonal slackening in new models and in demand. Christmas buying may bring the total up to an even quarter of a million sales, according to the report, but if this mark is not reached new car sales for 1929 will, nevertheless, show a good record.

Canadian Nat. Freight Loadings Show Gain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 9.—The 1929 freight loadings of the Canadian National railways in the maritime provinces will approximate 268,000 cars, an increase of 63,000 over last year, W. U. Appleton, general manager of the Atlantic region, announced today.

CURB EXCHANGE HAS DULLEST DAY IN RECENT WEEKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—The curb exchange experienced its dullest full day session in several weeks today. Volume was sharply curtailed, the turnover amounting to only 940,000 shares, and price movements reflected no trend most of the time.

A few leaders made up ground they lost yesterday and a few others lost the ground they gained, but a vast majority of issues were in the doldrums. Special news was responsible for most of the activity in issues that did move definitely in one direction or another.

Aluminum company of America, a high priced stock in which the floating supply is extremely limited, was whirled around excitedly on sales of about 1,000 shares. It opened at 299, sank to 292, and then went soaring to close at its peak for the day at 313.

Bankruptcy Petition Names Martha Washington Shops

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the New York United States District court yesterday against the Martha Washington Candy Shops, Inc., with headquarters in that city. The petitioners are Blumenthal Bros., Inc., claiming $1,575; Hooton Cocoa company, Inc., of Newark, N. J., claiming $40.75, and Hooton Chocolate company, Inc., $2,510. Chicago officials of the Martha Washington Candies company, which is incorporated in Illinois, said their concern is not affiliated with the New York concern.

One month ago	11.75@12.50
One year ago	13.25@14.00
Top yesterday, $13.25; average, $12.35.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 9,000 cattle, 32,000 hogs, and 18,000 sheep.

Buyers and sellers in general were almost of unanimous opinion in regard to the value of hogs yesterday, resulting in a quick clearance when prices eased off 5@10c after a strong opening.

The early strength, however, held the top and general average in line with the previous session at $9.55 and $9.30, respectively. A marked decrease in receipts has been the strongest bullish influence in recent sessions, although traders expect part of the reduction in supplies to be made up later in the week.

Show Big Decline.

Eleven leading markets during the first two days of the week handled 284,000 hogs, or 104,000 fewer than a year ago. The three larger houses handled nearly 16,000 at Chicago yesterday, while smaller packers and city butchers bought 15,000, and shippers 7,000.

Additional price cuts yesterday brought the cattle market 25@50c lower than late last week, some good grades sharing in the full reduction in spite of the smaller proportion grading above "good" on recent sessions. The extreme top dropped to $15.50, lowest for Tuesday with one exception since last June. Good 894 lb yearlings topped the price list, while 1,114 lb averages sold at $15.40.

A load of prime 1,628 lb steers, the heaviest reported yesterday, brought $13.80. Poorer quality brought the bulk of sales down to $10.50@13.50. Butcher stock was subjected to further price cuts. Some heifers show as much as $1.00 loss since the highest point of last week. Calves were unchanged. Stockers and feeders were scarce, but met narrower outlet at barely steady prices.

Lambs Sell Low.

With the exception of a few "hand picked" light weight lambs that held steady, the general market yesterday was pounded down 15@25c further, prices paid for good grades equaling the lowest level since Nov. 22.

The extreme top at $13.25 was only 50c above the year's bottom, while bulk of good to choice grades sold at $12.50@13.00. Aged sheep sold steady, a band of handy ewes going at $6.00, while yearlings ruled weak to 25c lower.

Little change was noted in the feeder lamb market, one band of fairly good kinds averaging 63 lbs selling at $12.25. The first Colorado fed lambs of the season are reported on the way to Chicago.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Wisconsin Bank Shares corporation, a holding company capitalized at $100,000,000, for a group of Wisconsin and upper Michigan banks, filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state here today.

The only information revealed in the corporation papers was that the capital stock will be divided into 10,000,000 shares of stock of $10 par value and that officers are Walter Kasten, president of the First Wisconsin National bank, Milwaukee; Albert C. Elser, vice president of the same bank, and Louis Schriber, president of the First National bank of Oshkosh.

Coincident with the incorporation of Bank Shares corporation, heads of three Wisconsin banks announced they had withdrawn from the group. The banks which withdrew are the First National and the Commercial National banks of Madison, and the First National of Neenah.

Observers pointed out that the banks left for three or more reasons, including that of state politics. Since group banking was inaugurated in Wisconsin, the progressive faction of the Republican party in Wisconsin has made it known that opposition to chain banking would constitute one of the planks of the next campaign. Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, and member of the progressive wing, is chairman of the board of the Commercial National bank of Madison.

SHORTS COVER COTTON

Sellers of cotton on Monday were among the best buyers yesterday. The market was easy early, but gradually strengthened and showed fair gains, although at the close prices were at moderate reactions from the top, with net gains of 7@14 points on futures in Chicago and 8@20 points in other markets. Liverpool was easy and closed 8@9 points net lower, with spot sales of 5,000 bales.

The strength and advance came largely from reduced offerings and failure of the market to decline as much as expected, changing sentiment among traders, and brought in new support.

MECHEM POINTS OUT STATUS OF U. S. BUSINESS

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 10.—[Special.] — "While more has probably been said about the recent stock market decline than has ever been said about a similar period of equal duration in our financial history, there still remains one or two aspects of it which might be mentioned," declared John C. Mechem, vice president of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, and president of the trust company division of the American Bankers' association, who is here today to address a meeting of the Kansas City Fiduciary association.

"The severity of the decline is nowhere better illustrated than in the measures which were necessary to stop it," said Mr. Mechem, "and Mr. Hoover rendered a very real service to the country in the measures which he adopted for restoring public confidence.

"There have, however, been two popular misconceptions which have grown out of the situation, diametrically opposite and equally false. The first of these is that the country is going right back into an immediate period of increased production and consumption, and rapidly mounting security prices. Obviously, this cannot be true.

"The other misconception is that the efforts that are being made to restore public confidence must show that the situation is actually worse than any one knows and that the country is going to the bowwows. No more is this true.

"The truth, as usual, lies along a middle ground. It would be foolish to say that business is not experiencing some secession. The stock market crash was preceded by the beginning of a recession in business and it is absurd to think that you can deflate the potential purchasing power of the country by so many billions of dollars in so short a time without decreasing to a certain extent both actual purchasing power and the desire to purchase. But fundamental conditions are sound."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—Bond prices lost ground slightly on the stock exchange today in rather quiet trading. Railroad bonds, however, continued generally firm, with several issues reaching new peaks for 1929 to date. The Liberty loans and treasury issues closed irregular and foreign bonds averaged slightly lower for the day.

The convertibles, as a group, were steady. American Telephone and Telegraph 4½s mounted another 2½ points, International Telephone 4½s half a point, while Texas Corporation convertible 5s held unchanged. Commercial Investment Trust convertible 5½s dropped back a point to 87. New Haven convertible 6s were off ¼ of a point.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed easy; sales, 940 bales. December, $4.47; March, $4.53; May, $4.52. Open market quotations, 80 day basis, Shanghai steam, extra B, $4.65; Canton double extra A, 14-16s, $3.25; Japanese crack double extra, $4.65.

FINANCIAL NOTES

A syndicate composed of Coffin & Burr, Inc., Harris Trust and Savings bank, Spencer, Trask & Co., Bankers Company of New York, Otis & Co., First National company of Detroit, and the Detroit company has purchased an issue of $13,516,000 of the Detroit Edison company general and refunding mortgage 5 per cent series of bonds due 1949. Public offering will be made in the near future.

Offering is being made by a banking syndicate composed of White, Weld & Co., Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, Otis & Co., and Emanuel & Co. of a new issue of $3,590,000 City of Buffalo, N. Y., 4 and 4¼ per cent gold bonds, due annually 1930 to 1949, at a price to yield 4.05 per cent.

Short term financing by Peoples Light and Power corporation, a subsidiary of Tri-Utilities corporation, consists of a new issue of $3,000,000 one year 5¼ per cent gold notes, dated Dec. 1, 1929, which are being offered for public subscription by G. L. Ohrstrom & Co., Inc., Brown Brothers & Co., and Coffin & Burr, Inc. These notes are priced at 99⅛ and accrued interest to yield about 6.05 per cent.

Net income of the Elgin National Watch company this year will be about the same as in 1928, and may show a slight increase, according to De Forest Hulburd, president, the company will end the year in excellent financial condition. Last year the net income of $1,344,067, after all charges and contingency reserve, was equal to $4.62 a share on 400,000 shares of capital stock. Net in the first half of this year was lower than in the first half of 1928, but in the second half it showed much improvement.

ZUKOR FAVORS DIVIDEND BOOST FOR PARAMOUNT

New York, Dec. 10.—Recommendation of an increase in the dividend rate and abandonment of the plan for splitting up the stock of the company were two developments in the operation of Paramount Famous Lasky corporation today. Plans for splitting up the stock were abandoned when it was found that the necessary two-thirds representation of stockholders was not present when the special meeting was called today to pass upon the plans.

Adolph Zukor announced after the meeting that no further attempt would be made to pass the plans at this time. He also announced he intended to recommend to the directors at the dividend meeting in February that the rate of annual payment be increased to $4 in view of the business which the company is doing during the present quarter and the business indicated for the first six months of 1930.

"The Worker and His Money"

In the number of its active membership — comprising those who pay dues monthly into its treasury — the American Federation of Labor is said to be the largest organization in the world. It has approximately three million such members. As president of this large group, Mr. Green should command widespread and thoughtful attention for the important topic which he will discuss.

CHICAGO HUNTS HOMES THE YEAR 'ROUND!

Chicago never stops house-hunting. Among its millions of inhabitants, there are always some who seek new homes. Every year, fewer of them stick to the old "moving days" and more use the modern method of moving when it's convenient and easy. Every month is now a renting month.

Here's a point important to apartment advertisers. At any time in the year, they can reach thousands of prospective tenants through Tribune Want Ads. At any time, they can start filling their apartments with Tribune readers by calling

SEARS, ROEBUCK TO OPERATE ON 13 MONTH BASIS

Better Comparison of Sales Seen.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The thirteen month year, a change long discussed and strongly advocated by business organizations, has been adopted by Sears, Roebuck & Co., the big Chicago mail order and chain store concern. It is believed this is the first big business organization to make the change, although simplification of the calendar has been proposed by the United States Chamber of Commerce and a movement is afoot for an international conference to deal with the proposal.

Beginning Jan. 1 next the business of Sears-Roebuck will be conducted on the basis of a year of thirteen months of 28 days each. Not only will the company's sales and earnings be computed on this basis but the 40,000 employés will be paid thirteen times a year as the result of adjustment of salaries to the new calendar.

The reason for the change is explained in the fact that the equal months will afford a better basis for comparisons of sales and earnings. Each month will have the same number of Sundays, which will continue as nonbusiness days, and also the same number of Saturdays, which are short business days. At present the difference of a day between calendar months may produce a discrepancy of nearly $1,500,000 in sales figures.

Gear Steel Production.

How closely the steel industry is gearing production to actual demand was again shown yesterday when the United States Steel corporation issued its monthly report on unfilled orders. These forward orders totaled 4,125,345 tons on Nov. 30, an increase of 38,783 tons during the month, and bringing the current total about 450,000 tons above a year ago. The peak for this year was reached on May 31, with a total of 4,304,167 tons.

However, mill operations last month were scaled down from 80 per cent of capacity at the beginning to 68 per cent at the end of the month. Ingot production has been reduced still further in the last ten days, now being down to 65 per cent, compared with 81 per cent a week ago.

A year ago this week operations were reduced about 2 per cent to 82 per cent. Independent steel companies now are operating at an average of about 62 per cent of capacity, compared with 65 per cent a week ago and 82 per cent a year ago. The average for the whole industry now is around 63½ per cent, compared with 67 per cent a week ago and 81 per cent a year ago.

Check Oil Trend.

Other news of trade and industry was mixed yesterday. The railroads reported that loading of revenue freight for the week ended Nov. 30 totaled 837,107 cars. This was a decline of 113,173 cars from the preceding week, due chiefly to the Thanksgiving holiday, but it also was a decrease of 63,449 cars from the corresponding week last year and about half of this latter decline was represented by a smaller movement of miscellaneous freight.

The upward trend of petroleum production was checked last week. The daily average gross crude oil output totaled 2,636,550 barrels, a decline of 7,650 barrels a day from the previous week, according to the American Petroleum institute. An increase of 6,200 barrels a day in Oklahoma was offset by declines in other parts of eastern territory, while California showed a decrease of 5,800 barrels a day. Refineries operated at 69.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 72.5 per cent in the previous week.

Railroad earnings for this and next months are likely to prove disappointing. Both gross and net operating revenues of the Burlington and the Northern Pacific will be less than during the last two months of 1928, according to their respective presidents, F. E. Williamson and Charles Donnelly.

The North Western will have deficits after fixed charges about the same as last November and December, according to President Fred Sargent, but for the full year earnings are estimated at $9 a share on the common stock.

Says Corp. Statements Should Reveal True Status

BY SCRUTATOR.

The present is as good a time as any to suggest to the managements of all American corporations whose stock is on sale to the public that their annual, semi-annual or quarterly reports should more accurately represent their true financial condition.

Investment trusts, or investment companies, to use the preferred term, might with profit to their stockholders and prospective buyers of their securities issue information on the number of shares of each company they hold, the price paid for them, and the market value at some convenient date since the general break on the stock exchanges. This, combined with cash resources, would give as accurate a picture of the actual value of the investment company stock as would be needed, if used in connection with the usual statement.

Past Objections.

Objections have been made in the past to letting the public know just what the managements of such companies have in their portfolios. In addition to the influence the announcements would have on market prices, it is held that some of them shift their holdings so rapidly that the statement would be out of date before it could be distributed.

The layman's view is that announcement that a strong company had a big stock of a certain stock would better, rather than hinder, the market value of that stock. Also, it is unlikely that as a usual thing investments are shifted quite so rapidly as the second part of the argument might imply.

Recently an investment company holding aviation stocks reported to its stockholders that it had valued its portfolio holdings at the market prices of Nov. 15 and found that the book value per share of common was slightly more than $10. That much information was a help.

If the list of stocks held had been added, any one interested might have been able to determine in his own judgment whether these stocks were worth their market price.

As this investment company stock then was selling under $7 a share, it might have been made apparent that a purchase of the top company's stock was really a purchase of the others, with good earning power, at a discount of 30 per cent. A natural result, even in an unsteady market, would have been an increase in the investment company's market value.

Book Value Not Always Criterion.

Book value is not always a good criterion of actual value. The two most closely approximate each other, however, in the case of investment companies, which in their typical state have no plants and no physical properties except offices and facilities for gathering information on which to base their sales and purchases of securities.

Some of the largest corporations, including General Motors and United States Steel, give their stockholders detailed information. The interstate commerce commission has compelled the railroads to give accountings in a uniform manner. Some of the utilities also are required by state laws to give the general public all they should know to safeguard their investments. Publicity approaching the complete has not harmed the big corporations, so far as can be determined.

Industrials Reluctant.

Yet many corporations, particularly industrials, have been reluctant to disclose exactly what their generalized figures mean. Methods of putting inventory valuations are not clearly stated. Investments of the company's funds are often not detailed.

Surplus accounts may not show that the increase in surplus was derived from retirement of reserves or from revaluations and stockholders may assume, sometimes unfortunately, that the surplus represents only earnings that were not paid out in dividends.

Herrmann Hershkowitz, accountant, writing in the Financial Diary of Benjamin, Hill & Co., has pointed out that a conference could be held of investment bankers, industrial leaders, stock exchange heads and accountants with the object of standardizing information on corporations.

Providing uniform methods of accounting in similar industries, devising uniform financial statements and employment of impartial auditors were recommended as in the interests of stockholders and the public.

AYRES CITES TRADE OUTLOOK FOR NEXT YEAR

Cleveland, O., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Partial recovery of stock prices, decreased automobile production, distinct decrease in steel production, unchanged living costs, slightly changed wage rates, and a declining trend of building construction were some of the predictions made for 1930 today by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and nationally known business statistician.

They were made in his annual address to the Cleveland chamber of commerce. Generally business will be "slower, but not slow; poorer, but not poor," he asserted.

REPORT PROGRESS OF ACTIVITY IN FIELD OF RAILWAY EQUIPMENT

The capital improvement budget of the Chicago and North Western railroad as passed by the directors yesterday calls for the expenditure of $10,000,000 for new equipment. The total budget amounts to $22,535,580.

Activity in railroad equipment field was reported from other sources. The Baldwin Locomotive works has received orders for five engines from the Belt Line Railroad of Chicago, and one from the American Bridge. The Burlington has placed an order for three small switching engines.

Of the 20,000 freight cars on inquiry about 14,000 will be ordered by western roads. Prospective orders include: 2,500, Milwaukee road; 2,500, Burlington; 1,250, Missouri, Kansas and Texas; 11,000, Chesapeake and Ohio and allied lines, and between four and five thousand for the Illinois Central.

Burlington directors approved the 1930 budget yesterday in New York. The program, in addition to other expenditures, calls for spending of $5,000,000 for equipment. Included in the items in the budget are $2,000,000 for new Galesburg yards and $1,000,000 for a four track project in the Chicago suburban area.

Take Steps to Organize Cotton Marketing Agency

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Preliminary steps for establishment of a centralized cotton marketing agency, under government control, were taken here today at a cotton congress attended by three members of the federal farm board and 150 leading representatives of the cotton industry. The sessions were executive and the only official word concerning the deliberations was the announcement by Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board, that "it seems our program will go through right away, little or no opposition has been manifest so far." Sixteen cotton coöperative associations were represented.

Postal Telegraph Plans $10,000,000 for Expansion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—Col. A. H. Griswold, executive vice president of the Postal Telegraph company, announced at the meeting of general division managers of the system here today that the company will undertake a $10,000,000 expansion program in 1930, which is nearly $2,000,000 more than was spent on a similar program during 1929.

Directors Approve Merger of Outlying Chicago Banks

Consolidation of the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank and the Market-Traders State bank, two of Chicago's largest outlying institutions, was approved by the directors of both banks yesterday. The merger will become effective about Jan. 15, subject to ratification of the deal by the stockholders of both banks.

The name of the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank will be retained, as will its enlarged quarters at Madison and Halsted streets. The property of the Market-Traders bank at Washington boulevard and Halsted street will be sold. The combined banks will have total assets exceeding $13,000,000 and its capital will be $1,000,000, surplus $500,000, and undivided profits and contingent fund around $400,000.

Stockholders of the Market-Traders bank will be offered one share of Mid-City stock for each two shares now held and the Mid-City stockholders will be given rights to buy new stock at $200 a share.

Security Subsidiary.

It also is proposed to form a security subsidiary and for this purpose a special dividend of 25 per cent will be voted to all stockholders out of undivided profits. This will amount to $250,000, and with it the stockholders may subscribe for 10,000 shares of stock of the securities company at $25 a share. The latter company will have $200,000 capital stock and $50,000 contingent fund.

William Rathje will remain as president. J. Louis Kohn, president of the Market-Traders State bank, will become head of the new securities affiliate and will be a vice president and a director of the Mid-City bank. A. M. Tierney of the Market-Traders bank will also be a vice president and a director of Mid-City, while R. G. Had will become assistant cashier.

Twelve of the seventeen members of the board of directors of the new Chicago Bank of Commerce were elected yesterday at a meeting of the stockholders held in the Palmer house. Announcement was made by Henry S. Henschen, president of the bank, that the safety deposit vaults were already open for business, and that the bank itself would open as soon as the $5,100,000 capital stock had been paid and the necessary legal formalities complied with. He estimated this would take thirty days.

Those elected to the board of directors are: W. L. Abbott, S. A. Bennett, Harry W. Bishop, Adolph Lindstrom, Francis E. Matthews, Roy C. Nereim, J. A. O. Preus, Edward A. Schroeder, Paul Schulze, J. P. Seeburg, and Mr. Henschen. The stockholders adjourned until Jan. 14, when five additional directors will be elected.

Crowe Quits Bank.

The meeting of the stockholders was followed by a meeting of the newly elected board at which Mr. Henschen was formally elected president, Adolph Lindstrom named vice president in charge of real estate loans, Edward A. Schroeder chosen for the place of cashier and vice president, and Philip Weinheimer named assistant cashier.

The First National bank of Oak Park has passed from the hands of Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, to those of a syndicate headed by Emil E. Rose, until recently senior vice president of the Guardian National bank of Chicago. Mr. Rose has taken the title of vice president and cashier, but is serving as president until such time as an election of officers is held.

Four Chicago banks announced Christmas dividends yesterday. The First National bank declared a special dividend of 2 per cent, the First Englewood State declared 2 per cent extra, the Stony Island State also declared 2 per cent extra, and the National Bank of the Republic declared an extra of 1 per cent in addition to the 4 per cent regular dividend. This makes a total of 40 per cent paid in 1929 by the bank.

SHAWMUT ASSOC. REPORTS ON NET VALUE OF SHARES

The Shawmut association in a report to stockholders states that the net asset value of the stock as of Nov. 30 is $23.51, compared with $22.22 at the same date last year and $27.50 on Aug. 30 at the peak of the market.

It was stated that during the recent market decline the association invested $1,840,000 in common stocks. As of Nov. 30, after the investment, the asset fund amounted to $9,789,000, including $3,874,000 cash in banks and on call.

The asset value per share of the Shawmut Bank Investment Trust is reported at $25.90 as of Nov. 30, compared with $22.95 on Nov. 30 a year ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—The stock market was nervous today. Traders could not seem to make up their minds about anything. In consequence of which the session presented an endless spectacle of mild rallies and short lived declines following each other at intervals of every fifteen or twenty minutes or so throughout the liveleng day.

Closing prices were irregular, with most of the recognized leaders pointing upward and the rest of the list a hodgepodge of plus and minus signs. Volume fell off to 3,639,000 shares.

Few stocks were consistently strong or weak throughout. As a group, the rails did somewhat better than any other section, but they were no great shakes on the final returns. The motors showed a disposition to fold up again after their little splurge of yesterday and specialties had a mixed time of it.

U. S. Steel Activity.

Aside from a small increase in the November unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation, there was no significant news to influence the day's price movements. Truth to tell, the Steel report was about what had been anticipated, and its effect was short lived and inconsequential, resulting in little more than a mild rally in this stock and a few

We Believe That Sound Bonds Should be Purchased Now

RECENT financial history has brought home once again the paramount importance to investors of keeping a substantial part of their capital placed where the principal is safe and the income is assured.

Such security of principal and stability of income is found in sound bonds. Therefore, the important question that investors face today is—What Bonds Shall I Buy?

The Research Department of Lawrence Stern and Company has endeavored to answer this question and has prepared a carefully selected list of bond offerings for year-end investment.

There appears to be a general belief that bond yields are now high in comparison to the average that will prevail over a period of years. Accordingly, the purchaser of sound, well-secured bonds at present levels will be assured of an excellent income return over a future period when the average return may be lower.

The list of recommendations prepared by our Research Department is the result of a painstaking study of present investment opportunities, with the view of selecting issues which are suitable for conservative investors and which are obtainable at favorable prices.

This list is now being printed, and as soon as it is available, we shall be glad to send a copy to any investor who requests it.

CONT. CHICAGO IS MOST ACTIVE ON EXCHANGE HERE

Closes 3 Points Higher on 36,000 Turnover.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

An irregular close followed a day of mixed price movements on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Continental Chicago corporation was the most active issue, closing 3 points higher with a turnover of more than 36,000 shares. Large blocks of the stock changed hands during the day.

Other investment shares were weak, although Chicago corporation common finished up a fraction. North West Bancorporation dropped 2½ in light sales. Utility and Industrial stocks and Burnham Trading were lower, as was Chicago Investors.

Winton Engine Shows Earnings.

Winton Engine was a strong spot in the list following announcement of earnings for the first eleven months of 1929. Net income for the period after all charges was $859,436, against $403,139 for the full year of 1928. "Seven months' income is equal to $10.59 on the common stock after preferred dividend requirements. President G. W. Codrington stated that of $1,12,045 was equal to $1.40 a share.

Closing prices of other stocks in the general list were mixed. A. M. Castle was 3 points better at the finish, closing at 56½. Material Service dropped 5½ and United States Gypsum was off 3. Williams Oil-O-Matic finished at 7, down 3 points.

The exchange committee on securities has ruled that transactions in Construction Materials may be settled by delivery of either temporary or engraved stock certificates up to and including Jan. 15, after which transactions will call for delivery of engraved stock certificates only.

Automotives Are Quiet.

Automotive stocks were quiet. Auburn spurted, had a price range of 12 points during the day, but closed unchanged, at 200. The company has declared a 2 per cent stock dividend plus the regular payment. Bendix Aviation, was unchanged after a slight fluctuation, while Borg Warner finished lower. The company reported that it has started delivery on a contract calling for 2,500 transmissions a month for a Canadian automobile firm.

Walter F. Tant states that the new Detroit plant of the Silent Automatic corporation will be ready for occupancy Jan. 1. The plant will have a capacity to increase the company's production of oil burners fivefold.

Price movements in radio shares were narrow with most of the issues displaying weakness. CeCo and Grigsby Grunow were the exceptions. The former closed up three points and Grigsby was more than a point higher on sales of about 25,000 shares.

Polymet corporation announced the declaration of a 1 per cent stock dividend in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents.

Polish Ministry Signs to Buy Ry. Equipment

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The ministry of communications have signed a contract with Lilpop, Rau and Loewenstein to provide the state railways with 14,000 freight cars and 3,100 passenger coaches on ten years' credit. The arrangement will be financed by the Standard Car Finance Corporation of America, and the credit obtained will in two years total $30,000,000.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mills were working for stable prices against the low bids of buyers of print cloths today. Strong re-orders aided and larger sales made at full prices were an argument against declines. Curtailments were gaining in effect, although large stocks prevented any immediate appreciation. Yarns were quiet. Wool goods markets were very quiet. Cotton cables were unchanged and burlaps quiet. Spot raw silks were weaker with little buying and with Japan Saiyn at new lows, although yen exchange strengthened a little.

HIGH INCOME

Plus Market Appreciation

More emphatically than ever we recommend the purchase of

Participating Class A Stock
(Listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange)

Through its subsidiaries it supplies indispensable public utility services to thousands of homes and industries in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia. Its growth is constant.

With this growth should come an increase in the Company's earning power, to be reflected in the market price of its securities. Today this Company's Class A stock yearly in Stock, or optionally nearly 7% in Cash

Throughout the recent market break and subsequently, the Class A stock showed remarkable strength and continued to sell within price ranges so narrow as to be negligible.

Be Right with Babson's

WERE you prepared for the recent events in the market by the investment service or those upon whom you have depended for advice? Babson's clients were prepared for these events.

Now! What Next? Will prices in 1930 be lower than during the November, 1929, crash or not?

But whether stocks are going up or down Babson's Reports can help you to investment opportunities. There are opportunities both in bear markets and in bull markets, but they are of a different nature. Our Continuous Working Plan for your money takes care of all conditions.

How this plan presents the opportunities as they occur is explained in our booklet, "Bigger Investment Returns." Send for your free copy now and "Be Right with Babson's."

2 OF 5 ON COUNTY PAY ROLL EXCESS LOAD—MALONE

Addresses Real Estators at Annual Banquet.

BY AL CHASE.

Two out of every five persons on the Cook county pay roll could be removed without hurt to the efficiency of the government and with the saving thereby the cost of reassessing Cook county real estate for tax purposes could be met, William H. Malone, chairman of the Illinois state tax commission, told members of the Cook County Real Estate board at their annual convention at the Palmer house last night.

The commissioner shared speech making honors with Philip La Follette of Wisconsin, son of the late Senator "Fighting Bob" La Follette, who warned the real estators that serious hurt to community life in the nation was threatened through the possibility of branch banks.

Mr. Malone placed a large part of the blame for the present chaotic condition of city and county finance on the fact that for thirty years the board of assessors had failed to advertise their assessments against property. And he asserted that the present acute situation could be attributed to the delay of the assessors in carrying out the order of the state tax commission for reassessment.

Predicts Lower Taxes.

He explained that the order for reassessment came as a result of the 1927 assessment, when 40,000 complaints of unjust taxes were filed with the board of assessors. 44,000 cases were filed in the County court and 6,000 cases were brought before the tax commission. It would have taken eighteen years to hear all these complaints, Mr. Malone said.

The tax commissioner said that upon completion of the reassessment "every honest taxpayer who didn't enjoy a fixed and uniform tax will pay a smaller amount than formerly to the government." He looked upon the present delay in the payment of taxes as an interlude during which taxpayers should take steps to end the "unthinkable overhead in the running of the government and the padded pay rolls."

"Absentee Finance Control."

"The independent or unit system of banking has furnished every community in the United States with some real control over the credits produced," Mr. La Follette said in his address. "The monopoly system is attempting to acquire complete mastery of the life blood of modern commerce, our credit.

"If all national credit passes to absent landlords in a few financial centers equality of economic opportunities will be stifled and denied to the vast bulk of the American people."

PLAN $450,000 BUILDING FOR 71ST-JEFFERY

Plans have been completed by Architect John Hocke for a three story forty-six apartment building at the southwest corner of East 71st street and Jeffery avenue, opposite Bryn Mawr station of the Illinois Central, which will represent a reported total investment of $450,000. The building will stand on a 164x110 lot and will contain seven stores in addition to the two and three room suites. The name of the owner was not disclosed.

The six apartments at 708-10 Buena avenue, lot 61x134 feet, have been transferred by quitclaim by Arthur E. Wieloeget to Theodore D. Kopelman. Charles G. Palmer was attorney for both parties.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER AFTER ERRATIC DAY

Numerous Breaks, Bulges Appear in Trading.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

While bearish sentiment generally predominated yesterday amongst wheat traders there was less disposition shown to press the selling side, especially on the declines, as prices at the inside figures showed a break of over 10c from the high of a week ago.

Price fluctuations were erratic with numerous breaks and bulges, a new low for the present movement being made early due to further unloading by scattered longs, but the technical position had been strengthened by the sharp decline of late and short covering and buying by commission houses brought about a rally toward the last with the finish ⅝@⅝c higher.

Scattered liquidation by longs was in evidence in wheat at Winnipeg for a time and that market eased, only to rally later and close ¼c@⅝c higher. Buenos Aires broke sharply toward the last and finished ¼c lower, after being 1⅝c higher at one time, while Rosario was ⅛@⅜c lower.

Export Demand Better.

With the end of the growing season in the southern hemisphere there remains only unfavorable weather for harvesting as a bullish influence in Argentina and Australia. Cutting is in full swing in Australia and new grain is coming forward rapidly, while clear weather prevailed in Argentina. Liverpool reported pressure of both new and old crop Argentine, but failed to fully reflect the decline in North America on Monday and finished 1¼@1⅝d lower. May there was 2⅛c over Chicago at the close, the widest difference in many weeks.

There was no aggressiveness in the foreign demand for cash wheat although sales of 750,000 bu Manitobas and hard winters were reported in all positions, with a good inquiry under the market. Basis at the gulf on hard winter is well maintained, and sales of No. 4 hard from several Kansas points were reported made to go to Galveston. Despite the increased movement in the southwest the Kansas City spot basis was as much as 1c higher. No. 1 hard at the gulf was said to have been sold at equal to 18¼c over Chicago December.

December Corn Tight.

December corn acted a little tight and there was no material pressure on the nearby month. Cash interests bought December, and also took that delivery and sold May, the spread narrowing to 6⅝c at the last against 7⅝c at the finish on Monday. All futures reacted toward the last with the finish 1c higher to ½c lower.

Country offerings of corn to arrive were light, and unfavorable weather was forecasted for the greater part of the belt. The spot basis was steady to 1c lower, the latter on poor Iowa grain. The large open interest in the December delivery, 9,546,000 bu is attracting attention as stocks available for delivery are limited. This has some effect on the cash market. Buenos Aires finished 3c lower to ⅜c higher, the former on December.

Trade in oats was light with the finish ¼@⅜c higher. Houses with northwestern connections sold December and bought May while cash interests did the reverse.

Longs in December rye show no signs of weakening in their position while shorts are uneasy over the failure of the market to decline, and the close was ⅝@1¼c higher. In the last two days receipts for 550,000 bu in public elevators have been cancelled, and a boat has been loaded, presumably for winter storage.

Total gold holdings, 2,944,653,000. Rate of discount, 7 per cent.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Some improvement was witnessed in the foreign demand for cash wheat, with sales in all positions estimated at 750,000 bu, including hard winters and Manitobas. Chicago handlers sold 45,000 bu wheat, 84,000 bu corn, 72,000 bu oats, and 6,000 by rye to the domestic trade. Deliveries on December contracts aggregated 502,000 bu wheat, 24,000 bu corn, 36,000 bu oats, and 76,000 bu rye.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Sentiment in the wheat pit changed several times during the day. A few big traders who were long unloaded on the bulge and houses who have been on the selling side for several days were picking up wheat on breaks. The market showed a disposition to respond more readily to commission house and professional buying, creating an impression that recent selling had resulted in liberal liquidation. Traders as a whole are not expecting the market to do much until after the turn of the year.

Wheat prices have declined about 19c of late and there is evidence of better export buying on declines. These sales bring in buying to take off hedges and afford support to the futures on breaks.

Warm rains, the best in 13 months, have fallen in the North Pacific wheat fields in the last two days, materially helping wheat conditions.

Joseph F. Jackson, commenting on the comparatively small decrease in the supply of wheat last week, says that the visible supply usually decreases after Jan. 1 and he expects a heavy reduction within the next few months.

BUTTER FUTURES ACTIVE

Sharp fluctuations in both butter and eggs were witnessed on the Chicago mercantile exchange session. Butter futures moved through a range of $240 a car to finish with net declines of $120 in December and $90 a car in January and February. Storage withdrawals continued to be disappointing to longs and receipts were increased. Sales were 202 cars, with receipts of 13,364 tubs. December eggs had a range of ¾c and closed at a net advance of $45 a car, while January closed $15 a car higher. January fresh gathered firsts lost $15 a car on light sales. Total egg sales were 203 cars, with receipts of 2,789 cases. Prices follow:

EASTERNERS SELL LARD

Eastern holders of December lard were fair sellers yesterday and distant months were offered with sufficient freedom in connection with hedging sales of January to make an easy market, with the close practically the inside with net losses 2½c to 5c. Liverpool spot lard was 3d higher and the other months unchanged. Exports were unusually large, 8,293,423 lbs.

A few trades were made in bellies, with the close 7½c to 10c lower. Cash trade was moderate, with shipments of lard and meats materially under last year's. Exports of bacon were 1,499,000 lbs.

Hog prices were strong to 10c higher early, but reacted and closed easy to 10c lower. Hog receipts in the west were about the same as a week ago, and materially under last year. Prices follow:

The action of steel epitomized the market as a whole. Traders were kept in a state of confusion and showed a marked hesitation about following the moves in any direction.

Two refreshing exceptions to the general rule of uncertainty were provided in the afternoon trading by Radio and General Electric. A tip had been passed around rather generously early in the day that Radio was in for a substantial upward movement, but the speculative element is becoming somewhat "hard boiled" on the subject of tips here of late, and the old time favorite merely lumbered along with the rest until along toward noon. With the turn of the day, however, it began to develop pronounced activity at rising prices and held the limelight from that time on to the close which left it with a net gain of nearly 6 points.

General Electric Perks Up.

General Electric after a poor morning likewise perked up after the lunch hour and had itself recorded in the finals for a net gain of more than 3 points on the day.

Among the rails, B. & O., Bangor and Aroostook, N. Y. C., and Union Pacific attracted good followings and advanced for net gains of from 1 to more than 3 points. Delaware and Hudson, C. & O., and one or two others of the section, however, were a bit soft.

Call money was maintained at 4½ per cent, with absence of outside loans at a concession, while time money was held for around 5 per cent.

UNDERGROUND FREIGHT TRANSPORTATION

Mass handling of Package Frcight by CHICAGO FREIGHT TUNNELS is fast and economical

THE efficiency of the Chicago Freight Tunnels in handling package freight arises from the nature of their equipment—underground electric—and the volume of their business. In addition to the large concerns with individual tunnel connections, more than 2,000 shippers use the tunnel's four Universal Freight Stations, strategically located outside the Loop. These stations are the assembly points where volume is gathered.

Deliver All Freight to One Station

Truck delivery of a dozen shipments to a dozen railroads means a dozen trips or a dozen calls. Tunnel delivery of a dozen shipments for a dozen railroads means one call at a Universal Station where through bills of lading over all railroads are issued. The Tunnel Company is a common carrier. It provides mass handling, and mass handling, like mass production, is modern, economical, fast and efficient.

The greater the traffic in the tunnels the smaller the traffic on the streets

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg awakens in a strange room to learn that he has been robbed of his money and traveling bag by a former college acquaintance named Jennings, after a convivial night out together. The landlady of the strange boarding house insists that he telephone some friend for money before she allows him to dress. He goes out to a hall telephone dressed in his pajamas. On the way back to his room he passes a pretty girl, who stares in astonishment at his appearance. His attorney, David Craig, sends him the money he needs.

INSTALLMENT III.

AN ENGAGEMENT TO LUNCH.

Only when John Andrew and his father were at last in the cabin of the river boat did Andrew Kellogg actually speak to his son.

"She's gone from us," Andrew Kellogg said, and John Andrew knew that this meant his mother, "and so ye've got to start bein' a man early, John Andrew. You are to get from this craft at Yokohama, where a friend will be waitin' for a lad like you. He is to put you on the China and will give the captain instructions so that he sees to it that my agent in San Francisco meets you there. And so to New York, where David Craig will see to schoolin'. Keep your money buttoned up, John Andrew, except to your friends. Mind David Craig. The boat's movin' . . . I'll come as soon as I can . . ."

And Andrew Kellogg had come as soon as he could. As if to recompense him for the death of his wife, matters changed swiftly. Makie lacquer became easier to buy. There were five good silk years in succession, and Kellogg borrowed heavily to buy hugely. A fleet of river boats was sold at a price ridiculously low, and Kellogg found that he was shipping his own merchandise. The Yokohama godown was no longer large enough to hold his shipments, and so he built another. It was foolish to pay rent for offices and so he bought the building . . . and finally sent his Tokio manager to the states to build up his own selling organization there . . .

It was almost a shock to him when he came to San Francisco at last and saw the size of the offices.

John Andrew was a skinny boy in the lowest form when his father continued on to New York; a good boy, David Craig reported, "but soft. "His companions twist him round their fingers," the lawyer said. To which Kellogg retorted that he would have time enough to grow hard.

As John Andrew grinned his way through college, never the lowest in his classes, but never near the top, it became apparent to his father that the boy indeed could be easily imposed upon. Slowly Andrew Kellogg rebuilt his organization, selling here, changing there, until the original company had become a thing almost as marketable as money; until it was represented by real estate and mortgages and bonds, which not even a poor business man could tear down. When Craig wondered at it and hinted that it was because of John Andrew, the father said, "Would ye have him go to Japan as I did, David, and have some bonny lass come as his wife and die there?"

"It isn't the lad, it was me," Andrew Kellogg said, at the end. "I remember him, five years old, and never a tear out of him, with his mother just buried under the plum tree, settin' out for the states . . . I wanted it easy for him, David." The very last thing Andrew said to John Andrew was, "It's all yours, laddie. To do with as you will, as soon as you learn how." John Andrew, who had wanted to cry, managed to achieve a trembling sort of a grin; the two men were handclasped and smiling at each other.

He lost his first job when he protested at an office manager firing a clerk for a mistake John Andrew believed was the manager's own; he lost his second job because Barbara simply had to go to the Dartmouth game; he lost his third job. . . .

And now, whistling something, he was walking up Broadway, seemingly finding the world very good.

John Andrew, as he walked, tried to think things out: Saunders had been pretty nasty. Saunders hadn't seemed to care about anything but the last order. Now he had to explain it all over again to Craig and take another tongue lashing. It was also only a question of time when Barbara found it out. John Andrew decided that the wiser thing to do would be to see her first, and when she said "What on earth are you going to do now?" merely say that he didn't know until he had talked with Craig.

He fingled some of the coins he had obtained at the hotel in his pocket and went into the first drug store.

"How good a connection you have," Barbara exclaimed. "Why, you sound just as if you were on Broadway instead of being in Utica . . . dear of you to call me, John Andrew."

"Telephones are getting better and better," John Andrew said. "Wonderful the improvements they're making in the scientific and commercial world . . . I'll bet you can almost hear the noise from the street?"

"St. William's ambulance going past."

There was a short silence, and then, doubtfully, "I didn't know there was any St. William's hospital except in New York."

John Andrew said cheerfully, "There isn't."

The pause was longer this time; it was John Andrew who broke it by saying, "I'm very low, Barbara. I haven't had any breakfast. I think I had dinner last night, but I'm not sure. Lunch is a necessity . . . you'll be where?"

Still no answer.

"Look here," John Andrew said. "I'm a sick man. I'm exhausted. I've been told that Utica is more important than Broadway and I resent it. I need to be encouraged."

"You always say 'I,'" he heard.

"You come along down for lunch and I'll say 'you' so many times that everyone will think we're on our honeymoon . . . now be a nice girl . . ."

"Aren't you working today?"

"No," John Andrew said. "Not today."

"The taxis still run, woman; be democratic. I'd come and get you, but envy does not go with your eyes, so I'm going to change." He glanced down at his rumpled suit. "I need your advice," he coaxed.

He could almost see Barbara's head go up.

"I'll come," she agreed. "You want to eat at some place where you can get a tremendous amount of food?"

"Um," John Andrew said. "The thought of food makes me weak. I'll meet you at the same place, my dear . . . by."

The use of the line about asking for advice, John Andrew knew, had decided her. Nice girl, Barbara, but a little bossy. He supposed that some day . . . what was it that Craig called her? A canny lass, well . . .

An old Japanese opened the door for John Andrew at the apartment—Kellogg Sr.'s servant, brought from the orient.

"Don't you go making fun of me, Koto," John Andrew said. "I want a bath."

"Ver' bad boy," he chided. "Friend get money again, also?"

"Um," said John Andrew.

"Koto no denakatta wa sanner d'atta," the old man said.

Kellogg had heard this protestation many times before. He asked curiously, "If you had been there, what would you have done about it?"

The Japanese made a stabbing motion through the air.

"That would make you a ver' bady boy," John Andrew told him.

After he had bathed, John Andrew found that he was not refreshed to the point where either lunch with Barbara or the afternoon with Craig were things to offer enjoyment. He did not attempt to figure ways of avoiding either; they had to be done. As if it had become a talisman, he rescued the bruised cornflowers and placed them in the buttonhole of the darker suit.

Koto, observing the flowers, offered immediate comment: "You go ras' night?"

"What? O . . . lady? Right, Koto. Very much lady."

"Ver' good."

"No, not very good, Koto——"

"Geisha?"

John Andrew laughed. "No. Very proper lady, Koto. I meant that she is going to tell me many things I won't want to hear."

Good Morning!

"In Old California," staged in the '70s, is badly directed, stupidly subtitled and tells an unoriginal and uninteresting story.

It is inferior in every respect—so why talk about it?

Ken Rouse, Grid Hero at U. of C. in 1927, Will Wed Helen King

It was officially announced yesterday that Ken Rouse, captain of the University of Chicago football team in 1927, and for that year the winner of THE TRIBUNE award for the most useful player, is engaged to Miss Helen King, the daughter of Mrs. W. R. King of 11427 Lothair avenue. Miss King was a co-ed at the University of Chicago, and the announcement was no surprise to their friends. In fact, about a year ago there had been an unofficial announcement that they later attributed to some practical joker.

This time the news is as official as his former football prowess and classroom honors, and as Miss King's membership in various clubs during her attendance at the university. The wedding is to take place before the middle of next year, though as yet no date has been set. Both of them were members of the class of 1928 at the university.

Heart Afflictions, Blindness Decrease with Better Care

How conditions among the handicapped are improving, and how more and more precaution is being taken to prevent afflictions was told yesterday at a meeting of a committee of the Chicago Woman's club at 72 East 11th street.

Measures to offset the heart disease mortality rate, which in the last 22 years has risen from 108.3 to 249.7 per 100,000 in Chicago, are being taken throughout the city, said Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary of the Chicago Heart association.

Treatment has been standardized in clinics and hospitals, and special care given to school children, she said, but there remains an urgent need for convalescent beds for cardiac cases.

"Legislation is the most important thing right now for the prevention of blindness," declared Miss Audrey M. Hayden, executive secretary of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. "Illinois has no mandatory law that babies' eyes be treated at birth, only a permissive law. Of 553 baby sore eye cases cleared through our society last year, 63 were in serious condition. Four babies lost their sight, due to negligence of two physicians and two midwives.

"Conditions, however, have improved. In 1890 28 per cent of all blindness was caused by babies' sore eyes. Last year less than 5 per cent was so caused. Next year we want the legislature to make the baby sore eye law mandatory, and some adjustment made in the law regarding midwifery."

Edith L. Swift, executive secretary of the Lighthouse, industrial school for the blind, explained that the blind are not sick and abnormal, but persons who see with their fingers instead of their eyes. Given something to do, she said, they work happily, doing their job well.

Baptists Seek 5 Millions for Work in Year 1930

Budgets for various departments of the work of the Northern Baptist church will total $5,100,000 for 1930. This was determined yesterday in a conference of church leaders from 33 states which is meeting this week at the Stevens hotel. Leaders are formulating new plans for financing the church under the leadership of Dr. William Bowler of New York.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Carl A. Starnecke, 2042 North Lawrence street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

What is your opinion of the suggestion of the city council finance committee to reduce police and fire protection so that city expenses may be cut?

The Answers.

W. E. Raymond, 3466 North Clark street, salesman—That should not be done. We need more policemen, not less. I do not know so much about the situation in the fire department. If the city had spent its funds more wisely it would not have to consider discharging policemen or firemen.

R. H. Goldman, 2623 East 77th street, writer—That would be the most ridiculous thing. In a city like Chicago with all its gamblers, to reduce the present police force is unthinkable. Certainly even those suggesting the scheme do not take it seriously. We need more policemen, not less.

E. A. Goebel, 11337 Prairie avenue, salesman—I don't believe they will do it. The public is too particular about police and fire protection. If politicians reduce those they would lose votes. My impression is, there has been too much grafting and wasting of money, otherwise public confidence would have carried the bond issues in recent elections, and the city would have funds.

R. J. Spink, 1400 East 53d street, construction engineer—That would be cutting down on the wrong part of our civic structure. Even though the city government wasted money in the past or used it unwisely, the authorities should not skimp either now or in the future. Necessary expenses for policemen and firemen should go on regardless of that.

F. R. Ernst, 900 Rush street, service engineer—They are not going to reduce the police or fire department. And they shouldn't. The number of men in these departments should be increased for the protection of life and property.

Good Fellows Form Habit of Happy Holiday

BY THOMAS WREN.

That axiom gives impetus to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual Good Fellow campaign to banish gloom and poverty from the homes of out of luck little boys and girls at Christmas. To safeguard them from any degree of unwanted embarrassment in their time of need the whole Good Fellow program is just as anonymous as Santa Claus himself.

No fanfare marks the annual crusade of TRIBUNE Good Fellows and their approach into the tenement homes of our poor little friends is not heralded with much public acclaim.

The Good Fellows' satisfaction and pleasure emanates from the fact they've saved some poor kids from climbing from bed on Christmas morning to find that Santa Claus had given them the go-by. Once the worthiness of the poor children's status is fairly established then all effort is expended to make them the happiest little kids in town. Times are when questions of doubt arise, but these are recorded in favor of the children.

For several years the employés of the Rock Island have been registering some effective work in behalf of the poor kids at Yuletide.

W. L. Linnehan is known as the Rock Island Good Fellow. He reported yesterday and requested an extra large quota of poor family applications. He stated only Good Fellows experience the thrill that comes when one sees looks of sadness turn into gladness when the poor kids realize that it's all only too true. Good Fellows are urged to visit these homes personally, but are cautioned not to leave their names.

Several days ago Grant Beebe, the principal of Lane Technical High school, called the main Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE'S Advertising and Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street and in behalf of the students registered for names of 100 poor families.

Good Fellows, Hugh Donaldson has arranged to place more girls at the Good Fellow department to enroll friends of needy kids. Call Superior 0100 or visit the 1 South Dearborn street headquarters today.

A jolly bit of lending the helping hand to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund went on yesterday and Monday at the Hotel Shoreland. There the talented artist, Maud I. G. Oliver, exhibited her clever silhouettes and a dozen or more dolls of all kinds and sizes made their bows to children. Portraits of dogs, called by a very intriguing name—furtographs—making it seem probable the artist had to steal up upon the animal unawares in order to snatch a likeness, were made by Miss Hattie Summerfield.

THEATER

MISS GRACE GEORGE would, like most actresses who reside in New York, go home next week for the high-pressure shopping; but a success in 1929 is something more important than shopping. "The First Mrs. Fraser" is a success; and, so, she will remain in the Princess for a sixth week. There are two good reasons for stating that she will not be here a seventh week: one is that she is definitely announced for Christmas-week in her husband's New-York theater, the Playhouse; the other is that the Dramatic League of Chicago owes "The Infinite Shoeblack" to its growing list of subscribers not later than the night of the 23d. However, one more week of a comedy like "The First Mrs. Fraser" is a far, far better thing for Chicago than one week less; and the town is the better for the fact that she has been able to remain six weeks rather than four for which she was booked in by the League. . . .

As the League's periods run four weeks for each play, Miss George is now "in the box-office"—meaning that she is not on subscription. However, the League is astutely and sensibly permitting patrons to include this and next week of Miss George's visit in a four-fifths subscription; that is, new subscribers may take "The First Mrs. Fraser" with the three plays yet to be given.

As to Miss George's taking Ervine's bright comedy into Mr. Brady's New-York theater, that ready impresario fears that my having said so in Monday's issue might be regarded as meaning that "Street-Scene" is at the end of its New-York run. It has been in that theater just short of a year. He wires to tell me that he will simply transfer it to another house, and that he expects it to remain on view down there not only for the remainder of this season, but into next season. As to the cast for the Chicago run, he explains in his telegram that he doesn't yet know whether he will send all the New-York actors, some of them, or a roster including none of them. . . . Having seen "Street-Scene," I am able to add the information that the identity of the actors for it really doesn't matter: it is a play calling for "types"; and the direction is everything.

Miss Draper is adding Sunday afternoon to her schedule of performances in the Selwyn. Also, it is announced in her behalf that she is altering her programmes in order that "Three Women and Mr. Clifford" may be included tonight, tomorrow afternoon, and tomorrow night. . . . And, in view of the high merits of this sketch as something for Miss Draper, I think the change is sensible.

One of the impending new plays is called "The Sap from Syracuse." . . . Another is called "Out of the East." . . . A third is called "Seven." . . . And a fourth is called "The Unsophisticates," which is a dandy title for the many persons who think that they know what sophisticates are.

"The New Moon," there since mid-September of last year, will be taken from New-York at the end of this week. . . . And "Follow Thru!" there since early in January of the present year, will be taken from the same town at the end of next week.

William Hodge hasn't, after all, thrown away the bad play called "Homicide," wherein he recently flopped in the Garrick. Instead, he has renamed it "Inspector Kennedy," and arranged to put it into New-York next week.

Uncle Sam's Baby Book Rewritten, Fixed as Diary

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Uncle Sam's best seller, "Infant Care," by the children's bureau, again is off the press, completely rewritten and revised, to include a blank record for the dates when baby held up his head, sat up, cut his teeth, crept, stood alone, walked, and spoke the first word.

Hitherto Uncle Sam has been content with advising mothers, and in so doing put out a bulletin in greater demand than any other public document, its annual distribution averaging more than a half million copies.

Conductor, Frank St. Leger.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here is another of the favorous old time operas which are so much more dependent for their effect upon their performance than in their own inherent merits. Here are tunes to be sung that need high ranking voices to sing them, and if the piece pauses here and there under the pretense of being dramatic, it is mostly make believe. The tunes are the important thing.

Wherefore it is with pleasure that one can bear favorable testimony about the performance last night. There is particular pleasure in recording the return of Frank St. Leger to the company as conductor. In his first public appearance in this performance he showed a lot of authority, as much sense of the stage, and a peculiarly agreeable way of turning a graceful phrase and building up a stout climax. The performance had both tempo and suavity.

Never since the Chicago company was organized nearly twenty years ago has it been so well off in the matter of conductors as this season. It is a condition that one devoutly hopes will continue indefinitely.

And there were singers of importance likewise. I liked especially Mr. Bonelli's monologue before his garden gate on the inconvenience, not to say annoyance, of being cursed by an injured man. It was a piece of fine art. There were further excellences in the several solos of Mr. Hackett, especially "La donna è mobile." Miss Mason, who had been reported ill, was not yet in her best voice, but that was better than the best of most other lyric sopranos. And Mr. Lazzari leads all the rest who sing Sparafucile.

One matter in the performance, however, seemed to escape most of the cast. With the exception of Mr. Hackett, who showed that he was in touch with all possibilities, the singers frequently forgot how much tone is lost to the audience by getting too far up stage while singing. One could almost tell the position of the artists by the amount of applause that went up after a number was over. One of the most applauded was the best melodty, the quartet in the last act.

Orchestra hall was a pleasant place to visit yesterday afternoon. For there Mr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra were giving another performance of the interesting "Portsmouth Point" by William Turner Walton, and following it by the symphony by Ernest Chausson, which is both interesting and fascinating—in fact, one of the finest compositions of its period.

Then came the four "Caucasian Sketches" by Ippolitow-Ivanow, all of them agreeable, but showing plainly why it is that the second of the set, "In the Village," is played more often than all the other three put together.

After the intermission Alfred Cortot came again as soloist at the piano and again hooring one of the notable successes of the season. He was as deft and imaginative and altogether satisfactory with the Schumann A minor concerto this time as he had been with the Beethoven "Emperor" last week. This means something more than the ordinary, for last week his performance was outstanding. It was entirely evident yesterday that his talents are not specialised on one composition, or, for that matter, on one composer.

Polish Artists Offer Beautiful Work at Their Current Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

If one could give stars to art exhibitions the Polish Arts club exhibit of paintings, current in their long galleries at 1200 North Ashland avenue, would deserve three at least. The exhibit is in two divisions. One group of paintings is by Polish artists, and the other group by Polish-American painters. The first is the strongest.

The finest painting in the exhibit from the standpoint of sheer beauty and craftsmanship is "To Church," by T. Axentowicz. He is a Pole. To match his canvas there is in the Polish-American division the tenderly beautiful, spiritual and haunting "Flight into Egypt," by Walter Krawiec. Matching another pair we find the modernistic "Mountaineer Village," by W. Skoczylas, a brilliant piece of strong painting, and its counterpart in treatment, "The Jewess," by Theodore Roszak, a sturdy and resolute piece of portraiture.

A thrilling painting is the glorious "Sleighing," by Kleczynski. There is nothing to match it in the American group. Another unmatched canvas is the "Roosters," by W. Rapacki, and a third and fourth that are unusually fine are "Whither Katie?" by W. Kossak, and the self portrait of J. Falat.

In the Polish-American division several paintings stand out either because of their strength of manner or beauty. "Anita," by Walter Krawiec, is an adorable little girl. Harriet Krawiec has two delicate and exquisite still lifes. Josef Rusiecki offers a pair of vigorous scenes from life. His "Gentlemen of Leisure" is as good as anything in the show. Jane J. Palcbynski offers a decorative "A Study," and a really well done "Fruit," a canvas of pure and severe coloring and line. Another brilliant piece of painting is the "Flowers," by Catherine Watta Kosicki.

The exhibition will continue through Dec. 17.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

On the Saturday after Thanksgiving Jane's father brought his employer home to dinner. During the meal she said, "What do you think we had for dinner on Thanksgiving?"

He, of course, guessed turkey.

"No," she answered, pointing to the creamed chicken, "We had chicken and this is the same chicken."

M. M. P.

Dorothy was honest. One day she said: "I'm trying to be good. Mamma, but it's awful hard. It's so easy to be naughty.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Clothing for a Little Old Lady.

"There is a little old lady between 60 and 65 years of age who must work to support herself. She scrubs in an office building. Just now she is badly in need of clothing, size 34 or 36, and shoes, size 6. Isn't there some one among your readers who could help her get this clothing?

"J. S."

It's not a pretty thought that at 65 this woman must still earn her bread and butter, and by such strenuous labor.

Eastern Girl Is Engaged to C.D. Trowbridge

BY THALIA

A fashionable engagement, unless it be between two Chicagoans, usually means that society here loses or gains one member. In this case, Chicago is to gain, some time next year, another eastern bride. For Mr. and Mrs. David Frank Webster of Bronxville, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Lillias Dell, to Calvin Durand Trowbridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Miller Trowbridge of Lake Forest.

Miss Webster attended the Brearley school and is a member of the senior class at Vassar. Mr. Trowbridge went to Hotchkiss and was graduated from Yale in 1920. Afterwards he studied law at Northwestern university, and is now with the law firm of Isham, Lincoln & Beale. No date has been set for the wedding, but I should think it would probably not take place until after Miss Webster receives her diploma.

The Bryn Mawr college club's scholarship fund is to profit from Mrs. John T. McCutcheon's lecture, "Mental Hazards Over the Andes," at the North Shore country day school on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon are to be guests of the James Lawrence Houghtelings before the talk.

Others who are to have dinners include Mr. and Mrs. Wheaton Augur, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen S. Gregory Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Scribner, and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip W. More. Mrs. McPherson Holt is taking care of the ticket sale in Lake Forest, Mrs. Walter Patterson in Evanston, and Mrs. Henry L. Stout and Miss Ruth Holloway of Glencoe. Miss Katherine Adams is president of the Bryn Mawr club and is being assisted by a large group of prominent alumnæ.

The Chicago Junior league, hostesses at their first national theater conference, and the 150 delegates representing leagues all over the United States, made a lovely assemblage at their banquet at the Drake hotel last night. The purposefulness of the gathering, however, was just as definite as the pretty clothes sense of its members.

This was speedily made evident when the last mouthful of dessert had been consumed, and the speeches of the evening were made, all sounding the note of ambition and perseverance in their common cause of promoting the children's theaters.

Miss Sarane Otis, president of the local league, welcomed the delegates, and Miss Dorothy Schmidt, director of the Chicago children's plays, introduced Miss Helena Adamowska, chairman of the National Playbox of the league, and Barrett H. Clark, author and critic. Miss Adamowska expressed great hopes for the future of the dramatic work which began with Chicago's plays in 1921 and which has developed so auspiciously that ninety-nine Junior leagues are now producing plays for children. Mr. Clark advised the leaguers to encourage the writing and producing of American plays on American subjects and to stick to their amateurism.

Miss Schmidt in amethyst velvet sat at the center of the long speakers' table with the other speakers, members of the committee who have engineered the arrangements for the three day conference so capably, and some of the prominent visitors. Miss Otis was wearing turquoise blue lace, Mrs. Latimer Goodrich, chairman of the conference, aquamarine satin; Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., seated next to Mr. Clark, black chiffon, and Mrs. Catherine Bartholomay Osborne, chairman of the entertainment committee, lemon yellow crêpe.

The conference program for today includes group meetings at 10 o'clock this morning at the Fortnightly, with Mrs. Bankhead Banks and Mrs. Isaac Carpenter leading discussions on theater and puppet and marionette problems: luncheon at the Fortnightly at 1 o'clock; program at the Selwyn theater this afternoon, with revivals of scenes from league plays, with Robert Edmond Jones criticising; small dinner parties this evening; and a program of puppets and marionettes at 8:30 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club.

The annual charity ball of the Evanston Junior league to be held this evening at the Shawnee Country club in Wilmette will be preceded by several dinner parties. Among the hostesses will be Mrs. John Carter Jr., Mrs. John F. Herdic, Mrs. Harry R. Kimbark, Mrs. Donald Lowrie, Mrs. H. L. Lucas, Mrs. William M. Parkes, Mrs. Kingsley L. Rice, Mrs. William Stahl, Mrs. Louis E. Tilden, Mrs. Hamilton Walter, and Mrs. M. C. Wheyland.

Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine gave a luncheon for 30 yesterday at her residence at 1322 Ritchie court, the group being composed of the National Society for Shut-In Workers.

Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee is expecting her son, John Borie Ryerson, and her granddaughter, Miss Mary Clark, to spend Christmas with her at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Mr. Sherfesee is to depart shortly after Christmas for New York City. There Mrs. Sherfesee will join him just before their sailing for northern Africa.

Miss Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hyde Clark, and her 6 brothers and sisters are spending the winter season on the Italian Riviera.

Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, chairman of the distinguished guest committee of the Women's City club, has arranged for Baroness Wrangel to be present at the clubrooms at the tea hour next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to tell about her Russian refugee work. Baroness Wrangel is now the guest of the Walter S. Brewsters.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Raymond Shumway and their daughter, Miss Thyrza Shumway of Evanston, have cards out for an at home on Friday, Dec. 27, from 4 to 7 o'clock in the afternoon.

HER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MISS ELIZABETH HALE.

F. O. Hale of 342 Eighth avenue, La Grange, announces the engagement of his daughter, Elizabeth, to John Hills Beardsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Beardsley of Hartford, Conn. Miss Hale was graduated in June from Wells college. Mr. Hale was graduated from Yale university in 1927.

Society Attends "Rigoletto"

Society was well represented in the audience that heard that perennial favorite, "Rigoletto," at the Civic Opera house last night. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. had a group of guests on the main floor including Mrs. Samuel G. Ordway of New York, who is visiting them this week; Mr. and Mrs. Augustus M. Eddy, and Lawrence M. Viles.

Mrs. Ordway wore a black velvet gown with a long, flowing skirt, a high-waisted bodice, and diamente shoulder straps. Mrs. Faurot wore a pale blue taffeta frock with two diagonal tiers on the skirt, and Mrs. Eddy was in white satin.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Welling and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke were guests of the Alfred Hamills. Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pike's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherfesee and Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. McGann. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Schuyler were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Folsom and Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Sharpe.

The Frederick H. Rawsons had extra chairs placed in their box to accommodate a large party including Mrs. Randall Morgan of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Robert F. Carr, and Mrs. Rawson's sister, Mrs. F. F. Kenneth Dupee of Coronado, Cal. With the Benjamin Leslie Behrs were Mr. and Mrs. George Mulford and Mr. and Mrs. William Hearther.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Stevens were hosts in their box to Dr. and Mrs. George Dick and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Dagg. Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ericson and Mr. and Mrs. John Butler were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ericson. Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift had with them Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull, Miss Caroline Kirkland, and Giorgio Polacco.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham's box was occupied by a party, including Miss Hanna M. Schmidt, Mrs. John Wright, Miss Lenore Wright, Miss Marie Urben, Mrs. Anthony Roule, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wilson.

With Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Peterson were Prof. Carl Milles, Chief Justice and Mrs. Harry Olson, Col. and Mrs. John Nyden, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ericsson, and Miss Margaret Sandegren.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Engel, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, and Mrs. Harry Veeder were guests of Col. and Mrs. George T. Buckingham. Mrs. Jacob Mortenson's box was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Butler, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fowler, and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dings. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Williams of Kenilworth, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Wakeley of Evanston, and Dr. and Mrs. Clark W. Finnerud were in the Thomas E. Wilson box.

Vittorio Trevisan Decorated for Work for Native Land

Recognition from King Victor Emanuel of Italy has been received by Vittorio Trevisan, basso of the Chicago Civic opera, in the decoration of the Order of the Crown of Italy. The presentation was made through Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general.

"It is for many little things, I think," explained the singer yesterday, when asked what special service prompted the conferring of the decoration. "I sang in benefits, concerts, many of them. There was nothing so big."

Henrotin Hospital Fund Will Benefit by Dance

The Henrotin hospital building fund will benefit from the proceeds of a dance to be held in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman, Friday night. Miss Veronica Miller, superintendent of the hospital, is chairman of the sale of tickets. Others on the committee are Sarah E. Stokes, Dr. John J. Eichstaedt, Dr. P. P. O'Connor, D. E. B. Munns, William Parillo, Mrs. William J. Leahy, and Carleton Coon of the Coon Sanders orchestra, who will furnish music.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10. — The Chilean ambassador and Senora de Davila gave a dinner tonight in honor of Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia symphony orchestra that gave a concert here this afternoon.

The debutante of this afternoon was Miss Engracia Freyer, daughter of Capt. Frank B. Freyer, U. S. N. Among those assisting Mrs. Freyer at the tea dance presenting her daughter were Mrs. Sutherland, wife of Justice George Sutherland of the Supreme court; Mrs. Barnett, wife of Maj. Gen. George Barnett; Mrs. William Fitch Kelly of Chicago and Washington, and Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, formerly of Chicago.

Mrs. Ernest Leseure of Danville, Ill., arrived today to be the guest of her sister, Miss Helen Cannon in her home on R. street. Mrs. Leseure's daughter, Mrs. Dorsey Richardson, who was operated on for appendicitis a few days ago, will join them in Miss Cannon's home, shortly, and will remain for a short time before joining Dr. Richardson in their home in Paris. Mrs. Leseure will spend the winter with Miss Cannon, who was hostess for their father the late representative Joseph G. L. Cannon during his official career.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10.—Miss Margaret Dittmar gave a dinner party this evening for Miss Marjorie Heather and Henry Davies Roulston, who are to be married Jan. 7.

David Granger Jr., who is sailing on the Berengaria Friday, gave a theater party last evening and later took his guests to the Club Lido.

Mrs. Ralph Seward Allen gave the second in a series of luncheon parties at Sherry's today for about thirty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goadby will give a dinner in honor of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Goadby, in the Ritz-Carlton on Dec. 28, preceding the first metropolitan dance.

Public School Pupils Give Concert Today at Orchestra Hall

The spirit of Chicago in music will be demonstrated in a program to be given by the music department of the public schools today at the third semi-annual civic assembly in Orchestra hall.

The feature of the assembly will be the presentation of the Julius Rosenwald leadership medals to forty-seven representative students of the city. Three high school seniors will also be awarded the Rosenwald scholarship to the University of Chicago.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra; Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Civic opera; Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university, and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. The musical program has been arranged by Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of the school board's music department.

The forty-seven students to be honored are members of the senior high, junior high and continuation schools and represent every community of the city.

Austin High school won twelve places at the preliminary solo contest for west side high school bands held yesterday at McKinley High school. Harrison won six places, and Medill, Marshall and Crane each won one place. The contest for south side schools will be held today at the Englewood High school, the winners of which will compete with the north and west side entries Friday night at the Crane Junior college.

Breakfast, Bridge.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Flirting with the Puppet.

O, you embarrassing moments! It was at a county fair, and I was there. At the main exhibit building there was a Farmers' Livestock association advertising nook. A little doll cowboy with a cane would automatically turn the pages of a book that told of the association's activities and purposes.

While turning the pages his big blue, black lashed eyes would goo-goo at the watchers and his lower jaw would open and close to display a cute smile, while his head moved from side to side. While watching it I suddenly noticed that people around me were snickering and smiling behind their hands while they covertly watched me.

Imagine my dismay when I suddenly realized that I had unconsciously been mimicking every eye and chin movement of that flirtatious little cowboy!

"THE SHAME WOMAN"

Always Human, Osborn Believes, Recanting.

New York, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—For nearly two hundred years careful, precise scientists toiling in their laboratories over microscopes clapped to crumbling bones, have seriously and solemnly assured us that man descended from the ape, or at least from a common ancestor; and that man lived in trees, swinging gaily from branch to branch, only a few million years ago.

Now comes Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, director of the American Museum of Natural History and one of the most distinguished zoölogists and paleontologists in the world, to challenge the tale and hold it up to ridicule and scorn.

Dr. Osborn wishes it known that he has seceded from his scientific brethren. He announces his emphatic belief that the ape man is a myth and that man has been human through all his evolution—a creature apart and distinct from the ape—and that about all that man has in common with the ape is a mammalian origin.

Eden in Gobi Desert.

Being a scientist, Dr. Osborn has little to do with Adam and Eve and the green fields of Eden, but he has discovered for himself a Garden of Eden which he is convinced was the true and authentic garden, and in the scientific sense. This is the great Gobi desert in central Asia, one time empire of Genghis Khan and the Tartar conquerors.

Upon the great central Asian plateau, a windswept and treeless region, the first man lived, says Dr. Osborn, recanting his long held ape-man theories, and the first men could not have been forest dwellers. The first men did not live in trees. They were human creatures that walked upright.

Change of View Recent.

As startling as it is to his scientific confrères, Dr. Osborn's change of mind is quite recent. As he says himself, in Human Biology for January, 1929, he was entirely of the belief until 1924 that man was truly descended from apelike ancestors, not very remote from the chimpanzee; apelike ancestors who inhabited tropical forests and who fled to the nearest tree whenever danger threatened.

He believed for many years that Darwin was right in the theory that the Dawn men, forerunners of the human race, were tree dwellers, covered with hairy coats. He believed that both sexes were bearded, that the creatures had pointed ears which could be moved this way and that by muscular effort.

Due to Bone Structure.

His first misgivings, he said, arose from two indisputable facts. First, that the limb proportions of all the primordial races of men—the Trinil, the Neanderthal, the Cro-Magnon*—had not revealed a trace of ape ancestry. They were 100 per cent prohuman. Despite the chimpanzeelike resemblance in the beetling brows of the Neanderthal and the Trinil races, the femora in both these races told a different story. In other words, man of the Neanderthal period of 500,000 years ago might have looked like an ape, but was very far from being an ape in his bone structure.

"The actual, as well as the ideal environment of the ancestors of man," says Dr. Osborn, "was not in the warm forested lowlands of Asia, but in the relatively high, invigorating uplands of a country such as central Asia was in Miocene or Oligocene time—a country totally unfitted to any form of anthropoid ape."

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Worth Trying

Elmer Happy as Radio Gets Out of Routine

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Radio broke away from routine last evening, for which it is certain the listening audience was thankful.

But first, let's dispose of the Joan of Arc production from New York through W-G-N, from 8 to 9 o'clock. This was a duplicate of the powerful performance given about a year ago. The production last night, like the previous one, was one of the most impressive ever presented on the radio. If I am not mistaken, the interluding orchestral music was entirely Wagnerian.

Praise is much deserved by Harry Gilman, violinist, who played but one solo on the W-G-N program from 9:30 to 10. Mr. Gilman is a strong, virile player; a recital by him would be most welcome. Or, a joint recital by Mr. Gilman and the prima donna soprano on this same program would be an excellent event.

The first half of the program by the Hamilton club male chorus was broadcast from the club's main dining room through WLS, from 8:15 to 9 o'clock. It was a tremendously pleasing concert. The program makeup was the equal of any I have yet heard by this chorus; the broadcast itself was far clearer than any previous one. In this respect the broadcast seemed to be as near perfect as need be and the tone of the chorus was both more solid and sonorous than on previous concerts.

Miss Sophie Braslau, contralto, was the guest soloist on an orchestral program through KYW, from 7:30 to 8. This much admired concert and radio singer was in excellent voice and mood. She has considerably improved in voice and style of singing since first heard in radio a few years ago. Her voice is now attractively resonant and flexible.

The broadcast of the Illinois Manufacturers' association banquet addresses at the Hotel Stevens, through WBBM, from 9:30 to 10:50 o'clock, was highly enjoyable and instructive, particularly the address by Charles M. Schwab.

Ethel Kinlock Maxwell Dies at Suburban Estate

Ethel Kinlock Maxwell, daughter of Emily Maxwell and the late James Maxwell, Chicago pioneers, and a sister of Miss Jennie G. Maxwell, died on Monday at Maxwellton, near West Chicago. Miss Maxwell attended Miss Mason's school at Tarrytown, N. Y. Her parents lived for many years on South Ashland boulevard and more recently at Maxwellton. The funeral services for Miss Maxwell will be held at Kamp's undertaking chapel, Wheaton, tomorrow.

MEDICAL BOARD PONDERS STAND ON HEALTH CLINIC

All matters pertaining to the future attitude of the Chicago Medical society toward the Public Health institute were referred to the medical society's public relations committee by the organization's general council at a meeting last night in the society's headquarters, 185 North Wabash avenue. The situation has been the subject of controversy since Dr. Louis E. Schmidt was expelled from the society because of his connection with the Public Health institute.

The entire question of recognition for the institute, which came under the physicians' ban because it advertised extensively, will be decided by the committee after a series of conferences with the new advisory board of prominent physicians which the institute appointed recently. The advisory board will be given plenty of time to study the clinic's methods of operation and Dr. Charles B. Reed intimated that it would be several months before the society's committee would be ready to report.

Dean Irving S. Cutter of Northwestern university medical school is chairman of the medical society's committee. The health institute's advisory board includes Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, Dr. Joseph L. Miller, Dr. Joseph A. Capps, and Dr. Arthur D. Black.

ROMAN CHURCH TO BEATIFY 136 BRITISH MARTYRS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 10.—In the presence of Pope Pius XI. the general congregation on rites met this morning and set the final stamp of approval on the procedure for the beatification of the 136 English martyrs who were executed during the 200 years following the split between England and the Catholic church under the reign of Henry VIII.

The decree of beatification will be read next Saturday in the presence of the pope. The ceremonies of beatification will be held on Sunday in St. Peter's.

Follows British Anniversary.

The Vatican's move to beatify the English martyrs follows the recent observance in England of the one hundredth anniversary of the granting of political rights to English Catholics.

The list of martyrs contains two who were executed by Henry VIII., eighty-five by Queen Elizabeth, fifteen under James I., sixteen by Oliver Cromwell, and eighteen under Charles II. It will be one of the greatest beatifications in recent history.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW FOR F. L. WELLS

Funeral services for Frederick Latimer Wells, manufacturer of railway supplies and a life long resident of Chicago, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at Graceland cemetery chapel. Mr. Wells, who was 63 years old, died on Monday at the Presbyterian hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Wells is survived by his widow, Katherine Adams Wells; two brothers, Arthur B. Wells of Boston and Walter Alger Wells of New York, and a sister, Mrs. Lewis Seymour of Binghamton, N. Y.

His residence was in Wheaton. He also had homes in Sarasota, Fla., and Pasadena, Cal. He was one of the founders of the Chicago Golf club, a governor of the Art institute, a member of the Cliff Dwellers, the Chicago Yacht club, and the Illinois and Chicago Historical societies.

Feels Young Again Enjoys Hard Work

Millions of men and women all over the world take Kruschen Salts daily—not because they are really sick, mind you—but because they know the little daily dose of Kruschen keeps them always fit, energetic and free from fat, and also keeps the system free from over acidity.

People who take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning won't have headaches, and are always free from constipation, depression, dizziness, coated tongue and unpleasant breath.

If you want joyous health and glorious vigor—if you want to work hard and enjoy your work—try taking Kruschen Salts every day—it isn't a purgative or cathartic but after two weeks you won't have any further use for slam-bang medicines—your bowels will be regular. Ask any dealer anywhere in America for an 82c bottle of Kruschen—it vitalizing salts combined in one—one bottle lasts 4 weeks. Sold the world over. F. Coffin the Hughes, Inc. Rochester, N.Y.

LONDON FEARS FLOOD; KEEPS EYE ON THAMES

Police Sit on Banks to Sound Alarm.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Extraordinary precautions are being taken to warn Londoners inhabiting dwellings along the Thames in case of anticipated floods.

The river continues to rise as a result of an avalanche of water from tributaries swollen for five days as a result of the storm which, according to latest figures, caused a loss of 184 lives, most of whom perished at sea. The spring tides begin Dec. 16, and it is feared that the combination of the flood waters and high tides will mean inundation to certain sections of London.

Put Guards Along Thames.

The Thames is now three miles wide in certain parts and the river has risen 11 inches in the last 24 hours at one point. Guards are stationed at the south end of the river's mouth, where gauges measure the height of the tide. Any large tide will be telephoned to London. As it takes the tide 90 minutes to reach London, special squads of police from Scotland Yard will have time to warn residents at the edge of the Thames to abandon homes and offices.

France Fears New Storm.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP)—France had something of a respite today from the wild storm that has been sweeping the coast and the inland districts.

Channel services, with the exception of one line, were still running irregularly this afternoon. The airplane service, however, in general was able to run on something like schedule after a three days' halt.

Bremen Three Days Late.

New York, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The terrific ocean gales have delayed from one to three days arrival of passenger liners in New York. The liner Bremen, which holds the record for transatlantic crossings, today was reported three days late. Radio advices said she did not expect to reach New York until Friday morning and reported heavy seas and storms.

The French liner, the France, will arrive Thursday, about 35 hours behind schedule. Among other liners delayed is the Cunarder Berengaria, which will arrive Thursday, two days late.

D. H. Weiss, Wholesale Clothier, Dies, Aged 61

Daniel H. Weiss, 61 years old, a wholesale clothier at 624 Roosevelt road, died yesterday at his home at 6027 Winthrop avenue after a long illness. Mr. Weiss had been a resident of Chicago for 42 years. He was a member of the Covenant and other clubs and of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, and one son.

EXPLAINS TRANSFER OF RADIO CO. SERVICE TO T. & T. COMPANY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—Details of the unwritten agreement for transfer of the communications services of the Radio Corporation of America to the International Telephone and Telegraph company for $96,000,000 worth of the latter's stock were explained to the senate interstate commerce committee today by Owen D. Young, chairman of the boards of the General Electric company and the Radio corporation, during testimony favoring unification of international communications systems.

"The 'preliminary understanding,' he said, welcoming an opportunity to explain the agreement entered into last February and contingent upon removal of statutory barriers, called for transfer of 400,000 shares of International Telephone stock to the Radio corporation, half on delivery and the remainder in five annual installments of 40,000 shares each.

Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.], long identified with radio legislation, wanted to know how the price was arrived at, and Mr. Young responded: "It was arrived at because I fixed it."

He then detailed the reasons by which he arrived at the 400,000 share figure.

GOOD'S ESTATE IS SET AT MORE THAN $300,000

The inventory of the estate of James W. Good, late secretary of war, was filed yesterday before Leon Edelman, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. It lists stocks and bonds valued at $200,000. A supplement to the inventory, listing Mr. Good's farm lands in Canada, Minnesota, and Iowa, which will be filed soon, will bring the value of the estate to more than $300,000, it was announced by his former law firm, Sanders, Childs, Bobb & Wescott. Mr. Good died in Washington on Nov. 18 after an operation for appendicitis. He was 63 years old. His will left the estate to his widow, Mrs. Lucy D. Good, 1414 Forest avenue, Evanston, and at her death to two sons, James W. Jr., 19 years old, and Robert Edmund, 12. At the time the will was filed the estate was estimated at only $115,000.

Old, but Ever New Question About Santa Crops Up

A booklet, entitled "Toy and Plaything List for Christmas," suggesting toys for different ages, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"What shall I tell my children about Santa Claus?" is an eternal question. Every year some parents ask it—of themselves or of some one else.

Every year grown people discuss among themselves the place the Santa Claus myth should have in the lives of children—so much so that a great newspaper some years ago published an eloquent editorial on preserving Santa Claus, which became famous and was reprinted and reprinted.

Even early in November I had letters from parents who were wondering what to do about it—they didn't want to rob the children of the genial, jolly saint with his workshop at the north pole, and his sleigh and tiny reindeer. Neither did they want to give their children something to unlearn, nor put them in the way of unhappiness from being disillusioned later on. Also, many parents don't like to have their children believe that Santa Claus gives them everything at Christmas time.

Well, these are quite difficult aims to reconcile, and I do feel that people have to be guided by their individual opinions, if those are strong. If, for instance, you really feel that you're lying to your child about actual facts when you tell him there's a Santa and that he squeezes down the chimney, then I don't think you should tell him so. As this mother does, who writes, "We don't tell them anything that we couldn't swallow—have never lied to them about anything. The Christmas season means so much to children, why spoil it with lies?"

If, on the other hand, it is all like fairy lore to you, and you give it that touch of a combination of reality and unreality, that is a different matter.

Of course, I realize that this isn't settling the matter for those parents who have no strong feeling except that they want to do what will bring most real happiness and benefit to their children. What they want are really definite suggestions as to what stand they shall take. No one can dictate, because much depends on the parent and much on the kind of child—his keen logic, sense of justice, kind of imagination, etc. But since an expression of opinion is so earnestly asked for, the only thing I can do is give my own conclusions in tomorrow's article.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Broiled Smoked Fish.

The lightly cured whitefish, or its near and usually larger relative, the Canadian tullibee, being considerably less strong than red herring and lightly cured, seems to have increased in popularity every winter for some time past.

These fish can be boiled, and when served with a piquant green salad with onion make a dish good enough for a dinner of some pretense. When boiled the water should be rather highly seasoned with vegetables and the fish cooked about twenty minutes. The fish should be very well cleaned and dry before it is dropped into the boiling water and then cooked only till the flakes separate easily. This boiled fish is good with no other sauce than plain butter.

To broil this smoked white fish or its relative, clean it and scald it and then boil it five or six minutes to a side, take up, remove the skin, then take off the fillets carefully, add butter, and serve them with lemon juice. They may be served in a border of boiled and buttered rice, sprinkled with egg yolk, kedgeree fashion. The flakes of this broiled smoked white fish make good appetizers.

But many people are still devoted to the strong, old time red herring. For one red herring broiled, allow one tablespoon of butter, a half cup of milk, lemon juice, and a bit of pepper or not, as you choose. Heat the herring after wiping it with a wet cloth so that the skin may be stripped off readily, split the fish open, put it on a deep plate, and pour over the milk which has been brought to a boil. The milk ought to cover the fish.

Cover the whole then with another plate, or something which fits closely, and set it where it will be warm for one hour. Strain off the milk, wipe the fish, rub the split side with butter, and broil until nicely browned. Serve on a hot dish with a squeeze of lemon juice.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Work now being done to discover better varieties of nut trees, and improved strains found in the last few years are forerunners of the development of an important nut growing industry, predicts Prof. G. B. MacDonald of Iowa State college. Almost unlimited opportunities for commercial production of nuts are offered by thousands of acres of waste or overflow land in Iowa, he says.

In the last few years many improved varieties of walnuts, butternuts, shellbark and shagbark hickories and chestnuts have been found. These nuts have a thin shell, good flavor, size and ability to produce regularly which are desired in a commercial nut tree.

Some of these have been discovered by a few interested persons sending samples of good nuts to the Forestry department here for inspection. Cuttings were taken from the desirable trees and grafted on to root stocks. Nuts must be propagated by budding or grafting, similarly to apple propagation, if the desired qualities of the tree are to be maintained.

Land suitable to the propagation of nut trees may be secured for $25 an acre. Much of the steep slope land or overflow land on river bottoms which is now idle is well adapted to this industry.

The nuts best adapted to Iowa, says Prof. MacDonald, probably are the good producing varieties of black walnuts and the more hardy chestnuts.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

Employers Choose Girl with Neat, Not Eccentric Coiffure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A story was told me the other day about a young woman applicant for an office position. The personnel director asked her if she would please remove her hat. At which the young woman flared up: "I'm not that kind of girl, I'd have you understand, Mr. ——!"

It proved, however, that her interpretation was unfounded. The employer had a theory that you could tell much about the possessor's characteristics from the condition of her hair and her coiffure. Color was of no concern to him, but a mussy head was something to draw conclusions from.

Perhaps this was not a fair test, many women will argue, since hat removing without disturbing the hair is not one of the best cultivated arts. But in an interview with employment heads recently given out the fact that more and more employers and personnel directors are asking applicants to take off their hats was indicated. It was explained by one that, while the style of coiffure did not matter so much as that the head be smart and orderly looking, still one could not take a chance on hiring a miss whose uncovered head might reveal one of those wildly extravagant hair womafi. half child coiffures that look ridiculously out of place in a business institution.

All of which goes to prove that it isn't only what's in the head that counts when a-job hunting. If you've got something inside that's worth selling, you'd better dress it up in good sellable style. And that means, for business use, a nice conservativeness. You can be just as attractive looking as you want to be in business, but from head to heels you are expected to look in keeping with the surroundings.

That lets out the freak hairdressings the moment may encourage for festive night club wear, or for the baby party some girls manage to look as if they were about to attend.

He's Disillusioned Because She Smokes 'n' Even Takes a Drink

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The world, we think sometimes, surely has turned on the male sex. Fancy in gramma's day a situation that could provoke a fiancé's complaint such as that embodied in Edward's letter.

The woman for whom he sweated and toiled to present a fair sized diamond deceived Edward on two points. Even her mother and father have been victims of the girl's deceit. She drinks and she smokes! Neither is a confirmed habit—but she hasn't the will power to say "No."

"Just a little drink now and then won't hurt you!" she now tells the doubting Edward. (A familiar ring to those words—only the sex in the voice is so strangely different.)

"And I've explained to her the laws of hygiene that I've learned from the highest authorities in the world," Edward argues; "how smoking and drinking affect the nervous system. And what an example, I've reminded her, for children. A mother with smoke pouring out of her nose and the smell of liquor on her breath!" And so on and so on from Edward.

There is no way now to avoid the matrimonial state with "this one," Edward calls her. She has his ring, his promise, and the wedding date is set!

We did not mean to be flippant about Edward's quandary. Only the way the tables have turned on vices that were once supposed to belong only to the male is nothing short of incongruous. Not funny, understand. Incongruous. Drinking, card gambling (and stock) affairs and so on. Smoking, unless done to excess, can hardly be classified among the major vices. Nevertheless, the Edwards of the world and the Johns and the Jims and Alberts and the Josephs cling to the dream picture of the mother of their children without taint of smoke or smell of liquor. And if you ask us, it's going to be a sadder day for women than some of them think it is at this very minute, if men abandon that picture entirely.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

She Breaks Dates.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend makes dates with me. Sometimes she keeps them; sometimes she doesn't.

"JOHN."

Have her understand she must keep her dates, otherwise there won't be any more.

Stiff Silk Bows Simulate Bustles

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Many of the newest evening gowns make a stiff bow to society. One means by this that a feature of the mid-season offerings of some of the greatest French dressmakers is the use of stiff silk for the evening mode. Callot, for example, stresses faille. Worth uses much stiff satin, which is also a favorite Callot medium. Many of the other houses indicate this advancing cult of the stiff silk in creations of moire, satin, taffeta. Regarding the last named, it is interesting to find ibis pink taffeta featured for evening wear by Martial et Armand, while the same fabric partiality is indicated in navy and black taffeta gowns for afternoon wear.

Although I did not wilfully perpetrate a pun at the beginning of this little opus, I must say that the stiff bow part is well carried out by numerous bustlelike draperies observed in some of these new stiff silk evening gowns. Here, however, the slenderizing fabrics are in no wise defective. For the bustle inspiration never seems to wear out. Frequently in gowns of crêpe and chiffon we encounter the deep V of the back terminating a loop or bow recalling that dress mannerism of the eighties.

The above frock of flat crêpe carried out in two tones—red for the corsage and black for the skirt—indicates our meaning. Here a loop of the black material embroidered in the same gold motifs decorating the corsage is attached to the deep V of the back. It is adjusted by a red composition ornament, also showing a fleck of gold, and it is developed into a cascading train. Balancing this backward attention, a scarf of red embroidered in gold goes from shoulder to shoulder of the front decolletage.

As a last word, do not forget that, in spite of the inroads of stiff silks flat crêpe, georgette, and other soft materials are still going strong.

SALESMEN

Who Want to Make Big Money Before Christmas

We Recently Sold 100,000 Items in Six Weeks

We are selling six articles in a line which is probably three times over the greatest line of Christmas merchandise sold this year. Easily one million people in Chicago are going to buy this kind of merchandise during December. Various men in our organization have already made a dozen sales—twenty-five sales and up to as high as fifty to one hundred sales of this merchandise in a day.

We sold approximately 100,000 items the first six weeks we were in business, starting in July. With the approaching of Christmas, sales resistance is growing less every day and our business is growing by leaps and bounds.

One item we sell, with a $15 retail value costs the salesman only $1.85 and sells at over one hundred per cent profit. One salesman recently reported sixty sales in one office. Two other salesmen reported $100 profits the first five hours in the field. They took out merchandise to prove their earnings.

There is probably not one man in ten who will answer this ad who cannot sell this merchandise profitably. This big earnings, of course, are made by good salesmen, but any ordinary salesman should be able to make $25 per day and up from now until Christmas. The earnings of hustlers and money makers are only limited by their energy and ability.

There is still time to make big earnings before Christmas if you act immediately, as you can learn to sell this proposition in ten minutes. Sales are made quickly—a two or three minute demonstration is usually all that is necessary. The harvest season is here—the time is short—quick action is necessary, but a salesman ever made money without action. Every day from now until Christmas sales become easier, but it is vitally important to start without any further delay. Call at once—Room 2005, 35 E. Wacker-dr.

IOWA BOWS BIG TEN; B 22 ATHLE

Decides Sphere Conference

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 11.—[S The athletic board of the U of Iowa, after a session las early afternoon almost until tonight, decided by resolu the university's proper sp within and not without the conference.

And as a demonstration mean what they said, the bo lated completely to demand upon the university by th committee of the Big Ten a last Saturday and in doing s twenty-two athletes ineligible

The Big Ten faculty comm two day session had upheld resolution severing athletic between the other nine insti the Western Intercollegiate ence and the Hawkeyes. I was virtually ousted from Ten.

Action Was Unexpecte

Ever since the announcem five out of nine of the Big Te believe that Iowa was since pies that recruiting and subs athletes had been abandoned ati leaders have been in a Coaches have been attem schedule games, alumni have suing statements condemning Ten action, and the faculty seething.

But the athletic board's surrendering to the demand Big Ten faculty committee c bombshell. Formal resignati the Big Ten had been anticip one in authority at the unive predicted that the universit choose to remain in thec onfe

Williams Defended Fu

Iowa's complete surrender was marked by the board's toward the so-called "Belti fund." This was excoriated James Paige of Minnesota, the faculty fight on Iowa's tance. It was also the chief attack on Iowa made by Fiel of Michigan in a meeting of letic directors.

Dean C. C. Williams, facul sentative of Iowa, and Edwa athletic director, defended and refused to yield to Paige' that all athletes who had loans from the fund be de eligible.

That was the rock over w Iowa delegates and the Big uity members split.

Iowa Admits Big Ten Was

The Big Ten called the fu lation of conference rules, a refusal to bar athletic rec loans proof that Iowa h formed.

Tonight the Iowa athle admitted that the conferenc was justified and thereupo the twenty-two athletes ine

Among the twenty-two the five were made known after meeting. They are Oran P ball star of Dubuque; Irvin football star of Omaha, N Affre, substitute football p star basketball player of Qu Steward Leeka, football sub pendence, Mo., and Mike Fa back, who tonight was el captain of next year's Hawke

The athletic board also ask the Big Ten to send a Iowa City shortly to whether or not Iowa should state these athletes.

Brennahan Is Defend

The only point on which Board refused to bow to 'he will was on the matter w be on the Iowa athletic s board refused to recognize of the conference to dictat should or should not coach

The text of the resolution:

"Whereas the board of the University of Iowa, beli Iowa's proper field of comp within the conference, is of ion that it should continue ship, and will conduct the a tion of athletics in confor the principles established by collegiate conferences.

"The intercollegiate conf nies the Iowa petition in la ure because the athletic boa candidates as eligible certain ...ith had borrowed money fr ...which was unethical in its ...ith board again affirms tha
